General Health Conditions Normal

"In the past year while the City has had the usual sporadic cases of communicable diseases, none reached epidemic proportions and in general the health of our citizens remained normal."

"In the autumn a number of cases of infantile paralysis was reported, but the greater majority came from the rural areas rather than urban."

"Outside toilets continue to be a source of annoyance, but fortunately time is eliminating most of these, and our new by-law governing outside toilets should completely eliminate this source of menace."

"Our water supply continues to maintain its high standard of purity. Under the Provincial Department the school children are examined for communicable diseases, skin diseases, and also for physical defects such as teeth, tonsils, vision, hearing etc. and if found parents are notified."

"The City is no worse and is possibly much better off than most cities of its size. It is true here as well as everywhere else that homes should be built some way or other for the lower income group of people. No new houses have been built with the lower income group entirely in mind — and they constitute the larger portion of our population."

"The founder George Williams would be lost if he entered a Y.M.C.A. building today and asked the present position of the organization, which has changed to meet the modern needs of young men and women of the world over."

"The president, Rotarian George Walters, read a letter from Miss Verna D. Darrach, Red Cross Director of Crippled Children Work, thanking the Rotarians for their contribution."

Reviews Century Of "Y" Activities

"The Rev. J. D. Davison, B.A., B.D., minister of Baptist Church, Charlottetown, was guest speaker at Rotary luncheon yesterday."

"The speaker recalled that a college professor had told him that there were a great many more temptations for young people today than when he was a young man, and moreover today the temptations had jam on them."

"The room is still preserved as a memorial in which the first gathered together 12 young men for Bible study and the formation of a society which would be influential in changing the lives of hundreds of the other young men of the city who were in need of spiritual benefit."

"The founder George Williams would be lost if he entered a Y.M.C.A. building today and asked the present position of the organization, which has changed to meet the modern needs of young men and women of the world over."

Regular Meeting Zion Men's Group

Rev. J. D. Davison, minister of the Charlottetown Baptist Church, was the guest speaker at the regular meeting of the Zion Men's Brotherhood, held in Zion Church hall last evening.

Taking as his subject the Y.M.C.A. observance of its 100th anniversary, which is being held this year, Rev. Mr. Davison spoke on the life of its founder, George Williams. He told how this simple dry goods clerk of London, England, founded the organization for promotion of the spiritual welfare of young men.

He then traced the development of the "Y" to its present high status of over two million membership. Rev. Mr. Davison said that the more than fifty men present that the "Y" work is first personal contact, second, united service, and third study of the Bible.

Concluding his address, he said the founder's main principle had been "one man for the many," and that the "Y" today still follows this motto.

The appreciation of the meeting was very ably expressed to the guest speaker by Mr. R. MacNutt, President of the Brotherhood.

He further submitted that "this progressive expenditure on the part of the Council was justifiable and imperative, and that when the Board's findings are put on a sound working basis, our citizens will acclaim this expenditure to be one of the greatest investments any Charlottetown Council has ever made."

Intimating that "we have arrived at what we may call the 95th milestone in the history of our City," His Worship gave the following review of civic activities, carried out under the supervision of the several committees of the Council.

"New asphalt streets, new paved parking areas, new concrete sidewalks, new bathing houses and a new keeper's house in the Victoria Park. The new reinforced concrete storm sewer and culvert for Government Pond stream and the acquiring of new essential machinery speaks a busy year for the members of the Street and Public Property Committees and are criterions of a progressive city. I know the reports by the chairman of these two very important activities, Messrs. Stewart and Keefer tell of the immensity of the work that has been performed during the year."

"Your Police Department under the direction of Councillor Cox has also had a busy year. Much time and thought have been given to traffic regulations and to the parking areas.

Revaluation of Property — "With the constant increase in costs of material, with the constant demands for increased wages, and with the purchase price of land locations at an all time high, the building of new commercial establishments, new homes, and renovation of old ones, etc. have reached a figure far beyond their actual value."

"Comparing these costs with the cost of buildings of similar construction erected prior to the war, and after allowing for depreciation there existed an inequality in their valuations for assessment purpose which caused much dissatisfaction among these owners of real estate."

"Realizing this condition existed and wishing to put our assessment on a more equitable basis, though the Federation of Municipalities the Westmount Realities Co. was engaged to supply a local Board of Valuers appointed to revalue all the real property in this City, and present to this Council their findings."

"The work of this Board has not been completed at the year 1950 should be on a basis of assessment established on an equitable percentage of a true valuation."

"The Municipality has been subject to heavy increases in the cost of Government, that is in supplying larger and more up to date public services, and general increase in costs in new areas which are being developed; increased educational costs; increased administrative costs, etc."

"As most of the revenue to pay for these essential charges is a tax on the real and personal property of this City, and if these are to continue and if we must continue to pay to keep our City comparable with other cities, then additional revenue must be obtained either by an increase in the property value or by an increase in the tax rate. This condition is not applicable to Charlottetown only, but is general throughout the whole Dominion."

"In conclusion, your Worship may extend our sincere thanks to you and the other members of your Council for the complete co-operation we received, and to the City Clerk and his staff for their hard and conscientious work during the past year, and for the courtesies extended us. They have performed their duties efficiently, faithfully and impartially."

"The report which any Finance Committee can make is only so good as the other members of the Council allow it to be. It is our duty to curtail any unnecessary expenditures by bringing them to the attention of the Council, but it is powerless to prevent these expenditures unless it has the co-operation of the remaining five members of this Council."

"I feel this co-operation was much in evidence during the past year. We had a busy year, and the auditors' abstract from the records of the ledgers in the City Clerk's office show where the money was spent. The deficit was caused by a re-valuation, which when completed will bring in financial returns which will offset many times, in the years to come, its initial cost."

65th Mileston — Intimating that "we have arrived at what we may call the 95th milestone in the history of our City," His Worship gave the following review of civic activities, carried out under the supervision of the several committees of the Council.

Memorial Field To Be Illuminated

Prospects this year for the illumination of Memorial Field to provide for night ball as well as track and field events, were indicated in the report of Coun. Wendell H. Beaton, chairman of the Light Committee, submitted at last night's meeting of the City Council.

"I am happy to see a new power line through the center of the Park," the report stated, "and I believe Brigadier Reid, acting on my suggestion, has acquired some extra long creosote poles to be utilized as light standards for the lighting of the field."

Coun. Beaton's report expressed disappointment that he was unable to obtain from the Maritime Electric Company a proposal for the illumination of the boulevard around Victoria Park. The plans submitted to him were neither practical nor feasible, and he would not recommend them to the Council. However, he felt that Mr. Ainsworth and Mr. MacLeod will have a proposition to place before the Council for the present year, which will be acceptable in its entirety. The great difficulty seems to be not so much the type of light as the standard on which this incandescent fixture is carried.

He commended the improvements at the Maritime Electric Company plant, and stressed the magnitude of electricity released from the high power output generators represented a great improvement.

Details were given in the report of seven new lights, placed during the year on recommendation of Coun. Beaton.
