MARKETS.

OATS.

The market for oats in Great Britain seems to be growing worse from week to week. The latest reports state that it is in depressed state, and the best that can be got at present for Island oats is 17s. 9d.
Only one cargo changed hands at that price.

POTATOES.

The United States market for potatoes continues to be well supplied with new stock from several resources, and $2.25 per barrel is the quotation. The Charlottetown market is scarce of old stock, and the price has run up to 40 and 45 cents. A few new ones came in on Tuesday and sold at 3 and 4 cents per quart.

EGGS.

The United States market for eggs, is in an unsatisfactory condition. This is always the case in hot weather. Choice stock is very scarce, and commands 18 cents, but the bulk of the receipts range from 16 1/2 to 17 cents for Northern and Eastern.

FISH.

A Boston circular of the 27th ult. says: Although the shore fleet reported some scarcity of fish last week, still the receipts at the outlets sum up 11,000 barrels since the 23rd inst. There have also been landed at Boston 2,600 bbls of fresh fish. This may seem a large quantity, still our dealers are receiving good orders and buyers are making their appearance from inland cities, so that stocks do not accumulate. We note sales at $3.50 for No. 3's, and $5.50 for No. 2's. The principal inquiry is for large fish, and we shall look for a good demand for those expected from P.
E. Island, reported to be of larger size than formerly.

FLOUR.

The Galt, Ont., circular of the 29th—which circular we usually quote—says that harvesting is progressing, and fall wheat may be said to be secure, the sample coming up to the most sanguine expectations. Barley, Oats and Peas, will also be very fine, and with a continuation of the present favorable weather, will be considerably above the average, for some years past. For flour an active enquiry at firm prices has prevailed all the week.
Offerings are extremely light, owing to a scarcity of water and an exhausted stock of wheat. In Galt Spring Extra is quoted at $5.20 to $5.25; Extra $5.55 to $5.60; and Superior Extra $4.60 to $5.70. Mon-triel market on the 29th was quiet and prices steady. The quotations were: Superior Extra $6; Extra Superfine, $5.90 to $5.95; and Superfine $5.60 to $5.70.

European Armies.

Some interesting figures showing the strength and cost of maintaining the armies of the leading nations of Europe were recently published. It appears that the peace footing of the German army at the present time is 427,274 men, of all branches of the service, and the war footing 1,329, 600 men, the fourth and fifth field battalions of the Landstrum excluded. The cost in time of peace amounts to about £16,500,000 sterling a year. In times of peace the French army numbers 242,014 men, and requiring £21,600,000 a year to sustain it; while, exclusive of reserves, the war footing is 1,295,000 men. The Russian army's peace strength is 711,000 men, costing annually £27,000,000; and the war footing, exclusive of the Asiatic and Caucasian forces, 1,376,800 men. Austria's peace strength is 268,691; cost of maintenance, £10,500,000; war strength, 800,000 men. Italy, peace strength, 221,594; cost £8,500,000, war strength, 900,000. Great Britain, peace strength, including the forces in India and the Colonies, 136,000; militia, 126,000; reserves, 42,600. The cost of the British army is about £15,000,000 a year. Per man the annual cost stands about as follows:— Germany, £34; Austria, £35; Italy, £36; France, £40; Russia, £41; Great Britain, £110. The maintenance of these large military bodies is a great drain on the resources of the countries which maintain them. Yet the cost cannot be otherwise regarded than absolutely necessary. Past efforts in the direction of bringing about a reduction in the strength of standing armies have not been very successful; and judging from the present outlook there does not seem to exist a bright prospect of the Great Powers of Europe being relieved at an early day from the financial burden which the maintenance of a large military force necessitates.

The Czar's Visit to Moscow.

A Moscow despatch says the Emperor and Empress arrived there on the 30th ult., and had an enthusiastic welcome. On reaching the city they proceeded on foot from the palace to the cathedral, an immense crowd cheering them lustily all the way. The visit to the Cathedral was followed by a reception at the Kremlin. Today 20,000 troops will be passed in review at the camp, and Sunday is fixed for a pilgrimage to the convent of St. Sergius.
The Czar said: "After passing through the great affliction which fell upon the Imperial family and all Russia, I esteem myself happy to visit the original capital of the Empire. Moscow testifies now, as formerly, that the Czar and people form one harmonious, solid whole."

A St. Petersburg despatch says it is stated that the Czar's journey to Moscow indicates a change of policy in the pan-Slavish direction, that the journey is not connected with his coronation, but simply due to the Czar's wish to visit the ancient capital and do homage before its holy treasures.

WHOM TO PATRONIZE—

In all towns where tradesmen exist, there is the real and the bogus business man. The business man is a pushing, genial sort of fellow, who has some interest in the growth of manufactures and business other than his own. He will even assist other industries, where he sees that they will add to the wealth of the town in which he lives. He knows that he is sincere, and he advertises to let others know it. But the bogus man is one who has no very great desire to, or hopes, ever becoming rich, and he rents a little shop, where he displays a few goods, and so long as he lives, he cares not whether others do or not. You never see an advertisement of his in the newspaper. No indeed! Ask him for one and he says: "Business won't warrant it!" And how many of these one-horse affairs one can see on every street, acting as a drag upon the more energetic and liberal-minded business man. Give them the cold shoulder, and force them to seek some employment where they can do themselves and others some good.

THE SECRET OF LIFE.

—Some years ago the French ministry addressed a circular to all the prefects, desiring as the conditions which appeared peculiarly to favor longevity in their several districts, and the replies are said to have almost unanimously indicated as to the leading elements or influences, great sobriety, regular labor, and usually in the open air, daily exercise short of fatigue, early hours, a comparatively well-to-do life, calmness of mind in meeting troubles, moderate intellectual powers and a family life. The beneficial influence of marriage on the duration of life is universally admitted, and re-marriage does not seem unfavorable.

Business men who object to support a newspaper because it does not express editorial opinions to suit them, display great ignorance of the first principles of business.
A properly conducted newspaper—no matter what its editorial opinions may be—adds value to every property in the town where it is published. Advertising in a new-paper is a matter of business, and it is in the interest of business men to patronize the paper that does most to advertise and build up the town, and place his advertisement where it can be seen by the greatest number of readers.—E.

FOR SHY PEOPLE—Shyness is occasioned by self-consciousness, and is therefore only one form of egotism. "I was once very shy," said Sydney Smith, "but it was not long before I made two very useful discoveries; first, that all mankind were not wholly employed in observing me (a belief that all young people have); and next, that shaming was of no use; that the world was very clear-sighted, and estimated a man at his just value. This cured me, and I determined to be natural, and let the world find me out."

PUNNING.

At a tavern one night, Messrs. Moore, Strange and Wright Met to drink and good thoughts to exchange; Says Moore: "Of us three,
The whole town will agree There's only one knave, and that's Strange!" Says Strange, (rather sore):
"I'm sure there's one Moore, A most terrible knave and a bite,
Who cheated his mother, His father and brother—
"Oh, yes," replied Moore, "that is Wright!"
