LONDON (CP) — Canadian buyers were among 1,000 spectators from the international fashion scene who watched the Coutures of Harewood open the grand London fashion week Monday.

This twice-yearly event, sponsored by the fashion group of London to present the best of British ready-to-wear clothes to overseas buyers and journalists, got under way with three shows by 25 of the group's member firms.

In just over an hour some 200 models in elaborate dresses were displayed, making from simple wool suits and woven dresses to elaborate ball gowns in the grand manner.

Each manufacturer concentrated on one or two basic looks for his collection and one built up a display on the theme of the perennial "little black dress."

Brocade was a popular choice for cocktail evening dresses. In dazzling combinations of tulle and gold, tulle and gold or tulle and silver.

The shows will continue throughout the week, backed with receptions for the overseas visitors.

The CGIT group of the Summerside Presbyterian Church held a Daffodil Tea on Saturday in the church hall. They were assisted by their leaders, Mrs. Robert Romcke, Mrs. Walter Coulson and Mrs. A.E. Maclelland. The head table was centered with a low bowl of daffodils and the small tables were each centered with daffodils. Catherine MacDonald greeted the guests at the door. Mrs. J. Donald MacKay presided over the tea and the girls assisted in serving.

Mr. and Mrs. Seymour McCully were honored recently in their new home in Wilmet when members of the community gathered to tender them a housewarming. They were ushered to the home by Mrs. Hiram Leeco after which an address was read by Mrs. Lester Bishop. The presentation of a large

NEW DEMOCRATS SPEAK

Sociologists tell us that in a democratic free enterprise society, like Canada, we should expect a system of class distinction. In Canada, we do live under such a system, and this is not a bad thing. The political system is completely arbitrary, we do distinguish three major classes — low, middle, and upper.

The value of such a system is that it provides an incentive for each individual to better his position. Through Democracy an individual is free, within limits, to choose his occupation, his residence, his associates and his political affiliation. It is completely arbitrary, we do distinguish three major classes — low, middle, and upper.

So long as this system of classification allows for free movement from one class to another, it is a good system. However, if the situation grows to the state that one class prosper at the expense of another class or one class finds it difficult to prosper, then there is something wrong.

In Prince Edward Island we seem to have all the benefits of a free enterprise democracy except one.

In the field of politics we seem to step from a system of class distinction to a class system.

As you know a cast system does not allow for movement so far as your social standing is concerned. You are born into the class of your forefathers and there you must remain the rest of your life.

Isn't this the case on P. E. I. with regard to one's political affiliation? One is labelled a Liberal or a Conservative simply because of his parents and not because of an individual choice.

If we do not drop this cast system in politics, how can we expect to improve our political democracy? We must first see that we are not a class system, and there is a grave danger that we may find ourselves in an economic cast system.

Before you cast your vote you should make your choice in the light of reason and not from the darkness of tradition.

These are changing and challenging times, let us not stand still. Vote New Democratic. VOTE FOR A PLAN FOR PROGRESS.

MR. AND MRS. O. FREDERIC CURTIS

Park Royal United Is Scene Of Spring Wedding Ceremony

A pretty spring wedding was solemnized at Park Royal United Church in Paradise on March 23, 1962 by Rev. J.H. McEwen and Rev. T.H. Somers when Helen Randolph, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J.H. Currie became the bride of Owen Frederic, son of Dr. and Mrs. O.H. Curtis in a double ring ceremony.

Leslie Hiscott was the organist and he accompanied Mrs. Gordon Stewart as the bridesmaid. The wedding was decorated with white and blue flowers and white mums for the aisle.

The bride given in marriage by her father was gowned in a short length dress of sky-blue tulle over tulle with matching accessories. She carried a bouquet of white carnations.

Miss Virginia Currie, friend of the bride, attended as maid of honor. She wore a hot-pink tulle dress with matching accessories and a bouquet of white carnations.

Barbara Jean, little sister of the bride, was the flower girl. She wore a pink tulle dress with matching accessories and carried a pastel bouquet.

Mr. John Owen, friend of the groom was best man; and the usher was Don Shoen and Gordon Currie. The guest pews were marked with blue bows and lilacs of the valley.

Mrs. Currie chose for her daughter's wedding a rose dress of chiffon over tulle with a lace bodice and white accessories, and white corsage.

Mrs. Curtis was wearing a bone lace dress over green tulle with a green cummerbund and matching accessories. Her corsage was in a bronze shade.

A reception for forty guests was held at the bride's home on Gordon Drive. Presiding over the tea cups was Mrs. Arthur Murray, Moncton, aunt of the bride. Anne Cameron served the coffee and Mrs. Marjorie Robertson and Eleanor Ross the guests. The toast to the bride was given by Mrs. Virginia Currie, friend of the bride, and responded to by the groom. Miss Nancy Curtis, sister of the groom, was in charge of the guest book.

ELLEN'S DIARY

The Countryside Falls Into Pattern, This New Spring

"This noon it was, on this pleasant day of the Maytime, when by rights it was the dinner-hour on farms, the great milk-trucks were put back in the lanes and the great trucks happened, was a convenient time for the men and a pair of boots of the same to frolic together.

"Splash" a tank was settled in the stream.

"Splash" its mate fell beside it. And between them, and on the near and far side, there remained open spaces over the stream. This was the moment, we chose to trip down to lane's end to catch a ride to school.

We saw James, husband of Mrs. Elsie, glance up at our approach. He shook his head in a gesture we recognize from our long association together, as being a frustration which belongs to the spring. Gage noticed it. Grieved, Jamie chuckled. Meanwhile the car waited a few yards away at lane's end. And between us was this "great pit" fixed.

"Of all times to choose," James grumbled. "The answer is ready. It wouldn't be coming home, would it be going?"

Meanwhile the car waited a few yards away at lane's end. And between us was this "great pit" fixed.

"Of all times to choose," James grumbled. "The answer is ready. It wouldn't be coming home, would it be going?"

"This was the moment, we chose to trip down to lane's end to catch a ride to school. We saw James, husband of Mrs. Elsie, glance up at our approach. He shook his head in a gesture we recognize from our long association together, as being a frustration which belongs to the spring. Gage noticed it. Grieved, Jamie chuckled.
