

Stresses Importance Of Public Health Measures

The fact that there were 277 fatalities in the Province last year was disclosed by Dr. Lorne Bonnell (L. Fourth Kings) when he spoke on the Draft Address last Thursday night. "With results like that," he said, "the new treatment Centre for the worth the $200,000 of the Department of Health is spending. If we were to keep on getting admissions and no discharges, it would soon cost over that amount."

In a break-down of figures, Dr. Bonnell stated that the number of in-patients who were treated by electro-convulsive therapy was 96. Of these 44 recovered, 28 were much improved and 24 were unimproved. There were twelve lobotomy operations performed from which four were much improved, two of these being allowed to go home; five were improved and three received no help.

Dr. Bonnell told the House that there had been 236 first interviews made at the Mental Health Clinic during the past year along with 359 interviews of people previously. In addition to these the psychiatrists saw 203 patients on first appointments and 149 previously interviewed patients either in their homes or in hospital. He praised the work of the two psychiatrists, Dr. MacVicar and Dr. Thraut, whom he said were doing a wonderful work.

LOW DEATH RATE

That the T. B. death rate in the Province last year was the lowest yet recorded was noted by Dr. Bonnell who said that the death rate from tuberculosis during 1954 was 10.4 in 100,000. He thought that this was a record in all of Canada and expressed the opinion that soon the Sanatorium would be a thing of the past in so far as the treatment of this disease is concerned. He was happy to note that the Government was taking steps to enlarge the polio treatment facilities.

"Good advancement is being made in the treatment of Polio," said the Fourth District Member from Kings. "We could not get along without him" said Dr. Bonnell. There were 84 cases of the disease reported with 69 of these seen by Dr. Gencheff in private homes; 19 were treated as in-patients; (15 are still in); several in general hospitals; and 30 patients as out patients.

The speaker requested the Government to increase the per diem allowance to the hospitals. He stated that it wasn't right for the hospital boards to have to meet six or seven times a year to discuss means of keeping their hospitals in operation.

He stated that each hospital was going in debt and that the Government would be well advised to pay out the required $37,000 a year to prevent this situation. "The Government may as well go in debt as the hospital. It means nothing to the Government anyway," he stated.

He commended the work of the Cancer Clinic under the leadership of Dr. Temple Hooper and spoke of the good work being done by the Department of Mental Health in general.

FLUORIDATION

Dr. Bonnell strongly recommended fluoridation of water as a means of preventing caries in the teeth of children. He quoted from the Canadian Medical Journal to prove that in areas where water had been fluoridated, a remarkable improvement in the condition of children's teeth was noted. "Who does the Mayor of Yarmouth think he is that he can tell us that fluoridation is not a good thing?" he asked.

That the Government had seen fit to introduce a sidewalk construction policy in villages was commended by Dr. Bonnell who went on to point out that many villages needed assistance in the purchasing of fire-fighting equipment. He cited the Murray River Fire as an instance where more adequate equipment would have lessened the loss.

The telephone men were in the nearby district recently repairing lines damaged by the recent storm.

Seven Days A Week

by Anne Shannon

1. MONDAY: And so one of the nice montas is over — nice because it has only twenty-eight days; for one reason or another I always like February. It means March is just around the corner — March the month of whimsical weather — one day it snows and blows and you think there isn't another flake left up yonder; the next day you awake to a sky-blue, sunshiny morning and the snowy fields are diamond-encrusted; but by noon they begin to look a "bit" the worse for warming — and little puddles and streamlets appear magically. Then you say to yourself hopefully "waters back is broken, it won't be long till we see the robins again!" On the nice golden days, I sit by the front of the stove and wear out the pages of the seed catalogs — just thumbing thro' them. I wonder as I wait for the last stages of dinner to finish, if there is any way I could win, oh! say about a thousand dollars, what for? Well, when I added up what it would take to buy all the nice things I see in the catalogs, seed catalogs — well that thousand dollars is already shot! Not even a house flower have I now! Before Christmas one medical man decided if I wanted my breathing apparatus to function properly I must do away with all house plants. So, well-watered by tears, I disposed of them. — But did it do any good? Not a darn bit! I wheezed worse than ever! I think living in a house without flowers really got me down! So now I'm starting from scratch — And if you value the plants you have now and hate to spoil their lovely outlines, please set them out of my sight when I visit — I assure you I'll have a slip — by hook or by crook!

2. TUESDAY: Speaking of flowers, what ones are nicer than the Moss Roses. In fact Roses of all kinds have been people's favorites in the flower world for many years. The Moss Rose is thought to be the offspring of the Provence Rose. It is placed botanically in the Centifolia group — known as the hundred-leaved rose. There isn't much mention of this Rose before 1596. It was listed in an English catalogue in 1724 and first seen in Dr. Boerhaave's garden in Leyden in 1727. Its birthplace is not definitely established but it is supposed to be a contribution of England to the horticultural world. Records show it was exported from England in those days but never discovered elsewhere in the world growing in either its wild or natural state. Another strange feature of this Rose is that it varies in its mossiness in various parts of England — most moss in more humid regions — and long ago a poet wrote these lines about this lovely little flower:

The Angel of the flowers one day, beneath a rose tree sleeping lay,
That spirit — to whose charge is given
To bathe young buds in dews from heaven
Awakening from his light repose,
Whispered to the rose—
"O fondest object of my care,
still fairest found where all are fair,
For the sweet shade, show't given to me
Ask what thou wilt 'tis granted thee"
"Then," said the rose with deepest glow,
"on me another grace bestow."
The spirit paused in silent thought,
what grace was there that flower had not?
"Twas but a moment — e'er the rose
A veil of moss the angel throws
— and robed in nature's simplest weed,
Can there a flower that rose exceed?"

3. WEDNESDAY: Over half a century ago these items were given in a magazine — 1. Business girls were advised to keep in a feminine line of work. "Do something, (if you must go into business) that men can't do, such as dressmaking, millinery and pattern designing; No. 2. And on etiquette this note was printed, "A too obvious enjoyment of anything to eat is certainly not in good taste, especially on the part of the host or his family." And today's items in a leading magazine will doubtless be read with as much curiosity in 2005 A.D. — Items such as these No. 1. If you want to slice bread thin for dainty tea sandwiches do this — refrigerate it first!; No. 2. Some clever can openers magnetically hold lids so they won't drop into cans and need rescuing; No. 3. If your fitted sheets — you know the nice boxy kind, seem tight, don't tug and pull, open one corner, fold it with ties for a smooth fit. Some manufacturers are turning them out this way now.

4. THURSDAY: On a morning in February last year a young man's wife said to him, "Know what day this is dear?" Trying to cover up for being the forgetful husband, he quickly suggested that they go out to dinner. After dinner, still trying to cover up what occasion he was celebrating he handed his wife a twenty dollar bill and told her to buy something she'd like next morning, he couldn't stand the suspense any longer, "Honey," he said, "I give up. What day was yesterday anyway?" His wife looked at him in surprise. "Why Groundhog Day of Course!" she replied.

5. FRIDAY: Fish — food for many a man — in this recipe, and believe me it's a nice recipe, you cook two pounds of fish, such as cod or halibut. Make a green sauce using ¼ cup butter, ¼ cup flour, 2 cups milk. Season with ½ tsp. onion salt, ½ tsp. paprika, —FUNERAL AT ST. THERESA — The funeral of James Mc-Aree, St. Theresa, was held from his late residence Saturday morning Feb. 26 to St. Cuthberts church, St. Theresa, for Requiem Mass celebrated by Rev. J. B. Croken, P.P., who also officiated at the grave. Pall bearers were Messrs. Joseph Trainor, Leonard Bradley, Urban Bradley, Chester Bradley, James O'Brien, Joseph Gormley. ard, 1 tsp salt and ¼ tsp pepper. Blend in ½ cup mayonnaise and 1 tsp. lemon juice. Place one seven ounce can tuna, drained and flaked, in the bottom of a two quart casserole. Add half the sauce; Mix the other half with the cooked spinach or chard. Pour over the tuna. Top with half cup buttered cracker crumbs. Bake in moderate oven 350 degrees F. 25 minutes until bubbly and hot. Garnish with sliced tomatoes, makes 6 servings.

6. SATURDAY: I can't think of anything more interesting than trying out new recipes! When I think of all the concoctions I have tried out on my patient, understanding family. Well — I have a guilty feeling. Now, Mavis, just six and one half years old says, "Mom is this recipe in the Guardian, one you're going to try. If it is, I'll cut it out for you!" Here's a nice idea to try out. Ristoto — no doubt an Italian name. Sauté 1 cup chopped onion and 1 cup raw rice in three tablespoons butter. Add ½ tsp. salt and 3 cups chicken broth or stock. Cover and cook until liquid is absorbed. Add ½ cup grated cheese and ½ cup minced ham or chicken — Add some butter about a tsp. and salt to taste. (Don't count calories!)

7. SUNDAY: The week ends and a little but more of winter has worn away. But there is still a strong bite in the dark winds that blow at night. Daylight lengths but night still close in on swift gray wings. Rocky, now eight months old, is no longer a puppy in size — just in actions. He rolls and tumbles over the snow banks at day's end — playing a mad game of hide and seek with Ron — No love for the snow plows that lumber past, opening "The best road of all this past week — the one that leads over the hills to home." How happy we were to visit again the home folks after an absence of over two months. All the interesting things there were for Mavis and Garth to see — the spatty kitten, "twice as big, Mom," — and look at the gray kitten's face — It's as big as a saucer! Then there were the hens to inspect, a spotty calf to visit flowers blooming in the window, cookies to sample and oh! so many other things, a grandmother's house always seems to provide — Mavis said as she knelt at my knee to night, "I'm going to say a special good prayer for Bon and Ampy that they'll be there till I grow up big as the boys, anyway." And we silently added our prayer that her wish might be granted. And now—

I am going to rest, for the day's work is done. It's hours and it's moments have passed one by one; And the God who will judge me has noted them all— He has numbered each grace, He has counted each fall.

Shipping Record Made At Souris

"The M. V. Flojald II, 65 registered tons, docked at Souris at 5 p.m. Saturday evening from Amherst, Magdalen Islands, under the command of Captain Ernest Cormier and carrying a crew of four. The ship tied up at the breakwater, and will begin loading operations today, taking on a cargo of vegetables, potatoes and eggs. The ship will return to Amherst when loading has been completed. The arrival of the Flojald constitutes a record for Souris, with a ship or ships docking at Souris every month for the past twelve months. It is also worthy of note that ships could also have docked in Souris last winter, and did so up to the month of February when a ship could have docked but none did so. This is an extraordinary condition at Souris, and should it continue, and every indication is that it will so continue, then it may well be expected that Souris will also become a winter port of considerable importance not only to Eastern King's County but to the Province as a whole.

Summerville And Murray River Win

"A packed house at the Montague rink Saturday night was treated to real home-town hockey when the Summerville Beavers blanked Murray Harbour North 5-0 and Murray River defeated the Bison Bombers 5-1. Although the ice was slow, the games were played at a strong pace keeping the crowd tense with some very exciting close plays.

In the first game between Summerville and Murray Harbour North scoring for the winners were Fraser (2), Cain (2), and MacDonald a singleton. In the Murray River-Bomber game, scoring for the winners were G. White (4), and A. White a singleton. C. Stewart scored the lone tally for the locals.

6. SATURDAY: I can't think of anything more interesting than trying out new recipes! When I think of all the concoctions I have tried out on my patient, understanding family. Well — I have a guilty feeling. Now, Mavis, just six and one half years old says, "Mom is this recipe in the Guardian, one you're going to try. If it is, I'll cut it out for you!" Here's a nice idea to try out. Ristoto — no doubt an Italian name. Sauté 1 cup chopped onion and 1 cup raw rice in three tablespoons butter. Add ½ tsp. salt and 3 cups chicken broth or stock. Cover and cook until liquid is absorbed. Add ½ cup grated cheese and ½ cup minced ham or chicken — Add some butter about a tsp. and salt to taste. (Don't count calories!)

7. SUNDAY: The week ends and a little but more of winter has worn away. But there is still a strong bite in the dark winds that blow at night. Daylight lengths but night still close in on swift gray wings. Rocky, now eight months old, is no longer a puppy in size — just in actions. He rolls and tumbles over the snow banks at day's end — playing a mad game of hide and seek with Ron — No love for the snow plows that lumber past, opening "The best road of all this past week — the one that leads over the hills to home." How happy we were to visit again the home folks after an absence of over two months. All the interesting things there were for Mavis and Garth to see — the spatty kitten, "twice as big, Mom," — and look at the gray kitten's face — It's as big as a saucer! Then there were the hens to inspect, a spotty calf to visit flowers blooming in the window, cookies to sample and oh! so many other things, a grandmother's house always seems to provide — Mavis said as she knelt at my knee to night, "I'm going to say a special good prayer for Bon and Ampy that they'll be there till I grow up big as the boys, anyway." And we silently added our prayer that her wish might be granted. And now—

I am going to rest, for the day's work is done. It's hours and it's moments have passed one by one; And the God who will judge me has noted them all— He has numbered each grace, He has counted each fall.
