ISLANDER OF YEAR NOMINATIONS OPEN

In continuation of one of this province's pleasantest growing traditions, early selection is to be made of 1963's "Islander of the Year", to be honored with The Evening Patriot Award. It is open to all interested Islanders to play a part in making sure the honor goes where it is best deserved.

This they can do through letters nominating those they deem most entitled to recognition, directing attention to their acts of good citizenship or significant contributions to the well-being of the province during 1963.

A distinguished three-member board of judges, with one from each of the province's three counties, will take into account all letters before choosing the "Islander of 1963". The board's decision will be announced in mid-January.

READERS HELP MAKE CHOICE

The goal of the judges will be to make the award to "that man or woman who, during 1963, has best used the means available to serve a useful Island purpose". Letters of nomination are invited to assist them in making their choice on that basis.

It is hoped, through the letters, to make sure that the names of all who should be considered, and the deeds to their credit, will reach the attention of the judges. The intent of the award is to honor the quality of deeds, and not necessarily their size.

With the help of readers, through letters of nomination which keep this thought in mind, the award could go to some woman who has made a quiet sacrifice to help a neighbor's child to health—to a pastor, teacher or doctor who has been unusually effective in adding to the meaning of life for some person or group—just as easily as to some better-known person.

It follows that letters from readers can add greatly to the significance of the tribute to be paid.

NOMINATIONS CLOSE JAN. 8

In making the annual "Islander of the Year" Award, established in 1959, The Evening Patriot plays no part in the judging. Instead, it acts as a clearing house for letters of nomination, which go to the judges, and shares with all Islanders in honoring the person selected.

No letter of nomination should exceed 300 words. All must be signed, but a pen name ordinarily will be used in case any of the letters are published. Only letters received by noon of January 8, at the office of The Evening Patriot, can be assured consideration by the judges.

Every letter received has an opportunity to greatly influence the outcome.
