

A Translation by Browning.

In the English translation by Mrs. Clara Bell, of Wilhelmine, von Hillern's novel "The Hour Will Come," there is a little poem...

"The blind man to the maiden said: O thou of hearts the truest, Thy countenance is hid from me: Let not my question anger thee! Speak, though in words the fewest!"

"Tell me, what kind of eyes are thine? Dark eyes, or light ones rather? My eyes are a decided brown— So much at least, by looking down, From the brook's glass I gather."

"And is it red—thy little mouth? That too the blind must care for! Ah! I would tell it soon to thee, Only—none yet has told it me, I cannot answer, therefore!"

"But dost thou ask what heart I have, There hesitate I never! In thine own breast 'tis borne, and so In thine own hand and thine own eye, For life, for death—thine ever!"

Some details respecting the expense of the yachts maintained at the public expense for the use of Her Majesty have been published in the English journals. The largest of these, the Victoria and Albert, has been laid up for repairs at an estimated cost of £15,000. The original cost of this vessel was £120,000, and an enormous sum has since been spent on her in alterations and re-decorating.

Miss Jessie T. Letchon, after a full dental course in Philadelphia, has been licensed as dentist in that city. Several young women are applicants to pursue a course of study in the dental college of New York. No doubt, in time all our principal cities will have their quota of lady dentists.

A wealthy planter from the Sandwich Islands, who had been a leper for eight years, has lately found his way to Philadelphia and placed himself under the care of a physician there. This physician, it appears, has evolved a theory of his own about leprosy which differs from that of the medical fraternity generally.

We are indebted to a "staff correspondent" for the following anecdote concerning the recent registration of female voters in Boston. Its accuracy is vouched for by an eminent artist—one of the most distinguished stone-cutters of the Hub.

A wretched woman was found dead the other day in a tenement house in New York, starved to death. Yet she had in her possession $5,000. This calls up the long line of misers, including the well-known names of Baron Aguilair, Daniel Dancer, and his sister, Colonel O'Dogherty, Sir Henry Elwes, and his sister, Josefine, Thomas Gay, Vulture Hopking, Guy Wilcocks and others.
