

The Daily Examiner.

TERMS:—FIVE DOLLARS A YEAR.

"This is true Liberty, when Free born Men having to advise the Public, may speak free."—BUPRIDES.

SINGLE COPIES TWO CENTS.

NEW SERIES.

CHARLOTTETOWN, PRINCE EDWARD ISLAND, FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 3, 1882.

VOL 10.—NO. 61.

THE DAILY EXAMINER

IS ISSUED EVERY EVENING,
BY THE EXAMINER PUBLISHING COMPANY,
FROM THEIR OFFICE, CORNER OF WATER AND GREAT GEORGE STREETS,
Charlottetown, P. E. Island.

RATES OF SUBSCRIPTION:
Six Months, $2 50
Three Months, 1 25
One Month, 0 50
Advertising at most moderate rates.
Contracts may be made for monthly, quarterly, half yearly or yearly advertisements, on application.

St. Lawrence Hotel.

THE above Hotel is now RE OPENED, having been thoroughly repaired and refurnished in the best style. Being centrally situated and within three minutes walk of the Railway Depot and Steamboats, it offers inconvenient to the travelling public.
Permanent and Transient boarders accommodation unsurpassed by any other Hotel in the city.

WM. E. HICKEY,
Proprietor

Professional Card.

THE undersigned have this day entered into Partnership, as Attorneys at Law, Office—South side of Queen Square, opposite the Post Office.

A. E. WARBURTON,
F. J. CONROY,
Charlottetown, Dec. 3, 1881—Gw 2aw

ALFRED A. BOWN, AUCTIONEER

General Commission Merchant

ST. JOHN'S, NEWFOUNDLAND.
Solicits consignments of all kinds of Produce Butter, Eggs, Vegetables, etc., etc.
Prompt returns guaranteed. Good references on application. [ju 17 Gw oaw]

STEAM! STEAM!

To the Front!

The Mayflower Mills

Have been thoroughly overhauled, and a first-class Steam Engine put in, making it second to none on the Island.

Parties from a distance can receive their grists at shortest notice.

H. S. GATES,
West Royalty, Dec. 20—41 2aw, wky 2m

Queen Insurance Co'y OF ENGLAND.

CAPITAL - TWO MILLIONS STERLING.

Insurance effected on all kinds of Buildings, Merchandise and Produce. Also, on Vessels on the stocks.

Special rates for isolated residences.
All Losses settled promptly.

GEORGE MACLEOD (Union Bank),
Je 777 Agent for Prince Edward Island.

W. C. BISHOP, SHIPPING

FORWARDING AGENT,

Marine Insurance Broker,

General Commission Agent,

HALIFAX, N. S.

PARTICULAR ATTENTION given to the shipment of Lobsters and other Canned Goods, and collection of Customs Duties thereon.

Hulls, Cargoes, and Freight Insured in first-class offices at most favorable rates.
Consignments of Produce solicited, and prompt returns guaranteed.
Correspondence solicited and answered promptly.

Nov. 14, 1881—1yr

53 Queen Street.

SIGN OF THE ## Blue Flag.

Extraordinary and Unprecedented Bargains

IN BOOTS AND SHOES

The stock is good and seasonable, and the opportunity is a very rare one to secure really MARVELLOUS BARGAINS.

P. E. Island Bank notes taken at their full value for goods.

E. W. SMITH.

Charlottetown, Dec. 5, 1881—1aw

BRITISH WAREHOUSE, QUEEN SQUARE.

W. & A. BROWN & CO.

Keep in Every Department of their Establishment a full assortment of STAPLE AND FANCY DRY GOODS, of superior quality and texture, which cannot be surpassed either for price or quality, as they import direct from the best British and Foreign markets.

INSPECT THEIR STOCK IF YOU WANT GOOD VALUE FOR YOUR MONEY. [ja 9

SELLING OFF

W. A. HUTCHESON'S.

I shall Sell off my Stock of Groceries at COST.

Parties wishing to get their GROCERIES Cheap should call at once and leave their orders.

GOOD TEA, 25, 30 and 33 cents; CRACKERS, 4 to 14 cents; MOLASSES, 47 cents;
RAISINS, 10 cents; CURRANTS, 8 cents. SUGAR, 8 cents.

A large lot of CONFECTIONERY from 15 to 20 cents; lot CHRISTMAS GOODS, very cheap; and sundry other articles too numerous to mention—all at cost for Cash only.

W. A. HUTCHESON, 109 UPPER QUEEN STREET

AT COST!

Readymade Clothing, Tweeds and Heavy Cloths,
AS I WANT TO CLOSE OUT MY STOCK IN THIS LINE.

Some Expensive Ladies' Cloth Mantles and Dolmans, and Fur Lined Cloaks, Selettes and Colored Dress Goods.

AT A LARGE REDUCTION.

JUST OPENED AND MARKED LOW.

A Select Assortment of Flowers, Feathers, Velveteens, Ladies' Sacques, &c., &c.

R. W. TREMAINE, 83 QUEEN STREET

NOTICE.

WE, the undersigned, have this day entered into Co-Partnership to practice as Barristers and Attorneys in Charlottetown, in the office lately occupied by Messrs. Sullivan & Morson, in the Young Men's Christian Association Building in Charlottetown.

EDWARD HAYFIELD, STANIS. AUS BLANCHARD.

no 28 dly pat 2aw, no pres

1882.

HARPER'S WEEKLY.

ILLUSTRATED.

Harper's Weekly stands at the head of American illustrated weekly journals. By its unpartisan position in politics, its admirable illustrations, its carefully chosen series, short stories, sketches, and poems, contributed by the foremost artists and authors of the day, it carries instruction and entertainment to thousands of American homes.

It will always be the aim of the publishers to make Harper's Weekly the most popular and attractive family newspaper in the world.

HARPER'S PERIODICALS.

PER YEAR.

HARPER'S WEEKLY.....$4 00
HARPER'S MAGAZINE.....4 00
HARPER'S BAZAR.....4 00
THE THREE above publications, for $7 00 each.
ANY TWO above named.....7 00
HARPER'S YOUNG PEOPLE.....1 00
HARPER'S MAGAZINE.....5 00
HARPER'S YOUNG PEOPLE.....5 00
HARPER'S FRANKLIN SQUARE LIBRARY.
One year (52 Numbers).....10 00
Postage Free to all subscribers in the United States or Canada.

The volumes of the Weekly begin with the first Number for January of each year. When no time is mentioned, it will be understood that the subscriber wishes to commence with the Number next after the receipt of order.

The last Twelve Annual Volumes of Harper's Weekly in neat cloth binding, will be sent by mail, postage paid or by express, free of expense (provided the freight does not exceed one dollar per volume), for $7 00 each.

Cloth cases for each volume, suitable for binding, will be sent by mail, postpaid, on receipt of $1 00 each.
Remittances should be made by Post-Office Money Order or Draft, to avoid chance of loss.

Newspapers are not to copy this advertisement without the express order of HARPER & BROTHERS.
Address HARPER & BROTHERS, New York.

PATENTS.

We continue to act as Solicitors for Patents Caveats, Trade Marks, Copyrights, etc., for the United States, Canada, Cuba, England, France, Germany, etc. We have had thirty-five years experience.

Patents obtained through us are noticed in the SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN. This large and splendid illustrated weekly paper, $3.20 a year, shows the Progress of Science, is very interesting, and has an enormous circulation.

Address: MUNN & CO., Patent Solicitors,
Publishers of SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN, 37 Park Row, New York. Head-book about Patents free.

F. W. MALES,
Charlottetown, Dec. 16 '82—off Feb 7

NOTES OF TRAVEL.

FROM HOME TO ROME

BY ONE OF OURSELVES!

LONDON TO PARIS.

Leaving London from the Holborn Viaduct, by the London, Dover and Chatham Line, we reached, in an hour and a half, the chalk cliffs of Dover. The towns on our line of travel did not interest us greatly, until we reached the grand old ecclesiastical city of Canterbury, called by the Saxons the "City of Kent," hence Cantuarina and Canterbury. I wanted much to have had time to see its numerous buildings of antiquity, chief of which is its magnificent cathedral, said to be one of the finest in England, and famed for the murder of Thomas a Becket; but the train sped on and we were soon on the pier at Dover.

This famous passage across the Straits to Calais, was "all my fancy painted," and a little more. One need never fear the waters of the ocean, after he has experienced the indescribable sensation, which comes after a rocking in what I heard one of my wild-looking fellow passengers denominated "a horrid chop."

Calais is chiefly noted for its harbor and fortress. On a clear day the English shore is discernible, being only twenty-one miles distant. For over two centuries this town was an English possession, but was re-taken in the reign of Mary, whose saying that the word "Calais would be found after death written on her heart," is familiar to everyone.

After leaving Calais, we came to the seaport town of Bologne, from which Julius Caesar embarked on his invasion of England, and the plans of Napoleon I. for the same purpose were frustrated. Afterwards we passed Crecy and Agincourt, so famous in English history, and among places of lesser interest, Amiens, the birthplace of Peter the Hermit, and St. Denis, a few miles from Paris, with its Abbey, where a great many of the kings and queen of France have been interred.

I think I shall always remember New Year's Day, 1881, so great did the change appear to us from the weeping sky of the land we had left, to the gay and smiling one which broke upon our charmed vision, on the morning of our first day in Paris. When we had taken our first walk about the beautiful city, down the Champs Elysees, out into the Place de la Concorde, on into the Garden of the Tuilleries, and the Palais Royal, I came to the conclusion that "La Belle" deserved her name.

The number of Americans we saw, made me think of Oliver Wendell Holmes' famous sarcasm, that "Good Americans, when they die go to Paris." Surely their discernment has not been in fault, in finding an earthly paradise.

This is Paris at first sight. When one comes to look about him, he will remember that this same beautiful city can furnish some shocking memories. Some one has said of the magnificent Place de la Concorde, that "if all the waters of the Seine were emptied they could not wash out from it the stain of blood." On the spot where the Luxor Obelisk now stands, once stood the Guillotine. Here went to their fearful deaths Louis XVI. and his beautiful Queen Marie Antoinette, the Princess Elizabeth and the Duke of Orleans, with hundreds of others. In this square a desperate conflict took place between the Communists of 1871 and the Versailles troops. From the garden of the Tuilleries, one can look at the gaping windows and doors of part of the Palace of the Tuilleries, destroyed by the Commune in 1871, and there it still stands a monument to their fiendish rage and mad folly. This Palace was begun by Catherine de Medicis in 1564, and continued to be an imperial and official residence until the Revolution of 1871. "During the present century Napoleon I., Louis XVIII., Charles X., Louis Philippe, and Napoleon III., lived here in regal state. All except Louis XVIII., died in exile."

As we sauntered down the Champs Elysees noting the gay crowds walking, driving, laughing, chatting, all seemingly upon pleasure intent, I could not help marvelling at the remarkable faculty which the French possess of re-covering themselves, if I may use the expression. No matter how sad to-day, they can smile and be glad to-morrow.

The Champs Elysees were begun by Marie de Medicis in 1616, who caused three alleys of trees to be planted for herself and her court. Extensive grounds, new promenades and drives were afterwards added to these, which now form the favorite out-door resort of the Parisians. Among the trees on each side of the grand avenue, which is a mile and a quarter long, are numberless stalls and cafes. In one of the groves is the Cirque, devoted to feats of horsemanship. On fine days numerous parties of all classes are to be seen here, and elegant carriages roll in procession along the avenue. During the siege of 1870 the Champs Elysees were converted into a camp. The English encamped here 1815, and the Prussians in 1871, on their entrance into Paris.

The great showroom of Paris is the Louvre. This palace including the Tuilleries with which it is connected, covers a space of nearly sixty English acres. Formerly many of the Sovereigns of France resided in part of it, but since the time of Louis XV. it has been principally used as a museum of the fine arts. What did we see there? What did we not see there? Its most famous gallery of paintings, and one of the finest in the world, is called the Long Gallery, 1322 feet in length, and 42 in breadth. Napoleon I. brought many of the masterpieces of other European galleries here, but in 1815 the greater part of these were returned. In the French compartment, I remember particularly four pictures in the life of Alexander by Le Brun. They were: "Crossing the Granicus," "Battle of Arbela," "Entering Babylon,"

NEW SPRING TWEEDS!

FELT HATS,
MEN'S UNDERCLOTHING.

JUST RECEIVED VIA GEORGETOWN,
100 PIECES OF SPRING TWEEDS, (NEWEST PATTERNS),

4 CASES HARD AND SOFT FELT HATS,
1 CASE MEN'S FANCY COLORED SHIRTS,
20 DOZ. MEN'S UNDERCLOTHING.

Will be sold at a small advance on cost for Cash.

J. B. MACDONALD.

Brennan's Old Stand, Queen Street, January 20, 1882—wky pat pres ne

For Scotch and English Tweeds or Worsted Suits, For Canadian Tweed Suits,

For Overcoats of all Descriptions,

—GO TO— JOHN MACLEOD & CO'S, UPPER QUEEN STREET, TWO DOORS ABOVE APOTHECARIES HALL CORNER

There you will find the largest and best assortment of Cloths in the Island. Prices very moderate. The best workmanship and a perfect fit guaranteed.

—ALSO—
and Felt Hats, cheap & &c.
Retail Apothecaries Hall Corner.
F. W. MALES,
Charlottetown, Dec. 16 '82—off Feb 7

NOTES OF TRAVEL.

FROM HOME TO ROME

BY ONE OF OURSELVES!

LONDON TO PARIS.

Leaving London from the Holborn Viaduct, by the London, Dover and Chatham Line, we reached, in an hour and a half, the chalk cliffs of Dover. The towns on our line of travel did not interest us greatly, until we reached the grand old ecclesiastical city of Canterbury, called by the Saxons the "City of Kent," hence Cantuarina and Canterbury. I wanted much to have had time to see its numerous buildings of antiquity, chief of which is its magnificent cathedral, said to be one of the finest in England, and famed for the murder of Thomas a Becket; but the train sped on and we were soon on the pier at Dover.

This famous passage across the Straits to Calais, was "all my fancy painted," and a little more. One need never fear the waters of the ocean, after he has experienced the indescribable sensation, which comes after a rocking in what I heard one of my wild-looking fellow passengers denominated "a horrid chop."

Calais is chiefly noted for its harbor and fortress. On a clear day the English shore is discernible, being only twenty-one miles distant. For over two centuries this town was an English possession, but was re-taken in the reign of Mary, whose saying that the word "Calais would be found after death written on her heart," is familiar to everyone.

After leaving Calais, we came to the seaport town of Bologne, from which Julius Caesar embarked on his invasion of England, and the plans of Napoleon I. for the same purpose were frustrated. Afterwards we passed Crecy and Agincourt, so famous in English history, and among places of lesser interest, Amiens, the birthplace of Peter the Hermit, and St. Denis, a few miles from Paris, with its Abbey, where a great many of the kings and queen of France have been interred.

I think I shall always remember New Year's Day, 1881, so great did the change appear to us from the weeping sky of the land we had left, to the gay and smiling one which broke upon our charmed vision, on the morning of our first day in Paris. When we had taken our first walk about the beautiful city, down the Champs Elysees, out into the Place de la Concorde, on into the Garden of the Tuilleries, and the Palais Royal, I came to the conclusion that "La Belle" deserved her name.

The number of Americans we saw, made me think of Oliver Wendell Holmes' famous sarcasm, that "Good Americans, when they die go to Paris." Surely their discernment has not been in fault, in finding an earthly paradise.

This is Paris at first sight. When one comes to look about him, he will remember that this same beautiful city can furnish some shocking memories. Some one has said of the magnificent Place de la Concorde, that "if all the waters of the Seine were emptied they could not wash out from it the stain of blood." On the spot where the Luxor Obelisk now stands, once stood the Guillotine. Here went to their fearful deaths Louis XVI. and his beautiful Queen Marie Antoinette, the Princess Elizabeth and the Duke of Orleans, with hundreds of others. In this square a desperate conflict took place between the Communists of 1871 and the Versailles troops. From the garden of the Tuilleries, one can look at the gaping windows and doors of part of the Palace of the Tuilleries, destroyed by the Commune in 1871, and there it still stands a monument to their fiendish rage and mad folly. This Palace was begun by Catherine de Medicis in 1564, and continued to be an imperial and official residence until the Revolution of 1871. "During the present century Napoleon I., Louis XVIII., Charles X., Louis Philippe, and Napoleon III., lived here in regal state. All except Louis XVIII., died in exile."

As we sauntered down the Champs Elysees noting the gay crowds walking, driving, laughing, chatting, all seemingly upon pleasure intent, I could not help marvelling at the remarkable faculty which the French possess of re-covering themselves, if I may use the expression. No matter how sad to-day, they can smile and be glad to-morrow.

The Champs Elysees were begun by Marie de Medicis in 1616, who caused three alleys of trees to be planted for herself and her court. Extensive grounds, new promenades and drives were afterwards added to these, which now form the favorite out-door resort of the Parisians. Among the trees on each side of the grand avenue, which is a mile and a quarter long, are numberless stalls and cafes. In one of the groves is the Cirque, devoted to feats of horsemanship. On fine days numerous parties of all classes are to be seen here, and elegant carriages roll in procession along the avenue. During the siege of 1870 the Champs Elysees were converted into a camp. The English encamped here 1815, and the Prussians in 1871, on their entrance into Paris.

The great showroom of Paris is the Louvre. This palace including the Tuilleries with which it is connected, covers a space of nearly sixty English acres. Formerly many of the Sovereigns of France resided in part of it, but since the time of Louis XV. it has been principally used as a museum of the fine arts. What did we see there? What did we not see there? Its most famous gallery of paintings, and one of the finest in the world, is called the Long Gallery, 1322 feet in length, and 42 in breadth. Napoleon I. brought many of the masterpieces of other European galleries here, but in 1815 the greater part of these were returned. In the French compartment, I remember particularly four pictures in the life of Alexander by Le Brun. They were: "Crossing the Granicus," "Battle of Arbela," "Entering Babylon," and "Alexander meeting Persus." In the Flemish, Rubens' Allegorical pictures of Marie de Medicis, of which there are about twenty, of immense size, interested me greatly.

In one of the rooms opening out of the Long Gallery, hangs Murillo's "Conception," the most beautiful painting we saw on that subject whilst abroad. It is considered a gem even by connoisseurs, and was bought for the Louvre for 600,000 francs.

A picture of Marie Antoinette, on her way to the guillotine, I think I shall never forget. In looking at it, one fancies that he can almost hear the yells of demoniacal rage which burst from the fierce throats of the male and female fiends around her, who thrust their horrible bludgeons and their grimy fists into her face. She, moved on unappalled, with stately head uplifted, with features unmovable, with ears which hear not, eyes which see not, but gaze straight ahead, above and beyond the cruel mob on every side of her—serene, majestic, brave—as befitting the daughter of kings and the heroic mother who bore her.

It was through the Long Gallery, accompanied by two of her maids of honor, and with the aid of M. de Lesseps, that the Empress Eugenie made her escape from the Tuilleries.

Among the ancient statuary at the Louvre, it will never do to passly unmentioned the famous Venus Victrix of Milo, of which the French are so proud.

Poor Venus has lost both arms, but is considered to be the finest representation of the female form in Grecian Sculpture. At the time of the Commune the lovers of art buried the Venus for safe keeping. In the splendid Apollo Gallery we saw specimens of the enamel work of Bernard de Palissy.

Of the antiquities contained in the different Museums, Egyptian, Assyrian, Etruscan, and Roman, it would be impossible to speak. So numerous are the rooms, halls and galleries of the Louvre, that I felt, though we paid several visits to them, that we had only had a glance at them all.

One day we made an excursion on the top of an omnibus to the cemetery of Pere La Chaise. This is a very customary way of riding in Paris, and although to us a novel, it proved a most enjoyable one. Such a view of the Boulevards, one gets in scarcely any other manner. On our route we passed many historical spots. Pere La Chaise takes its name from the confessor of Louis XIV. I could hardly realize that it was a resting place for the dead. Near the entrance, and along the main avenue and principal walks the tombs were very much crowded. On the paved sidewalks sat or stood many women and children, the women plying their knitting needles industriously. It seemed to be a thoroughfare for vehicles, and there was none of the solemnity which one usually sees in a place of this kind. We directed our steps first to the tombs of Abelard and Heloise. Although the lovers had only been dead about seven hundred years, some sympathetic person had placed fresh wreaths on the railing guarding the enclosure. Many noted persons are interred in Pere La Chaise. Among the finer monuments, on the heights of the Cemetery were those of the Thiers family, Rossini, Alfred de Musset, and Mlle. Rachel, the actress.

Later in the year, we spent many delightful days in and about Paris.

Mr Charlton, Grit, in a circular to his electors lays down the Party platform. One of the principal planks is "no increase of the debt." How consistent! Mr. Charlton was a member of the Commons from 73 to 78, a period during which the debt was increased at the rate of $11,000,000 per annum, while on account of the hard times, intensified by misgovernment, the people were getting less able to stand taxation. And Mr. Charlton opposes the present Government for adopting a fiscal policy that encourages industry, extends commerce, and at the same time gives sufficient revenue not only for all ordinary expenditures, but for capital expenditures as well. Mr. Charlton pays a poor compliment to the intelligence of his constituency when he assumes they are so foolish as to swallow his manifesto.—Moncton Times.

In Mount Pleasant Cemetery, Newark, was buried on the 28th ult., Miss Mary E. Conley, of No. 23 Fulton street, Newark, a sister of ex-Governor Conley, of Georgia, who died, so her relatives say, of a broken heart, caused by the cruel absorption of her fortune by the Mechanics' Bank under Oscar L. Baldwin's shrewd mismanagement. All her funds were invested in the stock of the bank. Losing that and being peremptory ordered by the Government to pay as much more as she lost was more than the poor creature was able to bear. Unable to sleep for brooding over her loss, her health gradually gave away, with the result stated. Ex-Governor Conley will be in attendance at the funeral. Deceased was a devout member of the Presbyterian church.

MAK'S MAGNETIC MEDICINE is an unfailing food for the Brain and Nerves, and by its rejuvenating effect on these organs, ever fails to cure nervous exhaustion and all weakness of the generative organs. Sold in Charlottetown by Apothecaries Hall Co. See advertisement in another column. [a 27 2 wks]

ROUZARD, Christine Nilsson's husband, has gone crazy over financial losses on the Paris Bourse.

A word to the ladies! Do not exchange your old sewing Machine for a new one; but fetch it to me and I will repair it and make it as good as new or no charge made.—WILLIAM BROWN, shop on corner of Prince and Grafton Streets, Charlottetown, P. E. I. nov 14 81 wv

The British Columbia Legislature will meet on February 23.

FRESH EGGS, 24c per dozen; Canned Finnan Haddies, 18c; Salmon, 20c; Cheese, 16c; best Pickles, 20c per quart at the Family Grocery.—K. K. BRACE. [a 15]

A GREAT run for cheap crockery, at W. P. GARDNER'S.