

under their own hand, or we may, possibly, introduce them to a charge "on Her Majesty's service" of falsehood and unbecomingly conduct, rendering them unworthy of a seat, even at the secret Council-board. A more binding oath we have never encountered but in the records of Free Masonry. The public can now estimate with sufficient accuracy the assurance of the Snatchers, that under Responsible Government the Lieut. Governor would be subject to their control and direction, and that they would thereby be enabled to pass whatever laws they pleased. As the Islander always said, the very converse is the truth, the members of the Assembly being become the sworn servants and spies of the Governor. Every body believes the Islander at last.

Now, before the Oath of servitude was administered, Sir Alexander laid Earl Grey's Bloody Despatch before the Responsible, and informed them that it unfolded the policy of the Crown regarding Landlord and Tenant in this Island, which they would have to support. The Responsible may talk and write very largely about the iniquity of "family compacts," in order to conceal their own treachery; and they may spout abundance of gentle declamation about the "British Constitution," and about "the rights and independence of the people," but—as the North Scotian remarked of their Responsible a few months ago—they "are tied up neck and heels" by a fearful Oath, and cannot, if they would, without perjury, do anything without the Governor's permission. And thus has ended P. E. Island "liberalism"—(torisism is what is now meant)—"in a sink of treachery, corruption and servility."

RESIGNATION OF THE POSTMASTER GENERAL.

We understand that Mr. Davies resigned his appointment as Postmaster General on Friday last. None of the recent resignations will be more generally regretted than this one, even by many who are politically opposed to Mr. Davies. He was appointed to the office about midsummer last, when he was wholly unacquainted with its details, but soon acquired an intimate knowledge of his duties, which he has discharged with exemplary regularity and efficiency ever since. When Mr. Owens left the office the public were assured that much confusion and inconvenience would result from appointing a person who was not acquainted with its mysteries. This has not been the case. Mr. Davies has more than satisfied the expectations of his friends by the fact and correctness with which he has performed his duties; and many of his opponents will readily bear testimony to this proof of his fitness for the office. The time, we believe, is not far distant when he will be recalled to resume the honourable post he has now resigned. There is one thing certain, that the office of Postmaster General has now, to all intents and purposes, become a political one; and whoever shall take Mr. Davies' place must not murmur at his summary removal when another change shall occur, without resorting to the folly and nonsense of "indignation meetings."

THE COFFIN RUSE.

The last Islander publishes what it states to be the copy of a handbill, issued previous to the late election, and enclosed to Mr. T. Heath Haviland, previous to his going to Georgetown, in connection with which there is a rude representation of a coffin. The matter of the placard shows a lamentable attempt to burlesque the Irish brogue, but the internal evidence is conclusive, that an Irishman never attempted any thing of the kind, or he would have done it far better. Mr. Haviland is threatened with vengeance, and so forth; and the Islander accuses Mr. Whelan with having written and issued the handbill. Mr. W. considers that this accusation is scarcely worthy of a reply, but nevertheless he assures all parties who may take an interest in the matter, that he never did and never will lend himself to so stupid, silly and disreputable an affair. If the Tories will search their own ranks diligently, they will find the blackguard who perpetrated what he thought a very ingenious ruse in this case.

POSTSCRIPT.

EXAMINER OFFICE.
TUESDAY, APRIL 12.

We have delayed the publication of our paper, in order that we might be enabled to give the Speech of His Excellency the Lieut. Governor at the opening of the House, and the preliminary proceedings.

MEETING OF THE LEGISLATURE.

This day (Tuesday) at 2 o'clock, His Excellency the Lieut. Governor came down to the Council Chamber, and after the usual ceremonies opened the Legislature with the following Speech:—

Mr. President and Honourable Gentlemen of the Legislative Council:
Mr. Speaker and Gentlemen of the House of Assembly:

ALTHOUGH the period has arrived when our Legislative business usually terminates, I rely with confidence on your zeal and patriotism to devote sufficient time to the maturing of those measures which are essential to the maintenance of the public credit, however inconvenient the sacrifice may, I fear, prove to many of you.

The late crisis in Commercial affairs, which has occasioned such universal embarrassment, has been felt in this community with much severity; but I trust it will not be without its advantage, and that it may have the effect of confining commercial enterprise in future within less speculative limits.

A decrease in the public Revenue was anticipated, but I am happy to inform you that it is not so great as was apprehended; and I trust that by judicious economy in future appropriations, you will find means of meeting the deficiency.

Mr. Speaker and Gentlemen of the House of Assembly:
The Accounts of the past year, and the Estimates for the current year, shall be laid before you, and I rely on your readiness to grant the necessary supplies for the public service.

Mr. President and Honourable Gentlemen of the Legislative Council:
Mr. Speaker and Gentlemen of the House of Assembly:

The very abundant harvest of the last Season with which Providence has blessed the labours of the people, has demanded the expression of our thankfulness. Produce of all sorts has found ready sale, at remunerative prices, and has been exported to an unusual extent; in addition to which, a considerable increase in the export of Fish justifies the belief that this branch will ere long attract the attention, to which it is manifestly entitled.

Since I last met you, communications have reached me from Her Majesty's Government, and from the Governor General, on the subject of a Federal Union of the North American Provinces, copies of which shall be placed before you.

The Act of the last Session relating to the Fishery Reserves in this Island has not been sanctioned. A copy of a despatch from the Principal Secretary of State for the Colonies, setting forth the grounds of the disallowance of that Act, with other documents relating to the same subject, will be communicated to you.

Copies of the Secretary of State's Despatches will also be communicated to you, regarding the contemplated guaranteed Loan, which it is not the intention of Her Majesty's Government to propose to the Imperial Parliament.

You will not fail to observe, with satisfaction, that the whole question of the Land tenures, together with that of the Fishery Reserves, is engaging the anxious attention of the Secretary of State; and I would earnestly recommend to your consideration his suggestion for facilitating the equitable adjustment of those difficulties which have so long retarded the prosperity of the Colony.

Having some time since tendered my resignation of the post which I have had the honor of occupying in this Island for nearly five years, my services will be employed in another portion of Her Majesty's Colonial possessions. My Successor in this Government is appointed, and the further proceedings for giving effect to the remaining arrangements, which have been delayed by the state of the navigation, may be expected to be completed at an early date.

I trust you feel assured of my unabated desire earnestly to co-operate with you in your endeavors to promote the general welfare.

The Hon. Donald Montgomery, M. P. P. for Princetown, was elected Speaker without opposition.

John McNeill, Esqr., late Clerk, was re-elected to that office. Wellington Nelson, Esqr., was elected Sergeant-at-Arms.

Some discussion occurred on the election of the several officers of the House, but especially in reference to the election of the second Clerk. The majority did not want to appoint an officer of this kind, because, we believe, they had too many applicants amongst their own party, and vainly hoped they would avoid displeasing any by appointing none. By good generalship on the part of the Liberal Opposition, they were defeated in this matter, and were compelled to take a second Clerk, (Mr. William McLean, of Belfast,) who was proposed by Mr. Coles and seconded by Mr. Whelan, although both those members first voted by Mr. Hyndman, whom they considered to have a prior claim.

It will be seen that His Excellency's Speech does not foreshadow the policy—if they have one—of the new Government. They do not promise to bring forward any measure; and the probability is, that nothing will be done this Session by the brilliant array of Councillors in the House of Assembly, further than doing the little usual routine business, which might be easily despatched in less than a week, if the Government would manifest any disposition to do the work of the country in a statesmanlike manner.

GREAT CONSTERNATION AND DISAFFECTION AMONGST THE TORIES.

Several prominent members of the Political Alliance had their flags hoisted at an early hour this morning in honour of the meeting of the Legislature under Tory auspices; but as soon as sundry appointments had been made, and others announced, great disgust and indignation was felt—the flags were taken down in many places; and many members of the "Alliance" now protest that the "iron rod" is more mercilessly used by the Tories than it was by their predecessors. The crop of difficulties is rapidly thickening on the hands of the new Government.

CATHOLIC YOUNG MEN'S LITERARY INSTITUTE.

On Thursday evening the 30th ult. Mr. W. G. Nanties delivered an elaborate and instructive lecture on "the Antiquity of the Jews," before the members of this institute.

On Thursday evening, the 7th instant, Mr. Thomas Hynes read a very lengthy and instructive lecture on "Mary Queen of Scots," before the above institute. The young and talented gentleman was highly eulogised, in the course of the debate which followed, for the very masterly manner in which he delivered his lecture, the more especially as it was the first time he appeared before the public in the capacity of a lecturer.

On Thursday evening next, the 14th instant, the Rev. Angus McDonald will favour the institute with a lecture—subject, "the Church in her relations with Education."

EASTERN TEACHERS' INSTITUTE.

The regular monthly meeting of the above Institute was held at the Line Road, Lot 43, School-house, on Friday evening, the 18th instant, when, after some preliminary business with the Institute was over, the Secretary, Mr. John Campbell, delivered a highly instructive and interesting lecture, on "The Teacher." Mr. Campbell's great celebrity as a lecturer secured him a very large audience of ladies and gentlemen, and on this occasion he fully sustained the high character which he has justly attained as a lecturer. The lecturer first treated of the Teacher as he has been—proved that his profession has been too few in number by reference to the general neglect of mankind to establish schools for the masses until a very recent date. He next proved that the Teacher has not been generally fully appreciated by reference to the fact, that many are obliged to combine some other employment with teaching before they could earn a fragrant livelihood. He next clearly showed that one great reason of the Teacher being unworthy of respect is his ill-remuneration; that the means of a constant supply of mental aliment is indispensable to efficient teaching, and proved, by accurate estimation, the great inadequacy of Teachers' income for defraying expenses of house and family. The lecturer next showed the Teacher as he is—extremely servicable to the community, in consideration of his labouring for man's highest interest—his mental improvement; and that even now this function is not sufficiently appreciated, as manifested by the reluctance of parents to contribute towards his support. That he is comparatively highly educated, was illustrated by showing the inferior attainments of gentlemen of other professions; and that he is progressive, was proven by a reference to our own Institute. The lecturer next dwelt at great length on what the Teacher should be—should be a lover of his profession, a sympathizer with children, possess very accurate and extensive information, be kept in communication, polite in demeanor, unapproachable in character, and capable of illustrating by experiments, &c. He next treated of the Teacher as he probably will be—showed how little prospect of improvement in the pecuniary condition of Island Teachers, while boys continue to be numerously licensed, and parents regard them as equal to men of greater experience and knowledge; that he is destined to advance in the social scale, and that he is now merely a pioneer to his successor of twenty or thirty years hence. An animated and interesting discussion ensued.

The next meeting of the Institute will take place in the South East School-house, on Saturday, the 16th April next, when the President will deliver a lecture on "Societies and Government."
MARTIN RYAN, President.
(Islander will confer a favour by copying.)

EGLETON INSTITUTE.

The above Institute met on Wednesday, the 30th March. After the business of the Institute was over, there was an interesting and highly instructive lecture delivered by Mr. Martin Ryan, Teacher, on "India." The lecture was listened to throughout with great attention, and was followed by a brief discussion, in short the Lecturer showed he was thoroughly acquainted with the subject.

The next regular meeting will be held on Wednesday, the 13th April, when it is expected Mr. Alexander Leslie, Junr., will lecture on "Prince Edward Island."
R. MURRO, Secretary.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE EXAMINER.

Sir,—The Tories can manufacture these coffin letters in any quantity, as "Yarkee Finlay" and the "Graduate" have one piece of them. I never heard that "Mr. Haviland" had one of them until I saw yesterday's Islander; but the Prince Edward Island Tories are not the originators of such things, for about twenty years ago, at Munster, in Ireland, the Rev. Mr. Crampton (brother to Sir Philip) applied to the government for a police force to guard his house, as he had got threatening letters sent him. Accordingly his application was complied with, and a police force was sent to guard his house, who kept close watch on his premises lest his Reverence might be injured. After being some time there, they saw a man, in the night time, muffled up, throwing stones into the parson's window, when the police followed and made him a prisoner, who then turned out to be no other than the Rev. Mr. Crampton himself. Any person can see that the coffin letter in question was never written by an Irishman, as both the orthography and phraseology are greatly at fault. The whole looks as if it was written by an Englishman, it being the way that an Englishman takes off the Irish character.—(See Sir F. B. Head's Fortnight in Ireland.)
Yours, &c., J. G.—P.

DREADFUL SUFFERING AT SEA.—In our last we published a paragraph from the Boston Courier, announcing the arrival at New York of the ship Centurion, with the survivors of the crew of the bark Dromhair, Capt. Calkins, of the Centurion, gives the following particulars:—

"January 9th, latitude 54 deg. 50 min., longitude 18 deg., fell in with British bark Dromhair, from Quebec for Sligo, waterlogged, and took off the survivors of the crew, seven in number, the remainder (five) having perished through starvation, having been twenty one days on the wreck, with only half a biscuit a day, and what water they caught when it rained.

The Dromhair was from Quebec, bound to Sligo, in Ireland, with a cargo of timber. She had experienced a succession of heavy west and north-west gales until December 26, while lying in a tremendous gale, she was boarded by a sea which swept the decks of everything—houses, bulwarks, rails, stanchions, wheel, with the man. The vessel also sprung a-leak. The pumps were kept going, and she was got free, but the gale continuing, she filled again, and became perfectly unmanageable, every sail set having been blown from the yards. The crew were in this situation for twenty-one days, subsisting for fourteen days on half a biscuit per day, and what water they could catch running down the masts. The other seven days they subsisted on small strips of salt pork only.

During these twenty-one days three of the crew died from exhaustion and starvation, and two others died after being seen by Capt. Calkins of the Centurion. Those surviving were Captain Hutchinson, Mr. Elliot, chief officer, the second mate, steward, and three of the seamen—all of whom, except Mr. Elliot and one seaman, were transferred, Feb. 24, to the ship Magellan, from Boston for Swansea, having perfectly recovered their health and strength.

When Captain Calkins hove to under the lee of the Dromhair, it was blowing a gale; but notwithstanding, he lowered his boats and went to the disabled ship. On arriving there a scene was before them such as seldom presents itself to man—the dead and dying lying there intermingled.

The living were carefully lowered into the boats of the Centurion, and when on board that ship every care and attention which one sailor could give another was given. Mrs. Captain Calkins fortunately accompanied her husband, and the rescued speak in terms of the highest praise of her gentle and unremitting exertions for their benefit."

REPORTED LOSS OF A BRITISH WAR STEAMER AND PART OF HER CREW.

The Boston Saturday Evening Gazette publishes the following:—
A passenger in the Karnac, from Nassau, reports the loss of the British war steamer Nassau, from Jamaica, on a cruise. She struck on a hidden rock on the night of March 4th, and soon sunk. The officers and men, sixty in number, took to their boats; ten of them were subsequently swept overboard in a heavy gale. One of the boats, containing the captain and nineteen men, managed to reach the southern coast of Cuba, but the other boat, containing thirty men, has not been heard from. The party suffered terribly from cold and famine, and were on the point of perishing when their boat was driven on the Cuban coast.

FROM CALIFORNIA.—New Orleans, March 24.—The California mails per Quaker City have arrived.

The mail steamer Sonora, which left San Francisco on the 25th of Panama, had 400 passengers, and the Orzaba, which sailed on the same day, also for Panama, had 700 passengers.

The brig Swiss Boy had been destroyed by the Hudson Bay Indians, in Nitinet Sound. The crew were captured by the Indians, but afterwards released.

Advices from China to Jan. 20 had been received at San Francisco, and mentioned the bombardment of Nankin by the rebels, though the despatch leaves us in the dark in the matter.

The San Francisco papers have Australian advices, but no dates are given. The bark Temadite has been wrecked, and 115 lives thereby lost, at the mouth of the Mackenzie.

TRIAL OF A U. S. MARSHAL.—Detroit, March 26.—The trial of U. S. Marshal Tyler, for killing Capt. Jones, of the brig Concord, at Port Satira, O. W., last fall, was concluded this evening, by the jury rendering a verdict of involuntary manslaughter, and recommending the prisoner to mercy.
