Ike Hints Of Aid For India If Border Dispute Worsens

By MARVIN ARROWSMITH
NEW DELHI (AP)—President Eisenhower last week told India, jittery over a border dispute with Communist China, that the United States has strong forces ready to help its friends. He said that military weakness invites aggression, subversion and revolution.

The American leader got a deafening ovation when he appeared before a joint session of Parliament, but the members were silent when he spoke of the dangers of military weakness. Eisenhower coupled his warning with a declaration that universal controlled disarmament is imperative. He called for a "five-year or 50-year plan" to rid the world of tensions, fixations and propaganda pressures.

FREQUENT APPLAUSE

These parts won frequent ripples of applause—he was interrupted 17 times—and at the end several parliamentarians whose opinions were sampled said they were impressed by Eisenhower's basic policies of peace.

The half-hour speech was perhaps the most important Eisenhower will deliver in his 11-nation, 22,000-mile tour. He got his biggest applause when he declared that the United States is committed to a ceaseless search for ways to end the "vicious circle" of the arms race—that "controlled universal disarmament is the imperative of our time."

The demand for it by the hundreds of millions whose chief concern is the long future of themselves and their children will, I hope, become so universal and insistent that no man, no government can withstand it," he asserted.

But, he said, "weakness in arms often invites aggression or subversion or externally manipulated revolution."

MEANING OBVIOUS
He did not mention China or communism by name, but his meaning was plain.

Referring to the high price the United States paid in Korea, he said a long series of harsh alarms had been caused by "the aggressive intentions of an alien philosophy, backed by great military might." He continued: "Faced with this fact, we in America have felt it necessary to make clear our own determination to resist aggression through the provision of adequate forces.

"They serve not only ourselves, but those of our friends and Allies, who, like us, have perceived this danger. But they serve for defensive purposes only."

FEAR AMONG NATIONS

Balancing the need of disarmament with the need for strength, the U.S. president said the real trouble is that the world has not "solved the problem of fear among nations."

Raising his voice, he got his biggest applause when he declared:

"In the name of humanity can we not join in a five-year or 50-year plan against mistrust and misgiving and fixation on the wrongs of the past? Can we not apply ourselves to the removal of reduction of the causes of tension that exist in the world?"

Jail Inspection Ordered At S'side

SUMMERSIDE — Provincial Health Minister Dr. Hubert MacNeill said Monday that a re-inspection of conditions at Prince County Jail has been ordered but it is not known for certain as yet when the sanitation department will be able to carry it out.

After the reinspection the reports will be compared with the last inspection in 1957 and new recommendations will be made to the attorney general, stated Dr. MacNeill.

Conditions in the 1957 report were described as "deplorable" with stress on the dirty floors, bed clothing, as well as faulty wiring, inadequate washing facilities and damaged plumbing fixtures.

Dr. MacNeill inspected the jail shortly after taking office and after the 1957 sanitation report had been referred to him.

The inspection two years ago was carried out by Giles Cantwell sanitary inspector for the department of health and was eventually forwarded to the attorney general's office.

Captain Says Arrival Delayed By Heavy Seas

SUMMERSIDE — An hour before sailing from Summerside Sunday Captain Adolph Svalland of the Norwegian freighter "Ferne" summoned a Guardian reporter to his ship to denounce as false a report heard in Summerside, but not published in either The Patriot or The Guardian that seas had been flat calm on Thursday night and that he had failed to bring his ship into port despite favorable weather and the presence of two local pilots on board.

Captain Svalland emphatically stated that his ship was brought into dock at the earliest possible hour that weather permitted, and avowed that the seas were far from being calm on Thursday night and were running so strong that both pilots were in agreement with him that winds were too strong to safely attempt to bring in the 295 foot ship that rode high on the water because she carried no cargo.

Captain Svalland, 25 years a captain, has been at sea for 40 years, and pointed out that as master of the ship he was only too anxious to dock and load at the earliest possible moment allowed by weather.

He said that efforts to reach the ship by wireless were heard but were so weak that they could hardly be understood, but they had been answered immediately by the captain said.

He said, also, that he had been in conversation with his ship's office in New York while they lay at anchor outside Summerside Harbor. He expressed pleasure at the efficient loading service provided at Summerside that made possible his departure in record time with 35,000 bags.

The remainder of the cargo that will total sixty to sixty-six thousand bags will be supplied at Georgetown, where loading was commenced Monday, with the total cargo destined for Jacksonville, Florida.

Christmas Party Held By Group

KENSINGTON — The members of the Presbyterian Men's Association of Kensington Malpeque and Freetown and their wives were guests of the Kensington Young Adults in the lower Hall on Wednesday evening, Dec. 9.

The meeting was held around the Christmas tree and was chaired by the president, Mrs. Fred Semple, who was assisted in leading the devotions by Mrs. Earl Semple and Mrs. Horace Paynter. The minister, Rev. E. H. Bean gave the Christmas message.

After a games period, the gifts were opened amid considerable hilarity for the gifts exchanged by the members and guests were to be presented to the Protestant Orphanage, and included many toys. Naturally the working qualities of each toy must be tested by the recipient with the result that the party resembled Christmas day with the family all home.

Refreshments took the form of a pot luck supper. Robert Jardine of the Association thanked the Young Adults and the president responded.

Veteran Stage Star Passes

NEW YORK (AP)—Edna Wallace Hopper, stage star and toast of Broadway in the early 1900s, died of illness Monday in her upper east side home. In recent years she had been a shrewd and constant stock trader.

The star of the almost-legendary musical "Floradora" was believed by friends to be in her mid-80s, but she never would disclose her age. She sometimes was known as the "eternal flapper."

She was stricken Saturday with pneumonia and complications developed.

The petite onetime ingenue was the third of the six wives of actor Dewolf Hopper. The marriage broke up after several years and she married A. O. Brown, a stock broker. She leaves no survivors.

Until her illness she put in a five-day week handling her business investments personally. The brokerage firm of L. F. Rothschild and Company supplied her with a desk in the company office to conduct her trading.

She starred as Lady Holyhood in Florida. She was not a member of the show's renowned "society."
