

Steel Prices Increase Triggers Wave In U.S.

NEW YORK (AP)—The steel price increase in the United States has triggered a wave of rising prices in other industries, a cross-country survey of 40 industrial concerns shows.

The Wall Street Journal says it found that about half the companies either have raised prices in recent weeks or plan to do so.

Increases on selected steel products started April 9 and by mid-April had spread to all major steel firms.

One executive interviewed attributed the phenomenon directly to the steel markups. When President Kennedy let the steel companies get by, he left the lid off prices in other industries, said Neal P. Hawkins, an official of International Harvester Company, Chicago farm machinery maker.

HEATERS TIP
A. O. Smith Company of Milwaukee will raise home water heater prices by seven per cent on June 1, the Journal says.

Anchor Post Products Company, a Baltimore firm, has increased metal fence and post prices by five per cent, effective May 15, and Hoffman Industries Inc., Sinking Spring, Pa. has posted a similar advance on welded steel tubing prices.

In each case, the rise exceeded the steel increase, which averaged 3.4 per cent on products affected. "These and similar increases hardly add up to an inflationary spiral," the Journal says.
