Aunt Jemima Visits Alberton

"Aunt Jemima" of pancake fame, spent Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday in Alberton at Moran's store. Genial and courteous, she welcomed many callers with ready smile and a warm greeting. Yesterday afternoon as she was busy with bowl and mixer, a customer in the store approached with the comment, "Oh, she's mixing up some pancakes." "No," said Aunt Jemima, "I just make pancakes in fall and winter. In the summer I make cakes," and she showed the customer a package of cake mix. Soon the batter she had been stirring was placed in the pan and popped into a portable oven.

Aunt Jemima had baked in the morning and callers who wished to sample the finished product did not have to wait for the cake to bake. Generous squares of white and chocolate cake were passed to all who entered the store.

During recent weeks Aunt Jemima has visited several Island centres and this was her first visit to Alberton and without question during the past two years she has visited a number of Maritime centres demonstrating Pancake Mix in the cool weather and cake mix in the warm weather, encouraging modern home makers to prepare delicious food the easy way.-B.

PREPARATIONS

Week races are in progress the area will be supplied with benches for the comfort of patrons.

Marked Improvement

One of the greatest improvements is the larger space provided in front of the grandstand this year. In former seasons there was always a crush of humanity between the outer rail and the parliamentary wickets. However, this year the management has moved the wickets back as completely new ones are presently being built under the stand. One row of seats has been taken from the stand itself to add to the space in front.

At the same time the former dust nuisance in the standing space has been eliminated by the use of ashes and calcium chloride. This improvement is also being carried further to include the present grassed section in front of the east bleachers. There the ground will be levelled and the same treatment applied. The whole job should aid greatly in relieving the annual congestion of people between dashes.

Under the new arrangement the entire setup regarding par-mutuel machines will be contained in the ticket sellers and the cashiers are placed under the stand a new roof has been put on and it is rainproof for protection. A new floor has also been laid over the bleachers, there will be a clear stretch of office space from one end to the other to permit easy movement of computers. R. C. M. Police and Provincial Government overseers.

Solid Foundations

It is interesting to note that the supporting timbers of the grandstand are as thick and solid as the day they were installed. Set in concrete they provide a firm foundation which gives no indication of the slightest sign of wear.

In the new open area east of the bleachers there will be erected another canteen for the benefit of customers who like a bite to eat between races. At the same time all the former toilet facilities are being enlarged and improved in new quarters.

The centrefield presents a new look for those who have not seen it recently. The former high ground has been completely levelled and the entire area re-seeded in grass. Officials of the show are presently investigating a new type of chemical which after four applications ends the dust nuisance on racing strip.

100 Horses in Training

Such an idea is almost a necessity with the large number of horses at the track now or expected within the next couple of weeks. At present there are over 100 horses in training with 40 more expected shortly after July 1. In all the track facilities can accommodate 220 equines.

Conservative Meeting In Fifth Prince

Bell, leader of the Progressive Conservative Party in Prince Edward Island, were guest speakers at the regular meeting of the 5th District of Prince County Young Progressive Conservative Association, held last evening in the Clifton Hotel in Summerside.

The 5th District organization was also host to representatives from Y.P.C. organizations in the 2nd, 3rd, and 4th Districts of Prince.

In his remarks, Mr. MacLean expressed regret that Howie Meeker, M.P. for Waterloo South, was unable to be present because of a previous commitment, but stated that Mr. Meeker expects to be present at a meeting in Summerside some time in September.

Mr. MacLean said that as far as the Progressive Conservative Party are concerned they are engaged in a federal election campaign right now. He stressed the importance of having candidates in the field, and expressed encouragement by the excellent showing the party has made in recent by-elections. Mr. MacLean will be the speaker in the series "Report From Parliament Hill," to be heard over the Charlottetown radio station on Saturday night.

Mr. Hueston brought greetings from the national executive and spoke of the work done by the Y.P.C.'s in past by-elections. He stated that the Y.P.C.'s as a group are needed not only as voters, but to give service to the party as canvassers, agents, etc.

Mr. Bell spoke of the need of provincial candidates co-operating with federal candidates in the forthcoming federal election, and of the need of Y.P.C.'s becoming future candidates.

10 PEI Girl Guides To Attend National Camp

Ten lucky girls and two field staff members from Prince Edward Island will be among 1,200 Girl Guides from across Canada who will be attending the Canadian Girl Guides national camp being held near Ottawa, Ontario, from July 14th to 25th.

Guides between the ages of 13 and 16, who have attained their second class standings and have been chosen.

They will come from all provinces and the Northwest Territories. Also invited are 28 international delegates.

This great gathering will be officially opened by Hon. Louis St. Laurent, Prime Minister of Canada. A wonderful program has been planned for the Guides, and buses have been chartered for supervised sight seeing, and buses will also take them to Ottawa for a day of shopping or visiting.

Before Guides arrive at the camp, all tests and shetlers will be pitched. Appetizing and well balanced menus have already been prepared.

The health of the Guides will be well guarded by two doctors and ten nurses assisted by the St. John Ambulance Brigade.

There will be a well equipped hospital, and within the units first aid posts.

There will be thirty-eight groups with twenty-five Guides and three leaders in each group. All provinces will be represented in each group, giving the girls a chance to make friends of Guides from other parts of Canada and learn about the other provinces.

Honor For Island Guides

Mrs. Thane A. Campbell, Summerside, who has just been appointed provincial member of the National Council of Girl Guides, when asked yesterday, about the participation of Island Guides at this national camp, stated that this was indeed an honor for Island Guides to be able to attend this camp.

Mrs. Campbell said tribute to the fine work being done by the women who are providing leadership in Guide and Brownie organizations in the province, and appealed for greater public interest in this splendid girls' organization.

She pointed out that several prominent men actively support and assist the Boy Scout groups and stated that a similar interest in the Girl Guide movement would be a great boon to the expansion

Dr. MacVicar's Address

"The technical training you received in hospital training, the books you read and the lectures you received will give you confidence in a hospital setting," Dr. MacVicar told the graduates in his address. "But what you are yourselves, how you feel about your patients will decide how important and useful you are in nursing."

This help, he emphasized, is the heart of nursing, "the undramatic part, the part which is endless and never seems to show reward. This is the part which cannot be measured, is expected to be the duty of the nurse, but which is such an important aspect of the total treatment of the patient."

The speaker recalled that in London some hundreds of years ago strollers on Sunday afternoons used to pass Bethlehem mental hospital so they could be entertained by the sights and strange behaviours of the patients - inmates in those days. "Today," he said, "many people have the same attitude towards mental hospitals and the patients, and thought they might not be able to stroll around the grounds and the hospital corridors idly, their interest may have the same quality of morbid interest. In your talking about your work and the manner in which you react to their interest, you can do a great deal to change their attitudes."

"You have seen treatments, have helped do them yourselves; have seen people who look and act so differently than yourselves or your friends; have seen them get well and leave the hospital more contented than when they were admitted. You have heard how we understand mental illness begins; that it is not incurable and that the person who has it is not cursed, but is very unhappy and lonely. Let your questioners know that mental patients are still persons; that one can like them and dislike them as one likes and dislikes normal people; that it is no more a disgrace or novelty than tuberculosis."

"Finally, I want to impress on you that though in the second year of your training new treatment, such as shock, was introduced to this hospital, it has not taken the place of the humans who administer it, or the nurses who attend to the patients on the ward. These new treatments are being used because we do not know all the answers yet, and find them useful in shortening the course of the illness. Last year I listened to a male supervisor who had been looking after mental patients for 38 years, and who was summing up his experiences over these years. He had seen all the new treatments, had helped use them, and was still convinced that the human element was the most important part of the treatment. His advice was: be a younger nurse; be humane, be humble; there but for the Grace of God go you."

Claim Gear Lost By Operation Of Dragners Inshore

Mackerel fishermen along the west coast from North Point to West Point report that a large number of dragners are operating inshore and causing heavy damage to their nets. One fisherman from Miminegash had five new nets, which are expensive this year, damaged beyond repair and many others have been making complaints of nets destroyed or lost completely.

These dragners are said to be from the St. Andrew's, Shipigon and Caracat areas and approach within five miles of the shore. It is understood that the Department of fisheries has been advised to see what action can be taken to prevent future loss of gear.-FW.
