HIGHFIELD W. I.

Mrs. O. W. Campbell was hostess to the ladies of Highfield Women's Institute when they held their July monthly meeting. There was an attendance of seventeen members. The president, Mrs. Lemuel MacKinnon, presided and opened the meeting with the Creed. This was followed by the roll call and the minutes of the last meeting, which were approved.

Reports from the various committees followed. The sick committee had sent two cards, and were instructed to send a card of sympathy. The newly appointed hall committee consists of Mrs. Saunderson, Mrs. MacFarlane, Mrs. Holroyd and Mrs. Bryenton. The treasurer then gave a detailed statement of the finances, and was authorized to make a payment on the hall furnace. Mrs. Holroyd invited the members to her home for the next meeting, which will be held on August 6, a week earlier than the usual date. The following ladies are on the lunch committee: Mrs. John Rodd and Mrs. Wallace Rodd, sandwiches; Mrs. Rannah and Mrs. Stockman, sweets. The meeting then adjourned, and a social time was spent.

The Farmer

Away from the nerve-racking city, I live like a Prince on my farm, And pass each day in contentment 'Mid scenes of pastoral charm. The fields all around are my workshops, There's plenty of room and fresh air, And nature supplies the right tonic To lighten my labors and care. Yes, this is the life that's worth living, With each day some new story to tell; The pleasures of sowing and reaping, Make farming a life that's well I glean from my goodly plantation Ripe fruits from the orchard and vine; Rich grains and lush grass from the meadow, From the forest, the spruce and the pine. Folks speak of the wealth of the cities, Of comfort and luxury; But these can't compare with the riches That round this cottage I see. If gems ever made a man wealthy, I've riches enough for a King. For on the green grass every morning A million rare dew-diamonds cling. And natural scenes that are priceless, All wrought by the Artist above, Hang here on the walls of my kingdom— And these are the treasures I love. Each year dear old friends spring to greet me, And winter has fled from the land; Forget-me-nots, tulips and daisies, And birds from many a strand. When roused by the winds of oppression, And seeking a haven of calm, I head for the wide open spaces To drink in the country's sweet balm. Mother Nature, with ages of wisdom,

Has this cure for our ills and our pains: Seek doctors Fresh Air and Bright Sunshine, "The medicine men of the plains." So give me the dear old plantation, Far away from the city and strife— Well, maybe I'm too optimistic, But I reckon I'll follow this life! I've toiled in the mines and the sweat-shops, I've answered the whistle's shrill call; But now I'm a King with a kingdom— And have turned my back on them all. —F. H. MacArthur.

Kinkora Trounces Grand River 22-8

The Kinkora Red Sox handed the Grand River team a very convincing defeat by trouncing them to the tune of 22-8 at the Grand River diamond. McGuigan of the Red Sox did a single-handed job of pitching the full nine-innings and struck out ten batters while the three Grand River pitchers together had ten strikeouts to their credit. Ace Farmer who entered the game in the fourth to replace Ray McCarville who injured an ankle while sliding into third base, held the batting honors for the day, getting two triples and a double. Bob McDougall and Jimmy McDougall each hit a double for Grand River. The Grand River nine got away to a good start with three runs to Kinkora's one in the first inning, but after that it was Kinkora all the way.—S.
