...ment page 4th, but in which I am sorry to see two misprinted dates, namely, 1857 for 1837 and 1827 for 1829. Your correspondent has at last made patent the patriotic design of his very choice productions, when he says that it is the "showing up of a vain, self-inflated, disrespectful anti-Confederate." This is, of course, so highly important an object as to justify any amount of garbling for its accomplishment. Now, it appears to me a pity that so elegant a string of polite epithets as this is, should be entirely lost: and, in order to prevent such a misfortune, I will strike out the prefix "anti," and request that its author will wear it around his hat as a badge the most suitable and descriptive of the brain that gave it birth.

In conclusion, I would seriously ask your correspondent, does he believe that one in every three or four hundred of your intelligent subscribers will, for one moment, believe that any sane man could possibly mean that our Island Militia were to be organized and trained in order to meet, in battle array, any portion of her Majesty's Forces, in the event of this Colony being to be coerced by the British Government into the proposed Confederation? No: such an idea could not find a resting-place, for one moment, in any sane and sober mind. Yet, that is evidently the pretence or presumption on which he bases the two notable letters which he has inflicted on your readers.

I am, Sir,
Respectfully yours,
K. HENDERSON.

TERRIFIC FIRE AT PORTLAND, U. S.

LEWISTON, Me. July 5.

Passengers by morning train report a fire in Portland yesterday p. m. in boat house near Boston & Maine Railroad Depot, and near Cochrane's Corner, and swept up Fore, Congress, and Middle Streets, entirely laying waste every thing on those streets up as far as India Street, near the Grand Trunk Depot, and is now raging in Washington Street, or Nigger Hill. Every Bank in the city is in ruins. No depot yet burnt: the City Building entirely destroyed, the dome falling about 2 a. m. The fire had not gone beyond Cumberland Street in the back part of the City. Every printing office is burnt. Fox Block, Telegraph Office, and Express Offices burnt in early part of the night. The Post Office, Custom House, and every thing generally in the business part of the city is burnt. Steam fire engines are arriving from various places, and several from Boston.

PORTLAND, July 5, P. M.

A terrible fire broke out yesterday afternoon—raged all night, and had not been subdued at 11:30 this a. m. About half the city is destroyed up to this morning. About a mile and a half long had been burned: over fifty houses had been blown up to stop the fire. All the city and county buildings, all the banks, all the newspaper offices, all the wholesale dry goods stores, several churches, the telegraph offices, and a large majority of all the business places are destroyed. The fire has destroyed everything so completely that the streets can hardly be traced. Telegraphs have been sent to Boston for provisions and 1500 tents for the homeless families. No estimate can yet be made of the loss, but will amount to millions.

THE DEFEAT AND SUPPOSED RESIGNATION OF MINISTERS.

The Tories gathered up their strength in the House of Commons on Monday night, and giving battle to the Government, succeeded in defeating the Borough Franchise clause of the Reform Bill by a majority of 11. This clause was considered the vital part of the measure, for by it the larger portion of the proposed extension of the franchise was to be affected. On the following day a Cabinet Council was held, and as Lord Russel and Mr Gladstone afterwards stated in Parliament, "a communication was made to her Majesty;" but the court, happened to be at this juncture in the Highlands of Scotland, near six hundred miles from London, and the inconvenience of delay is felt in bringing the Ministerial crisis to a termination. It is believed that Ministers have resigned, and that they only hold office until their successors are appointed.

The Tories were well aware of what success of Lord Dunkelin's amendment would lead to, for the Government had distinctly stated that they would stand or fall by the principle of the Bill, against which the amendment was directed. The proposal was to establish a £7 franchise upon the basis of rental, and Lord Dunkelin moved the substitution of ratable in stead of rental value. The effect of this would have been to raise the franchise from the sum proposed by the Government, to about £9, which is so little below the present standard as to admit but an inconsiderable number of new electors to the franchise. In point of fact, it was reducing the question of Reform to an absurdity; and the Chancellor of the Exchequer, stated, before the House went to a division, that the amendment struck at the very life of the plan of enfranchisement the Government had proposed, in satisfaction of the just claims of the people. An intimation was implied that the success of the amendment might decide the term of the Administration's existence; but it was disregarded; and on the division taking place there appeared for the amendment, 315; against it 304. On the announcement of these numbers, cheering on the Opposition Benches was immense, the prospect of a change of Ministry being a cheerful one for those who had so long been craving for place regardless of consequences to the national interests, and so frequently doomed to disappointment. One of the most persevering friends and advisers of the Opposition, who is reluctant, nevertheless, to see the power of Government taken out of the hands of the Liberal party in the present embarrassed state of foreign affairs, recommended Lord Russel and his colleagues to disregard the defeat, accept the amendment, and go on with the bill. "There can be no question," said the Times (this kind adviser), "that the Government ought to accept the 'rating' test as a correction of their own scheme, and then proceed with it as if nothing had happened so far and so long as they intended to carry it before their proposal was amended. The utmost ingenuity must fail to discover, in the choice between rateable and clear annual' value any vital principle of Reform." But the difference is great: it is nothing less than between a qualification of £7 and £9; and Mr. Gladstone was correct in describing it of immense importance. Mr. Bernal Osborne had illustrated the point with reference to the town represented by himself, where, although the rents on both sides of the street are equal, the rating differs considerably. He also gave some other instances of variation. A revising barrister, a man of great knowledge, was asked what was the fair proportion between gross estimated rental and rateable value, and his answer was, "It varies excessively, from 5 per cent. up to 40 per cent." In Liverpool, a house of £5 gross estimated value is rated at £4, in Manchester at £3 10s, and in Bradford at £3. Nothing could show more plainly than these facts the injurious character of the amendment upon the efficacy of the Reform Bill as a means of extending the franchise. . . . A system of rateable value would be partial and unjust, for there would be a different test in every town in the country. In Oldham a deduction of 33 per cent. is made from the gross estimated rental, and Mr. Hibbert, adverting to this example, said, "if the franchise were taken at a £7 rateable value it would not only not add to the number of voters, but would actually disfranchise a number of persons now in the possession of the franchise. It would, in fact, require a rental of £10 10s to qualify for the franchise. The amendment would only add 190 to the present town constituency of Oldham—an addition which would not be worth having. Such a limited proposal would be an insult to the classes interested. Not only in Oldham, but in Stockport, Ashton, Rochdale, Bolton, and all the large and growing towns of Lancashire, a £6 or £7 rating franchise would produce but an infinitessimal increase upon the existing constituency. In Ashton 30 per cent. is deducted upon all houses over £6 rental; in Birmingham the deduction is 22 per cent. on all houses under £10; in one part of Windsor the deduction is 25 per cent., and in other parts of the same royal borough it is 33⅓ per cent. The theory of taking rateable value is plausible; but it would work mischievously and vexatiously in practice. A new crop of errors would spring up which another Reform Bill would have to be constructed to remove. Persons whose means are equal, and who live in the same description of houses, at equal rentals, fulfilling similar local duties, and in every respect standing on the same footing, would be divided as regards elective rights, and whilst one man was qualified to vote for members of Parliament his next door neighbour would be excluded. This was the point upon which the Government was defeated, and their defeat has been followed by their resignation. The Court was, however, so far away from the metropolis that Parliament was necessarily adjourned until Monday next: and the public mind remains in a state of anxiety upon the subject.

The Opposition cannot have deeply considered the possible consequences of the success of their proceeding. The resignation of Ministers at the present moment would be unfortunate, for the continent is alarmed, and some of its mightiest states are endangered by an unjustifiable war. It is necessary that statesmen in power in England should be men not only devoted to the cause of peace, but possessing the confidence of the country. Are the Tories qualified for office by their antecedents? Their traditional policy is one of war; and they can no more be diverted from it than the leopard can be made to change his spots. It was the Tories who desired to plunge us into a war with America. It was the Tories who insisted upon the necessity for this country going to war for Denmark, when that unhappy kingdom was beset by the illustrious brigands who have at last quarrelled over the spoil. Who is there, looking back upon the past and judging from its recorded events, can fail to apprehend that the Tories in power will reverse the pacific policy of the liberal Administration; and whilst France is calmly looking on the war, waiting for its opportunity, and Russia is cautiously imitating the French example, will find some foolish excuse or pretext for taking part in the war? The resignation of the Liberal Ministry would be a fearful augury for the peace of this kingdom.—News of the World, June 24.

ST. DUNSTAN'S COLLEGE.

THE annual Examination at St. Dunstan's College will take place on Wednesday next, commencing at 10 o'clock. The friends of the Institution and of Education generally are expected to attend. The Examinations at this Institution are always of the most lively and brilliant character, and we have no doubt the forthcoming one will be like its predecessors in these respects.

WE have received a lengthy and important letter from the Hon. Mr. Coles, respecting the purchase by the Government of the Cunard Estates, for which we shall cheerfully make room in our columns next week.

☞ Owing to the absence of Mr. Whelan from town during the greater part of the last week, several matters of local interest, which would seem to require editorial notice, are necessarily postponed for the present.

MELANCHOLY ACCIDENT.—It is with unfeigned regret we learn that Hugh Montgomery, Esq., one of the Coroners of the County of Restigouche, and brother of the Hon. John Montgomery, who represented Restigouche for many years in the Provincial Legislature, was, on Friday, the 22d inst., instantaneously killed at Dalhousie, by a horse running over him. Mr. Montgomery was an old and highly respected member of the community in which he lived, and his loss will be much felt in the County. We sincerely sympathise with the family in their sudden and sad bereavement, but they are in the hands of Him "who doeth all things well," and he will not forget them in "this their hour of affliction."—Miramichi Gleaner.

[The deceased gentleman was a native of P. E. Island, and a brother of the Hon. Donald Montgomery, President of the Legislative Council of this Island.]—ED. ISL.

FIRE.—The inhabitants of this City were again aroused from their slumbers by the cry of fire and the ringing of Fire Bells, on Wednesday night last, between the hours of eleven and twelve o'clock. The fire is said to have broken out in the Carriage Factory of Messrs. McKinnon & Fraser Upper Prince Street. The flames burst forth with great force, and in a few moments the Dwelling Houses of Mr. J. Beaven, Mr. McKinnon, Mrs. Beaven, a large Warehouse in the rear, recently occupied as a Cabinet-maker's workshop, and the building in which the fire originated, were soon burnt down to the ground. Fortunately the wind was W. S. W., which carried the burning embers across the street and to a vacant lot—had it been from the North the destruction of property would have been very great. We regret to learn that Messrs. McKinnon & Fraser will suffer severely by the fire, having had a number of new Carriages, and material for building others, on the premises. They are only partially insured. Old Mrs. Bevan has lost her house, and we understand she had no insurance on it.—Isl.

His Excellency the Lieut Governor, accompanied by the Hon. T. Heath Haviland, Colonial Secretary, and George D. Atkinson, Esq., arrived on Thursday night from Halifax, in the Steamer Heather Belle, from Bruic.—Ib.

It was reported in town yesterday, that Mr ANGUS PRAUGHT, of Mill Vale, was found dead on the side of the road, about 10 miles from town, on his way home, on Wednesday night last. It is supposed he had fallen from his truck, on which was a barrel of flour, and that the flour had fallen on him, causing his death.—Ib.

HOLLOWAY'S PILLS.—Nervous Irritability—The very perfection of the human body renders it like a complex machine, very liable to be thrown out of order—a state that is at once made manifest by the nerves. Holloway's Pills are always the seasonable and reliable remedy; they relieve every ailment, which is not mortal, in the human system. As alteratives, stomachics tonics and aperients, these Pills occupy a proud pre-eminence, from which no other medicine can dislodge them: they restore health and strength which nervous and dyspeptic sufferers have failed to recover elsewhere. Holloway's Pills act so directly upon the organs of digestion, assimilation and circulation that they immediately arouse torpid organs, augment diminishing vital power and support failing energies.

THANKS TO MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP, we have been relieved from sleepless nights of painful watching with poor, suffering, teething children. It gives not only rest, but vigor and health—the little fellow will wake up bright, cheerful and refreshed—softens the gums, cures wind colic, and regulates the bowels.—[Christian Cabinet.]—Thirty-five cents a bottle.

At Brudenell Point, on the 17th June, after a short illness, Catherine, third daughter of Mr. John McLeod, in the 26th year of her age.

PROSPECTUS OF A WEEKLY NEWSPAPER, TO BE CALLED The Summerside Progress AND Prince County Register.

To be published at Summerside, P. E. I., about July 16th, 1866

AT the solicitation of many friends,—and feeling it also a duty incumbent upon him, at this particular juncture in the affairs of his native land to come forward and lend his feeble aid in warding off the threatened calamity of Confederation,—the subscriber has been induced to return to the Island, and once more appear before the public as a newspaper publisher.

The prime object, therefore, in establishing the PROGRESS at the present time, is to place at the disposal of the people of Prince County (and, in fact, the whole Island) an organ wherein they can fully express their honest opinions.

The PROGRESS will raise a stanly protest against any scheme of Confederation which has not for its basis a fair and equitable adjustment of power, and distribution of the benefits (if any) arising from such a union. It will keep a jealous eye upon that class of political adventurers who, for their personal elevation or private ends, seem to be seeking to force upon an unwilling people, a measure which their reason and common sense condemn; and will be an unflinching opponent of any and all measures that could compromise or barter away the rights and liberties of the people.

The interests of Agriculture, the Fisheries, Manufactures, Commerce, Internal Improvements, and, in fact, all kinds of industrial pursuits, will find a warm friend and consistent advocate in the SUMMERSIDE PROGRESS.

In general and local politics, the PROGRESS will lean towards liberal and progressive ideas. In religion—believing that those who control the same are in no need of outside advice or assistance—this paper will be unequivocally neutral.

In fine, it will be the earnest and constant endeavour of the publisher of the PROGRESS to make it in every respect a first-class Newspaper—a welcome visitor, a true friend, and an unflinching advocate of the rights and liberties of the people; and the subscriber feels that, having had his experience in the newspaper business matured by time and an intimate acquaintance with all the details of modern journalism, he can safely promise a good newspaper to the public, with a reasonable hope that he will not disappoint their expectations or his own.

The terms of subscription will be as follows:—For one year 9s ($1 50) currency, in advance. If not paid before the expiration of six months, 12s. ($2) cy. Half-yearly subscriptions at one-half the above rates. Advertisements will be put before the public in a superior style and at reasonable rates.

JOB PRINTING.—Having secured one of the very best job presses ever made, and a splendid assortment of the most modern styles of job type, the subscriber is confident of being able to do job printing in the very best style of the art, at reasonable prices.

THERE will be a grand TEA PARTY held on the Chapel grounds of Vernon River, in aid of St. Joachim's Church, on TUESDAY, 17th JULY next, where refreshments of all kinds may be had.

In addition to the usual amusements incident to the occasion, there will be foot races, sack races, &c. as also a raffle of a splendid Sett of Silver Mounted Harness, perfectly new. Tickets so low as to be within reach of all.

There will be a Brass Band in attendance, in addition to the usual music on such occasions.

As this is supposed to be the last Tea Party in aid of the above Church, no pains will be spared in making it a tip-top affair, so let all come flush with cash.

Tickets to be had on the grounds.

D. E. CLARKE, Hony. Sec'y.

MR. EDITOR:

For the information of the Vile Ignoramus who scribbles for the "Patriot" Newspaper.

MR. JAMES KELLY, for nearly forty years in Charlottetown, has been esteemed a useful and respectable member of the community, in the following capacities, viz:

Of a professional and practical Cooper, a business of great importance, and most essential to trade and commerce.

Senior Captain in the First Queen's County Regiment of Militia, of P. E. I., residing in his district, N. E. S. of Queen Square.

Mr Kelly received several Commissions from the Government all of which were offices of trust, for the execution of which duties he has never been impeached or dismissed, viz:—Gauger of Liquors, Surveyor of Lumber, Commercial Broker, Revenue Officer, Coal Meter, Inspector of Fish and Oil, Commissioner to issue Certificates to Fishermen to obtain merited bounties.

Mr. K. for several years, had been a member of the Mechanics' Institute, where he was requested to write and read a Lecture on the subject of the Fishery, purely original, and deemed so important, was immediately published in the "Islander," also newspaper; three hundred copies of it were subsequently reprinted in pamphlet form, at his own expence, and distributed, gratuitously, over the Island; a few copies of the same are deposited in Downing Street Office, frequently read by Lieut. Governors previous to their departure for this Colony.

Certificates from the following hon. gentlemen, I trust, will confirm most of these assertions—Rev. Dr. I., C. Jenkins, Hon. Attorney General (now Judge); Hon. Mr. Goodman, Collector of Customs, and several others.

Yours, &c.
CAPTAIN JAMES KELLY.

P. S.—Mr Editor: Please let your subscribers know what branch of the service do David Laird, or his fugleman, Donald Currie, belong?
