FLORABEL'S LOVER

By LAURA JEAN LIBBEY

Author of "When Lovely Maiden Stoops to Folly," "A Broken Betrothal," "Parted by Fate," "Parted at the Altar," etc., etc.

SYNOPSIS.

Florabel was a dependent of her step-father, Squire Pemberton. His daughters hate Florabel, and when the Squire dies, order her out of the old home. Max Forrester a rich young man marries her and introduces her into his family the members of which disapprove of his marriage, as they wanted him to marry Miss Clavering, an heiress.

"I wish Max and I had never come here!" she sobbed. "We were so happy before! A horrible chill has come over me ever since I entered the house!"

Poor child! How little she dreamed that it was the shadow of the pitiful doom that was to fall upon her all too soon! Ere the grand reception was over a thrilling event happened.

CHAPTER IV.

"What is love that all the world Talks so much about it? What is love that neither you Nor I can do without?"

"You are surprised to hear of my marriage, mother," said handsome Max, breaking the uncomfortable silence that had fallen since Florabel had left the room.

"I was something more than surprised," she replied. "I was shocked. I have not recovered from it yet."

"I ought to have written and told you all about it. I own frankly, mother, that I ought to have consulted you. But love must be my excuse. You will try to love little Florabel for my sake?"

She turned away without answering him.

"She is very young, mother," he went on, hurriedly, "and very timid. You will put her at her ease. She has not had the advantage of social training, and her education has been sadly neglected. I have great hopes that she will improve rapidly under your charge, mother."

"My dear son," returned Mrs. Forrester, in some irritation. "Heaven grant that I may have patience with this girl you have married and brought home to us—you who might have wed the best in the land."

That was the first intimation Max had of the true state of his mother's feelings.

"Florabel is a lady," he said, quickly, his handsome face flushing.

His mother held up her white, jeweled hands.

"Do not discuss the question!" she cried. "I cannot endure it."

Max Forrester looked up quickly and anxiously into his mother's face.

"You do not like my little Florabel?" he asked, bending forward eagerly, and watching every expression of that cold, proud face.

"My dear Max," she replied, slowly, "I may as well be candid with you. This marriage has broken my heart. I do not like your wife at all. I am sorry to pain you. After the entire devotion of my life to you, I hoped that you would bring me a daughter-in-law somewhat to my taste, and one whom I could love. You have not done so. You might have consulted me."

She never forgot the little cry of

is the result of Overwork and an Exhausted Nervous System. Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Food creates New Brain and Nerve Tissue.

Business and professional men, accountants, stenographers, teachers, students and all brain workers know only too well that it means to have the brain so tired out that concentration of thought is almost impossible.

One-fifth of all the blood in the human body is found in the brain, and unless the blood is pure and rich the brain becomes exhausted for want of proper nourishment.

Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Food creates new brain and nerve tissue, and produces rich red blood, "the vital fluid" of the body.

All brain workers quickly recognize the merits of this great food cure, and after a few doses enter on their work with new energy and ambition.

Brain fag is unknown to persons whose brain and nerve have been invigorated by the use of Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Food, which is for sale by all dealers at 50c. a box.

gentleman marrying Miss Clavering and Miss Clavering had set her heart on the same thing, too. Why, you ought to have heard the way she took on in her own room, thinking no one heard her, when the news came that he was married, and was bringing his bride home. I am right glad she was disappointed in getting him, and it serves her right, too, for laying herself out to win him by coming here on a visit to his mother."

When Max entered Florabel's apartment to accompany her down to the drawing-room, where the impatient guests were awaiting her, he found her sitting alone by the window, her curly, golden head buried in her two little white hands.

With some light, gay word, he crossed over to where she sat.

But at the sight of the pale, agitated face she raised to his, he started back in surprise and dismay.

"What is the matter, darling?" he cried, catching her up in his arms in a close embrace, and kissing the rosy, dimpled mouth over and over again.

"Can it be that there are tear drops on those long lashes? Oh, my darling, what could bring them there?"

"It was really nothing, Max," she exclaimed, impatiently. "I assure you I have no cause in the world to weep—none in the world. Do not distress yourself about my moods. You know they are as variable as the April sunshine. The truth is, I felt just a little bit lonely."

"Are you pleased with me, Max?" she asked, wistfully, putting away his clinging arms, and stepping a little way off that he might admire her costume.

Mr. John Sloan, 78 McGill St., Toronto, writes: "I have had catarrh in the most disagreeable form for years; have at times got remedies which would relieve me, but nothing to cure me completely, until I tried Japanese Catarrh Cure. From the very first it gave me much relief, and every day's use showed a marked improvement. I used in all six boxes, and it has completely cured me. It certainly does all claimed for it, which I cannot say of scores of other remedies tried, and I feel it my duty to attest my appreciation of anything so worthy."
