

AUGUSTIN CARDINAL Bes, left, head of the Vatican Secretariat for Christian Unity, talks with Paul-Emile Cardinal Leger of Montreal before opening Wednesday of the Ecumenical Council working session in St. Peter's Basilica. The Council completed piecemeal voting on its religious li-

RC Freedom Declaration Okayed With Reservation

VATICAN CITY (AP) — The Vatican Ecumenical Council finished detailed voting on its religious freedom declaration Wednesday, with many progressives apparently resisting newly inserted stress on the Roman Catholic doctrine that catholicism is Christ's one true church.

The declaration will be made a council decree after final voting following further revisions in which the progressives' objections most likely will bring only minimal rewording. The decree could come in November, or possibly at the council's December closing.

Banned Negro Leaders Confer With Wilson

By TOM OCHILTREE
SALISBURY (AP) — Chanting Negroes swarmed through Salisbury Wednesday while British Prime Minister Wilson engaged in talks with banned Negro Nationalist Leader Joshua Nkomo on Rhodesia's future.

Wilson, in his meeting with Nkomo, sought to discover what the Negro nationalists would accept as a basis for negotiation in the dispute over Rhodesia's bid for independence from Britain. But details of what the two men said were not disclosed.

PROBE ORDERED IN CRASH

Recording Shows Pilot Planned To Make Another Try At Landing

LONDON (Reuters) — The British government has ordered a public inquiry into the cause of an Edinburgh-to-London airliner crash which killed 35 at fog-shrouded London Airport early Wednesday.

The main part of the wreckage skidded to a stop, billowing flame, only 300 yards from a fire station whose trucks were already in motion. But despite the spraying of thousands of gallons of foam on the wreckage and the runway, there was no hope of saving any of the 36 aboard.

Investigators combed the wreckage of the British European Airways plane, a turbine-propeller driven Vanguard, strewn along more than a mile of flame-seared runway 28, seeking a small black box of instruments expected to tell every detail of the plane's fatal moments.

Among those killed was Briton Laurie Alan Gullick, 38, home sales director of Glaxo Laboratories Ltd. He was appointed to the post Oct. 1 after being president of the company's Canadian subsidiary, Glaxo Allenburys (Canada) Ltd. of Weston, Ont.

INSIDE TODAY
Classified . . . . . 20, 21, 22
Deaths . . . . . 23
Comets . . . . . 19
Sport . . . . . 14
Finance, markets . . . . . 17
Rural churches . . . . . 19
Women's . . . . . 6
Editorials . . . . . 4
Summerside . . . . . 3
Kings, Queens, City . . . . . 5
Prince County . . . . . 5

Students Unite In Plea For Government's Aid

Dief's Arrival In Province Delayed By Poor Weather

SUMMERSIDE — The scheduled midnight arrival here of Progressive Conservative leader John Diefenbaker, Mrs. Diefen-

baker and party was delayed by weather conditions. A reception group gathered at the Summerside airport to welcome the party chieftain but it was learned first there would be a delay in the arrival. Then it was reported he would remain in Saint John over night.

Flag Issue Is Revived In Saint John Speech

SAINT JOHN, N.B. (CP) — John Diefenbaker revived the flag issue here Wednesday night and attacked the Liberals for what he described as a trend to the abolition of Canada's ties with its past.

He spoke to about 3,200 persons who filled all but the back section of the Beaverbrook Arena in this seaport city. It was an all-province rally for the 10 Conservative candidates in the federal election.

On the flag, he said: "I have no apologies to offer for the stand I took, or that this party took—none at all." He said he had asked following the Commons flag debate what the Liberal's next step would be. Within weeks, a series of Young Liberal Association meetings has supported abolition of the monarchy.

There were no flags among the decorations in the arena where Mr. Diefenbaker spoke. The backdrop consisted only of a "Welcome John" banner and his picture.

Mr. Diefenbaker also recalled how earlier this year he had "supposed" the government's decision to remove the Canadian coat of arms from social insurance card and replace it with the red maple leaf symbol. He spoke to about 3,200 persons who filled all but the back section of the Beaverbrook Arena in this seaport city. It was an all-province rally for the 10 Conservative candidates in the federal election.

Dief Runs Into Rain, Snow As He Returns To Maritimes

SAINT JOHN, N.B. (CP) — Conservative Leader Diefenbaker ran into rain and driving snow Wednesday as he carried his election campaign into the Maritimes for a second time.

He flew from Quebec City to Fredericton and was met at the airport by about 30 persons standing around a large union jack.

In the airport terminal, four students from the University of New Brunswick held up a sign reading: "Good grief, bleed us no more." They said they were protesting high student fees.

An airport guard ordered the four students out of the building despite protests from one of Mr. Diefenbaker's aides, Tom Van Dusen. They moved out to a driveway where Mr. Diefenbaker stopped briefly to shake hands with them.

A motorcade took the Conservative leader to Fredericton city hall where he signed the guest book and held an impromptu press conference on the steps.

It consisted mostly of criticism of what Mr. Diefenbaker termed the "distressing low morale" of the armed forces.

He was moving heavily when he stopped at the university's students' centre to receive a brief from the student council urging increased federal aid to universities. He was introduced as "the only national political leader who is visiting a university campus today, National Student Day."

The 200 students crowded into the entrance hall applauded when Mr. Diefenbaker outlined his party's platform policy on aid to higher education.

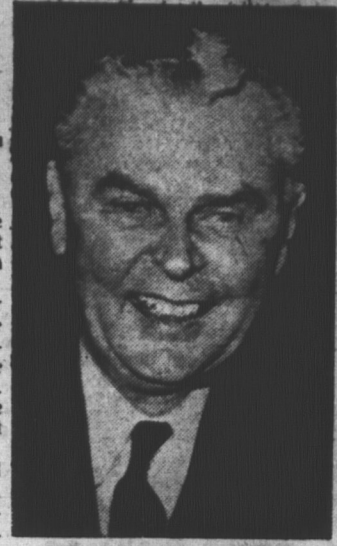

En route to this seaport he stopped briefly at Oromocto, the townsite serving the army's Camp Gagetown, and Pugsley Terminal, just outside Saint John.

Don MacRae, Charlottetown, receives a 70-70 plaque from George Reynolds, program chairman at the Canadian Legion Home Charlottetown. The semi-finals of the 70-70 contest were held last night at the Legion. A contest for 14 children of Charlottetown between the ages of eight and 14 was held Tuesday night with 30 children competing.

MR. DIEFENBAKER

Prices Frozen By Irish Gov't

DUBLIN (Reuters) — A price freeze on food and consumer goods went into operation Wednesday as part of an austerity drive by the Irish government, Prime Minister Sean Lemass said.

Candidate Withdraws

OTTAWA (CP) — The first withdrawal of a candidate nominated for the Nov. 3 election was reported Wednesday by Chief Electoral Officer Nelson Castonguay.

Wilfred Anthony Teevens, an Independent in Toronto St. Paul's, has withdrawn. Under the Canada Elections Act, he loses his $200 nomination deposit.

This reduces the election's candidate total to 1,012.

Viet Cong Hit Two Hard Blows

SAIGON (AP) — Viet Cong guerrilla mortar and infiltration squads attacked U.S. marine airfields simultaneously shortly before midnight Wednesday night at Da Nang and Chu Lai, 52 miles apart on the South China Sea.

A marine spokesman said two helicopters were destroyed at Da Nang and that probably two A-1 Skyhawk jet attack bombers were destroyed at Chu Lai.

PWC Elected To Conference

Prince of Wales College yesterday was elected to membership in the Conference of Canadian Universities by the annual meeting of the conference being held this week in Vancouver.

PWC founded in 1834 and one of Canada's oldest colleges, was raised to degree-granting status in June of this year.

The Vancouver meeting is being attended by the heads of all institutions of higher learning and the feature of its discussions is the Eldon Commission report on financing university education. Dr. Frank MacKinnon, principal of PWC is representing the college at the meeting.

Plaza Rally For Pearson Is Fiasco

By DAVE McINTOSH
TORONTO (CP) — A huge Liberal rally in a shopping plaza here turned into a fiasco Wednesday night and Prime Minister Pearson was forced to resort to a hand microphone to try to make himself heard.

Mr. Pearson went down among the huge throng in the shopping mall to make a speech but the public address system failed just as he was about to begin his address.

The throng pressed around the prime minister and he was taken through a store and up a freight elevator to the balcony which was blocked by police.

Mr. Pearson told reporters he was worried that some children might fall in the crush and be trampled.

Mrs. Pearson said to her husband when they reached the balcony again: "You survived." EFFORTS FAILED Frantic efforts to fix the public address system failed and in the end the hand microphone Mr. Pearson was using also broke down.

Mr. Pearson told reporters he was told by police that the crowd numbered between 8,000 and 10,000.

Ideas For Help Show Variation

By JACK GRAY
Canadian Press Staff Writer
Most of Canada's university students want government help in paying for their education.

Cabinet members promised consideration of the brief. Liberal Leader Gerald A. Regan said the crisis in higher education is a "revolutionary situation demanding steps never taken before." He criticized the Conservative government of Premier Robert L. Stanfield, who also is education minister.

This much became evident Wednesday, National Student Day as students across the country paraded to provincial legislatures to launch a campaign by the 140,000-member Canadian Union of Students to end special and economic barriers to higher education.

Not all the demonstrations were held Wednesday. At Charlottetown the Students' Union of St. Dunstan's University, in a brief to the Prince Edward Island cabinet Monday, asked the government to absorb any rise in tuition fees above the present level of $400 a student. The brief claimed costs have climbed to an unparalleled level in many parts of the country, particularly in the Maritimes.

Other provincial leaders were non-committal when visited by delegations, a cross-Canada survey by The Canadian Press showed.

At Ottawa, some 1,000 students marched to Parliament Hill. One placard read: "Free tuition, free books, free love."

They were met by Liberal, Progressive Conservative and New Democratic Party politicians seeking election Nov. 8.

Each outlined his party's education program, interrupted plaintively from the students: "What about free tuition?" The subject was hardly mentioned.

Premier Joseph Smallwood's introduction of a tuition-free freshman year at Memorial University in St. John's was mentioned by Rex Murphy, 18, of Freshwater, Nfld.

TOBERMORY, Ont. (CP) — The bodies of four Toronto underwater photographers missing from here since Saturday were recovered Wednesday in Lake Huron off the Bruce Peninsula.

An RCAF search and rescue spokesman said the bodies were found within a few miles of where the skin divers' boat was found Tuesday.

An RCAF plane flew the bodies to Warton 10 miles northwest of Owen Sound.

The four men who set out Saturday from this village on the tip of the Bruce Peninsula were:

Prof. Roger Eric Deane, 61, of the University of Toronto; Thomas C. Nicholson, 28, a draftsman; Arlo Gatti, 41, an artist and designer; Peter MacFarlane, 38, an executive producer with CFTO-TV, Toronto.

The boat and motor were found intact but filled with water on the rocky shore of Deadman's Point, on the west side of the peninsula about 15 miles south of here.

In the boat were a scuba-diving mouthpiece, a weight belt, a screwdriver and an empty plastic bottle, evidence that the boat had not capsized. A gasoline tank was found on the shore 50 feet away.

Bodies Found Of Missing Ontario Men

RECOGNIZE NEED
He said Newfoundland, the poorest province, had recognized that "the most practical way to get out of its darkness" was to open the door to higher education for all capable of benefiting from it.

At Fredericton, about 200 University of New Brunswick students were caught unexpectedly as Opposition Leader Diefenbaker paid an impromptu visit. They hastily called off a mammoth rally protesting high university fees and burned a small effigy of fees as Mr. Diefenbaker left after a short visit.

Students said they felt it would be a good idea to show the Conservative leader their "plight." He shook hands and told them he was the only political leader in Canada visiting a campus on National Student Day.

Washington knew this and accepted it, he added.

Mr. Pearson also defended United States policy in Viet Nam in his first foreign affairs speech of the Nov. 8 election campaign.

He said it would not necessarily be in the interests of peace to have the U.S. withdraw its forces to North America.

This could mean a replacement of U.S. power by another power which would prevent countries in Southeast Asia from exercising freedom.

"The U.S. is the least imperialistic of any nation who ever wielded super power," he said. "The Americans just want to get home to baseball and Coca Cola."

It was not the U.S. which would not negotiate in Viet Cong and North Vietnamese government and their Communist backers, he said.

Referring to allegations that Canadians might be conscripted for service in Viet Nam, Mr. Pearson said:

"Of all the stories in the campaign, this is the most absurd."

Story On Conscription Labelled Most Absurd

Leaders On Hustings

By THE CANADIAN PRESS THURSDAY
Pearson — In Vancouver.
Diefenbaker — In Prince riding and Charlottetown.
Douglas — In Victoria and Vancouver.
Thompson — In Victoria and Vancouver Island.
Cassidy — In Chapeau, Que.

SHOWS WINNING FORM

Don MacRae, Charlottetown, receives a 70-70 plaque from George Reynolds, program chairman at the Canadian Legion Home Charlottetown. The semi-finals of the 70-70 contest were held last night at the Legion. A contest for 14 children of Charlottetown between the ages of eight and 14 was held Tuesday night with 30 children competing.