HAPPENINGS OF THE WEEK

November the eleventh, Remembrance Day. November the eighth, 1944, End of the Battle of the Scheldt.

"Read how free men throughout this land kept faith in the hour of trial and in the day of battle, remembering the traditions they had been taught, counting life nothing without liberty." Inscription—The Hall of Remembrance, Ottawa.

The human resources are the greatest resources—Excerpt from an address given by the Hon. George A. Drew last Saturday evening in Charlottetown.

Mrs. George Drew has recently returned to Ottawa from New York City. Mrs. Drew was seeing her father Dr. Edward Johnson off by plane to Europe. Dr. Johnson was present at the re-opening of the Vienna Opera House. Mr. John Foster Dulles, American diplomat, was also among the distinguished audience.

The Hon. Douglas and Mrs. MacKinnon and Mr. and Mrs. John B. Murley motored yesterday to Halifax, N.S. where they will spend the weekend.

The Armistice Eve Dance on November tenth held at the United Services Officers Club of Charlottetown proved such a success last year that it was repeated this year at the Club to the great pleasure of all those present. The Dance was for members only, formal dress. Each member could bring his wife or lady friend. The new president of the Charlottetown United Services Officers Club is Major E. E. Kennedy.

Lieutenant Colonel Arthur Peake and Mrs. Peake entertained at their residence North River Road Thursday evening before the Armistice Dance at the Charlottetown United Services Officers' Club. Their guests were the officers and their wives.

Mrs. M. J. Doyle, North Ruston, Board Member of the Federated Women's Institute of Canada and Past President of the P. E. I. W. I. returned recently from a trip to Newfoundland. Mrs. Doyle was guest speaker at a two day convention of Jubilee Guilds held in the Codroy Valley area which is near Stephenville. Mrs. Doyle accompanied by Mrs. A. B. Carnell, St. John's, President of the Guilds and Miss Anna Templeton, organizing Secretary and Mrs. Mary Marks Field Worker visited several homes in the area. The members are a very friendly group of women highly skilled in handicrafts and most anxious to learn of Women's Institute work on Prince Edward Island.

The Royal Edward Chapter of the Imperial Order of the Daughters of the Empire paid tribute Thursday to nineteen ladies holding membership in this organization for twenty-five years and over. Mrs. B. Earle MacDonald is the present regent of this Chapter and the social gathering was held at the Charlottetown Hotel. The friendship and service through the years of the I.O.D.E. was pleasantly reviewed.

Mrs. Frederick S. Jenkins has returned from visiting England, Scotland and Wales. Mrs. Jenkins was away two months and was the guest of her mother, Mrs. Thomas Lawrence, who travelled with Mrs. Jenkins to many places of interest. Mrs. Jenkins during her trip visited the English Headquarters and the Scottish Headquarters and met many leaders in the Guide work.

Mrs. Jack Brown entertained at her residence, Kensington Road, at a supper party Wednesday evening in honour of Miss Ethel Brown and Mr. John T. Bentham of Toronto. The marriage of Miss Brown and Mr. Bentham is being solemnized this Saturday morning at 1:15 at the Bishop's Residence.

Miss Lucy Blanchard entertained at a supper party Thursday evening in honour of Miss Ethel Brown.

Out-of-town guests from Moncton arriving for the Bentham-Brown wedding are: Mr. and Mrs. Walter Fowler, Miss Elizabeth Condon, Mr. and Mrs. W. R. MacRae, Miss Elizabeth Gaudet, Mrs. Bruce Parsons, and Mr. and Mrs. William Dompierre.

Mrs. Maylea Manning left Friday to attend the 4th National Club week at the Royal Winter Fair, Toronto. Mrs. Manning will be accompanied by the clothing team comprising Miss Mabel England, West Royalty, and Miss Eunice McNaught. Carleton Mrs. Manning will attend the annual 4-H Banquet and has accepted their invitation to arrange for the Dress Revue and Fashion Show and to be the Fashion Commentator. This show will be featured on the Roof Gardens of the Royal York Hotel.

Mrs. A. B. Cash is spending the Armistice weekend in Halifax visiting Mrs. A. G. Peake and Mrs. C. N. Bissett.

Mrs. Frank Lively of Saint John is visiting Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Lively, West Street. Mrs. J. A. Lively entertained at the tea hour Wednesday in honour of Mrs. Frank Lively.

Mrs. Arthur Roper and Mrs. Wendell MacDonald entertained at the Rendezvous Banquet Room Tuesday afternoon and evening at bridge. The color motif was pink and black and a large basket of pink chrysanthemums enhanced the color scheme. There were eight tables in play at each party.

Mrs. G. M. Avar, Mrs. Myron Bell and her children Gordon and Karen left Friday for Moncton. They will visit for one week with Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Avar.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. MacArthur have returned from an extended motor trip which took them as far south as Daytona Beach, Florida. Mr. and Mrs. MacArthur were away a month.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Burke are attending the Air Convention in Quebec City. They will also visit New York City before returning in about ten days time.

Mrs. Herbert Yeo entertained in honour of the wedding party Wednesday evening at her residence after the rehearsal for the Yeo-Ladner wedding. Mrs. R. J. Rupert poured tea and the assistants were Mrs. J. W. Baillem and Miss Grace Yeo. Beautiful rose colored chrysanthemums were used in the dining-room and yellow and bronze chrysanthemums in the living-room.

Mrs. Victor MacDonald, Cumberland Street, entertained last Saturday evening in honour of Miss Jeanette Ladner. Many lovely gifts were received and luncheon was served by the hostess. Miss Ladner's marriage took place November tenth to Mr. Kenneth Yeo in the Charlottetown Baptist Church.

Mrs. Wendell MacLaine, Goodwill Avenue, entertained recently at a miscellaneous shower in honour of Miss Jeanette Ladner.

Mrs. Thomas Arbing, King Street, entertained at High Tea in honour of Miss Jeanette Ladner and presented her with a gift.

The staff of Prince Street School entertained at an afternoon tea in honour of Miss Jeanette Ladner prior to her marriage and presented her with a lamp.

Miss Kathleen Brennan of Tignish has returned home after spending her vacation with friends in Ottawa.

Mr. and Mrs. James Chrillon, Brighton Shore, have left for Daytona Beach, Florida, where they will spend the winter months.

Miss Betty Beer who is now residing in Johannesburg has recently had a wonderful two weeks trip in which she and a travelling companion saw a most varied cross-section of northern and central South Africa. The trip covered nearly 2,800 miles and the itinerary included Northern Transvaal, Kruger Game Reserve, Swaziland, Natal, Basutoland, etc.

One of the first stops was Potgietersrus where they stayed with Mr. and Mrs. Amm whom Miss Beer had met in Rapallo, Italy last summer. Mr. and Mrs. Amm have a large farm where they raise 2,800 pigs and they also have large orange orchards. Miss Beer describes picking the luscious oranges as we enjoy our native fruits in this province.

The Amms have a lovely home and greeting of the highlights of their trip in the Kroeger Game Reserve. Miss Beer writes: "Our first ele-

MORNING SMILE

A reporter was assigned to interview a wealthy soap manufacturer.

The reporter asked "To what do you ascribe your success?"

The manufacturer replied, with a smile "To clean living, young man, to clean living."

ELLEN'S DIARY

By An Island Farmer's Wife

We saw the children bend down a branch of shrubbery in the lawn border today and look into a robin's empty nest. They regarded it for a long minute, chatting together, perhaps of our little lost guests, or was it of a summer now entirely passed away? Then they quietly turned and went back to their play.

"Keeping store," the two were then, joined today by their cousin Gage, an intriguing litter of packets and parcels cluttering our front verandah but serving to keep them interested and happy in the outdoors. With grand-daughter as the exacting cashier, the boys would gain experience in the financial side of the entertainment.

Empty nests... Fall days, and another week of quiet silver skies. "If you might have your wish, what would it be?" James asked with a twinkle this morning.

"The sun again in the leaves of the oak," I replied. "I'm afraid, Ellen," he nodded "you're not to have your wish today."

Silver-skied the week was dull and quiet the days and sometimes damp, nevertheless it was a week which lent fine assistance in furthering our field-work. It brought the close of the last harvesting of the year at Ross's and at once set the scene here.

After Jeanie's and our days of partial desertion, I came to us with a elation one morning, summoning back that alertness to duty which on farms attends a seasonal endeavour.

Odd times, because we still enjoy a spell in the old fields, their seedings and croppings and plow-ings being well interwoven into our years of living at Alderlea, we came to lend some assistance in the turnip-patch, but only at the topping, the lightest chore of it all. Only thus can folks get close to the heart of the farming.

Last evening when the twilight was commencing to veil dusky hills the two were there, with Jeanie on one side, and James the other along our respective rows, each contending for the lead. The competition was heated and amusing and somewhat breathless, we laughed.

"You'd better give up now, Ellen and go home," James said with some concern.

"You might take a weak turn... and fall," he offered seriously.

"And what would you do then?" we chuckled, tily.

"I'd say," he replied glancing quickly to note where the digger was catching up on the topped rows. "I guess, since they're right at our heels," he laughed to Jeanie "we'd have to leave you there until we had reached the end of these."

There the week has now come to the end of its run. Tomorrow? For us our Churches and a Gospel to hear. We too, we remember, have our own gospels to record.

You are writing a gospel, a chapter. By the deeds you do, and the words you say, whether fair or true.

For that is the gospel "according to you."

Until Monday—Diary—Good—night...

Novel Use Of Curtains Can Alter Entire Room

As it is with so many items in the American home today, curtains are growing more useful and longer wearing, yet they look brighter, gayer, more frivolous, more handsome than ever. It's a race in which manufacturers bring out stronger, more resistant, more easily washable fabrics and pass them on to designers and decorators who find new and astonishing things to do with them. The result is both pretty and practical.

Curtain nowadays are often used over walls to absorb sound, cover up old-fashioned architectural details or just to give a sense of opulence.

All this, of course, would never have been possible with the old soot-absorbing, non-washable parlor curtains. Today's housewife trusts her curtains (which may be literally her walls) into the washing machine and dryer and hangs them up again in a matter of minutes.

Marquise-type curtains of orlon and acrilan may go into your washer, but omit spin-drying or wringing. Instead, blot in towels, folding a large curtain in thirds and hang to dry.

Rayon marquise-type curtains may be machine-dried, but also need steam-pressing.

Other types of orlon curtains re-

Soiled clothespins will leave marks on linens and garments. Wash them in a pan of soapy water, scrubbing each pin with a stiff brush. Rinse in ammonia water, then spread out on clean paper and dry in the sun or in a warm—not hot—place.

COOK'S CORNER

CREOLE SAUSAGE

1 lb. sausage meat
2 tbs. minced onion
2 cups cooked spaghetti
1½ cups cooked tomatoes
12 tbs. chili sauce

Pan fry sausage and onion, spaghetti, tomatoes and chili sauce. Blend. Cover and cook slowly 30 minutes.

Words Of The Wise

If fifty million people say a foolish thing, it is still a foolish thing. —(Anatole France)

RING MOLD

To improve a ring mold, place a greased tin in centre of a 9-inch round casserole.

Wife Preservers

In cleaning mother-of-pearl articles, do not use soap. They should be cleaned with whiting (from the drug store) and cold water.
