Not Too Bad.—During the past six weeks Mr. S. H. Jones, of Quebec, has shipped 9,242 sheep and lambs, 5,500 geese and 5000 pelts, etc., from this province. In exchange for these Mr. Jones left with our people the snug sum of $23,500.

Police Court.—Charles Slate, an old offender, was the only candidate for justice this morning. He was charged with being drunk and incapable, and the burden of evidence being against him a fine of $90 or 90 days was imposed. Not having the required amount of cash about his person Charlie decided to take the days.

Scott Act Enforcement.—Since the Scott Act became law in Charlottetown on the 28th July, 1894, 331 informations alleging violations of that Act were laid with the clerk of the Stipendiary Magistrate's Court. There were 182 convictions obtained. At the present time there are some 19 or 20 persons working out Scott Act fines in Queen's County Jail.

Are Paying Dividends.—According to late advices from Montreal twelve banking institutions of the provinces of Quebec and Ontario are paying dividends aggregating upwards of $1,350,000. This vast sum is for the most part the half yearly dividend of the various monetary institutions, and according to the usual custom the dividends to the shareholders are made payable on and after December first. Of the above amount the Bank of Montreal will pay half.

Arrested For Bigamy.—The sensation of last week in Springhill, N. S., was the arrest of one of the Jewish merchants, a Mr. Goldstein, on the charge of bigamy. It is charged that wife No. 1 is a Pole, who came to the United States with her faithless spouse, that they lived together for several years in New York and then Goldstein deserted his wife and children and married wife No. 2, whom he brought to Springfield, where wife No. 1 found him. Goldstein has two children by each of the wives.

Barn Burned.—The barn of Mr. William Matheson, at Brackley Point Road, was destroyed by fire on Monday night. When discovered the fire was too far advanced to leave any possibility of extinguishing it. The horses were got out of the burning building, but eight head of cattle, a large quantity of hay and oats, with a binder were destroyed. During the burning of the barn the dwelling house also caught and was saved from destruction with the greatest difficulty. How the fire originated is unknown.

Of this number convictions were obtained in 24 cases; the remainder were dismissed. There were 13 convictions for drunkenness, and one each for disturbing religious worship and malicious injuries to property. One charge of vagrancy was dismissed, also one charge each of malicious injuries to property and assault. The receipts amounted to $303 95.

THE LITTLE EXTRA MAKES ALL THE DIFFERENCE

Here are a few examples. The P. D. Corset is a little 'extra' comfortable, 'extra' shapely and 'extra' serviceable. The result is it costs a little 'extra' and wears an 'extra' long time.

Our range of Fancy Work and Embroidery Silks is 'extra' large and in order to reduce stock at once and very largely, we are giving an 'extra' discount.

The value we now offer in Ladies' Winter Vests and Combinations is 'extra' good. We have recently received a case bought at an 'extra' discount because of the lateness of the season. We have placed them all on sale at 'extra' low price and there is no 'extra' charge for 'extra' large sizes.

PERSONAL.

C. A. Mackenzie and the Misses McDougall, of Boston, F. X. Pichette, Quebec, and R. H. Reid, Truro, are among the latest arrivals at the Queen Hotel.

Miss Smith, who has been acting matron in the Prince Edward Island Hospital for some months, left this morning for her home in Ontario. Her departure from this province is regretted by many friends.

Captain Barnard, of Summerside, is in Halifax on a business trip.

The congregation of St. Luke's Church, Salt Springs, N. S., waited upon their pastor, Rev. Alexander Roulston, at the manse one night last week, and congratulated the rev. gentleman and his amiable wife upon the attainment of the twenty-fifth anniversary of their marriage. Mrs. Roulston was presented with a silver cake basket, and Mr. Roulston received a gold-headed cane and $52 in silver coin.

N. Duperon, Toronto, and D. F. Macdonald, Montague, registered at the Hotel Davies this forenoon. The arrivals last evening included: M. M. McKinnon, Lincoln, Net; W. J. Jefferson, Pictou; Major Schurman, S'side; W. H. Tetlow, Manchester, Eng; H. W. Stephen, Halifax; J. McL. Fraser, do; T. J. Johnston, Montreal; George Smith, St. John; John W. Underwood, New Glasgow.

SOURIS NOTES.

We hear that the old war horse Mr. Jas. Cantwell is in harness again and is on the rounds collecting old fines. It is to be hoped that Mr. Cantwell will not meet with such an accident as he did in the winter of '95. We hope also that he and Barney will not meet in Souris.

Mr. Ephriam McKenzie has deposited his Scott Act fine of $60 in the Merchants Bank of P. E. Island.

We are sorry to hear that Mr. Wallace McEwen is very ill.

Capt. Lanigan, of the schooner Maggie Alice, who arrived here on Friday last, had on board some of the crew of the schooner Georgie Harold, that was wrecked near Miquelon, Newfoundland, a short time ago.

Registered at the Sea View Hotel, Nov. 24—H. M. McKay, Ottawa. 25—W. F. Bailey, Halifax. 26—F. X. Pichette, Quebec. 27—Fred. Russell, Montreal; B. Bailey, Philadelphia. 30—J. M. McLeod, J. R. McKee, W. H. F. Gill, Charlottetown.

A Trying Experience.—According to the Sun the schr. J. B. Faye had a trying experience during her trip from Charlottetown to St. John. At West Cape the schooner's rudder was carried away and the captain had to make the best way he could to St. John without it. The vessel ran aground at the mouth of the river and he had to get a tug to tow her up.

FRANCE IS DESERTED.

Russia Plays Her False—The Eastern Question at the Bottom of It All.

Harold Frederick cables from London to the New York Times: In the Egyptian matter it is asserted that Russia has deserted France, and this statement is maintained in spite of M. Hanotaux's reference to the support of France's ally in that controversy. What is apparently true is that Russia tells the French now, as she has done before, that she is full of sympathy, but that there is no good in trying to effect the impossible. The Triple Alliance, she says, votes solidly with England in the majority, and, short of war, there is no way of getting around that fact. All this brings Europe back to the impasse which confronted her a year ago. There has been, in the interim, a great show of moving the pieces on the diplomatic checker-board, and it can be seen now that nothing is really altered. England can always retreat to the double corner of her sea-girt isolation whenever the play gets too dangerous, and the continental powers remain balanced against one other in what is practically a draw game.

Less than seven weeks ago the Czar's presence was stirring French enthusiasm to frenzy, yet in Paris the politicians and press are already thinking, and even saying, ugly things about Russia. Very likely it is only a passing mood, but there can be no doubt as to the genuineness of the depression for the moment.

The French government, ever since the establishment of the Republic, has been peculiarly open to the influence of the big financial interest which centre in the capital. They were responsible for the French-Egyptian policy, and they persuaded the French Minister of Foreign Affairs to endorse a scheme which they had concocted for transforming the Administration de la Dette Publique at Constantinople into something like the Caisse de la Dette Publique at Cairo. The result of the action would have been to destroy the semblance of the Sultan's independence, either financially or politically. But Russia vetoed the whole thing, and this open defeat at the hands of an ally only increases her humiliation and disgust. To others that have had experience in trying to work with Russia there is nothing surprising in this, but the French take it badly.

OBITUARY.

It is with sorrowful feelings that we today record the premature death of Mrs. Peter F. Hughes, which took place at Emerald on the 28th ult. Although she was only in her thirtieth year, and notwithstanding that the final summons was expected for some time by her relatives and many friends, nevertheless the news that her spirit had fled beyond the confines of time caused a cloud of deep regret and universal sorrow in the hearts of those whose affections and admiration the deceased had won by the many excellent traits of character which in her short life she had admirably portrayed. Her acquaintance was the source out of which flowed that appreciation and esteem which were mirrored by the large funeral cortege that accompanied her remains to Kinkora, irrespective of the early hour and the almost impassible condition of the roads. At the church a solemn requiem mass was chanted by the Rev. J J. McDonald, after which the interment took place. To her sorrowing husband, relatives and numerous friends The Examiner extends its deepest sympathy.

LIPPINCOTT'S FOR DECEMBER.

The complete novel in Lippincott's for December is a good story for the times, "The Chase of an Heiress." The chase proved to be successful in this case and certainly the novel will be found intensely interesting by both men and madams. This may also be said concerning the short stories "The Whipper of Uncle Henry," "The Two Old Boys" and "How Timmy saved the Piece." Highly interesting too as well as instructive, is an article on the "Land of Taffy." "Shutting out the Sea" and "The Evolution of the Poster." Taken altogether the December number of Lippincott's fully maintains the high standard and great popularity of this excellent magazine.

I. O. G. T.—The Good Templars had a very enjoyable excursion to Summerside yesterday evening.

CHRISTMAS LADIES' HOME JOURNAL.

The Christmas Ladies' Home Journal far surpasses in general excellence and attractiveness any previous issue of that magazine. Its delicate-toned cover most artistically symbolizes Christmas, and the sentiment and spirit of the holiday season are reflected in its pages. An appropriate opening is a characterization of "Scrooge," from Dickens' "Christmas Carol," the first of Charles Dana Gibson's series of sketches of the great novelist's best known characters. Not less interesting, and revealing the humor and pathos of the Christmas of the children of the very poor, is a page of M. F. Wolf's waifs. In sharp and bright contrast is an article by Lady Jeune, telling "What Christmas Means to Queen Victoria," and a feature of romantic interest is a delightfully illustrated article on the Creoles of New Orleans, by Ruth McEnery Stuart. Quite as interesting is "The Garden Party of an Empress," an American woman's description of a great social function given annually by the Empress of Japan. To the Christmas Journal Rosa Bonheur contributes "The Story of My Life," and special drawings and Photographs, telling of her work as an artist, her successes and of her daily life. Mrs. Henry Ward Beecher, in the second of the "Great Personal Events" papers, recalls "When Mr. Beecher Sold Slaves in Plymouth Pulpit," the excitement incident to those remarkable slave auctions and their wide-reaching effect being graphically detailed. The fiction is singularly inviting: the opening chapters of a serial—"The Burglar Who Moved Paradise," by Herbert D. Ward—are given. The story is a sequel to Elizabeth Stuart Phelps' "An Old Maid's Paradise," and is in the same humorous vein. Another romance—"Love at Valley Forge," by Sara King Wiley—is a story of powerful dramatic interest. Edward W. Bok editorially points the sure way to a happy Christmas by making others happy; and condemns unnecessary economy in the outlay for music in the church. Ex-President Harrison's theme is "The Judicial Department of the Government," and Rev. Charles H. Parkhurst, D. D., writes of "The Young Man on the Fence." Dwight L. Moody gives his second lesson to his great Sunday School class, and "Droch" writes delightfully about books. There are, besides the usual departments, poems by James Whitcomb Riley, Frank L. Stanton and others, articles on Christmas gifts, Christmas dainties, Christmas entertainments and festivals, and the home. The current Journal is exceptionally rich in illustrations and interesting in every line. By The Curtis Publishing Company, Philadelphia; one dollar per year, ten cents per copy.

NAMES OF WOMEN.

The practice of a woman changing her name on marriage originated from a Roman custom, and came into use after the Roman occupation. Thus, Julia and Octavia, married to Pompey and Cicero, were called by the Romans Julia of Pompey, Octavia of Cicero, and in later times in most European countries signed their names in the same way, but omitted the "of." On the other hand at the beginning of the seventeenth century, the usage seemed doubtful, since we find Catherine Parr so signing herself after she had twice married, and we always hear of Lady Jane Grey (not Dudley), Arabella Stuart (not Seymour), etc. Some persons think the custom originated from the scriptural teaching that husband and wife are one. This was the rule of law so far back as Bracton, and it was decided in the case of Von vs. Smith, in the reign of Elizabeth, that a woman by marriage loses her former name and legally receives the name of her husband. The custom, however is not universal. In Spain and Portugal married women do not take the names of their husbands, but continue to be known by their own. In many parts of the United States a woman never relinquishes her maiden name and is called by it as often as by that of her husband. Even in the rural parts of England one often finds a married woman called by her maiden name, and in country districts of Scotland it is sometimes found that both names are used. In many parts of France and Belgium the husband's and wife's names are used together when either of them are mentioned. It might be added that there is at this time a tendency in America for women to add the surname of the husband to that of their own, as Julia Ward Howe.

It Saved Our Child.

"My little daughter, three and a half year old, suffered three years with Eczema. Her little body was covered with the itching rash, and doctors did no good. Four boxes of Chase's Ointment entirely cured and saved our child. Her skin is clear and not a sign of rash is to be seen." Andrew Aiton, Hartland, N. B. Mr. Aiton is one of thousands benefitted by this unfailing cure for piles and skin diseases.
