A MONOTONOUS JOKE.—The Times says: A prominent dentist yesterday received a neat little box in the pleasurable anticipation that it contained a present from his best girl. A. Brehaut. The Carroll has recently been thoroughly overhauled and made ready for the season's work. The officers are: Captain, Charles Hansen; first officer, John Ives; second officer, Lorenzo D. Crowell; purser, Fred H. Sawyer; steward, George Forbes; chief engineer, I. F. Sanborn; assistant engineer, P. Mullen. Most of the officers are well and favorably known in Charlottetown, and were warmly welcomed by their many friends. The Carroll had fifty passengers on board when she left Boston. Another Letter From Mr. Heartz.

SIR,—I wrote a letter on the second water pipe that is now in contemplation sometime ago; and I have received no answer. Therefore, I wish to trouble you a little again. In my former letters I exonerated our present city councillors. But sorry I am that I have to take a very different view of them this time. I was not aware of their conduct when I wrote before; therefore, I have to apologize for the flattery that I gave them. I am aware that the City Council had all authority to transact the city's business, to tax and provide for the city's wants, to guard it against all its enemies, and to see that no person made any encroachments upon the city's rights. Sir, the charge I have against them is this: The Water Commissioners carried a bill through the House of Assembly and received the power to fasten twelve thousand dollars on the shoulders of the taxpayers; and those councillors look on and make no attempt to stop them in their high-handed transaction, they fell out among themselves and tried to disqualify one another. Fine men these to watch the city's welfare. They may be thankful they are not in the military service, or they would be tried by court martial for allowing the enemy to come and carry off the spoils un molested. There is but one thing they can do to recover themselves from the difficulty, and that is to call a general meeting of the citizens without delay and bring those Commissioners before the people and see if they can clear up their conduct before the public, for there is something in it that the people cannot understand. Gentlemen, if you refuse to call this public meeting, your names and your photographs should be sent to the museum for the benefit of after generations; and to say that those are the men that fell out among themselves and caused the enemy to triumph. I now turn to Mr. McKinnon. Sir, I have waited for you to reply to my letter and give us some light upon the subject in question, but you have not so far done so. The people want information on this second pipe. They cannot see the need of it. Your statement of it that the people will not swallow; and for you to say that we will be more safe from fire is absurd. Sir, if you had a dozen pipes, you would have fires. I have not heard of any want of water at our fires, as the fires are so far ahead when first seen that there could nothing more be done than to put them out. Water would not replace the damage that was done before the fire was seen. Now, sir, I must inform you that this is the way that you are throwing sand in the people's eyes. Tell them about fire softly and you will carry them with you. Certainly, water is the thing to put out fires, but you have an abundant supply already. You tell them that it will pay for itself in a few years, but we believe that this is not so, because we cannot see how. These are frivolous things to tax the city with twenty thousand dollars for. But Mr. McKinnon says that it will only be about six hundred dollars a year. I must tell Mr. McKinnon that it was the last straw that broke the camel's back. We have plenty taxes to pay already, and the people are leaving the city as fast as they can. While I am writing two more of our mechanics are leaving here to find new homes in the United States, and there is a general feeling in numbers of the people to leave here and find new homes in other lands. I have to inform you that the people will not take your version of that second pipe. They think that there is an outside pressure bearing upon you; that is, there are about four of the wealthy class, who live on the road on which you intend to bring the water in, and they want to get the benefit of the water. This, if true, is pretty saucy, indeed. But I think that there is something deeper than this that has come to light yet. I think I have an idea of it, but I will not commit it to paper at present. I come now to make my appeal to the taxpayers in general. Citizens you have been slighted and shamefully dealt with. You have placed three men in office as Water Commissioners as your servants to transact a certain business, and they have stepped over the line of servants and become your masters, and contracted a debt of twenty thousand dollars for you to pay without calling a public meeting of asking your advice on the subject. Pretty servants, indeed. I advise you to call a public meeting and bring those men before you to give an account of their conduct. At the same time, if you wish to be taxed for nothing, you can, and I will try to bear the galling yoke as well as I can. CHARLES HEARTZ. (Guardian please copy.)
