The Amazing Red Wings

THE amazing Detroit Red Wings are still unbeaten in this season's NHL play.

Thursday night they proved anything but hospitable when New York Rangers were in town and they added two more points to their total to bring the number up to 14. That's six wins and two ties in eight games, a most respectable record for any team but a really amazing one for a club that failed to make the Stanley Cup playoffs last March.

Tonight the Motor City gang invade Maple Leaf Gardens where they will put their undefeated streak on the line. Toronto undoubtedly would greatly appreciate the honor of throwing Sid Abel and company for their first loss. After all, the defending Stanley Cup champions should be able to stop these goings-on of the Detroiters.

Rangers felt the Detroit power Thursday night and they were not able to garner a single tally against the Red Wings. But the very same thing happened to the Maple Leafs last Sunday night when they were visiting Detroit Olympia.

This is the game we will see tonight and it should be a humdinger in every respect. You should see some solid bumping when these clubs get together and don't go selling those Red Wings short. They apparently have the idea now that they are not supposed to lose and once a team takes that attitude, it's mighty hard throwing them for a defeat.

However, tonight Toronto Maple Leafs should be ready for the kill and it's our guess that the Red Wings will get into the loss column with the help of the Leafs tonight.

Hawks Visit Detroit

TORONTO is idle this Sunday but Detroit goes back home for a game with the high flying Black Hawks. Should Detroit lose Saturday night in Toronto, first place would be at stake when they tangle with Rudy Pilous's crew. Of course, Detroit would still have three games in hand so that even if Chicago did go ahead on points, the picture would be far from a true one.

The Hawks should be in better shape for the Detroit club than the homesters. They are idle Saturday night while the Red Wings are toiling strenuously in Toronto. That Saturday game certainly shouldn't help Wings' chances against the Hawks on Sunday night.

Despite the handicap, we believe Detroit will beat the Black Hawks at the Olympia Sunday night, thereby giving them an even split in their weekend encounters.

On Other Fronts

TONIGHT Montreal Canadiens entertain the New York Rangers. Despite the fact that New York ran wild don Toronto last Saturday night, we don't anticipate that Montreal will have any trouble gaining two more points tonight. Maple Leafs and their supporters would dearly love to see Rangers grab a decision but we think that's asking for far too much.

That leaves only one game unaccounted for. That's the affair at Boston Sunday night with the Rangers the visiting club. Boston will have rested since Thursday for that one and will have no travelling whatever. These things considered, we give Phil Watson's boys the nod in this meeting.

So that's Toronto over Detroit, Montreal over New York, Detroit over Chicago and Boston over Rangers.

We'll check our score the first of the week.

Argos Play Alouettes

THE biggest game the Big Four has seen this season goes this afternoon at Montreal when the Alouettes are hosts to the Toronto Argonauts.

Argos are making a last ditch drive for the final playoff berth and a win this afternoon would do the trick. However, Alouettes are fired up for this and we figure Perry Moss and company will reach the semi-finals.

But, we would like to be wrong on this call and don't think we'll feel a bit bad if things turn out just the opposite. Should Argos make the grade, then Rough Riders and Tiger-Cats had better watch out the rest of the distance.

Conference Hits Its Crucial Stage

By The Canadian Press

The Atlantic Football Conference has reached the clutch-game stage.

The nine-team AFC has only two weeks of regular schedule left to play and four of the clubs still have a chance to make it to the Purdy Cup final in Halifax Nov. 17. The winner of that game will take on University of Toronto Blues in the Atlantic Bowl game a week later.

Stadacona Sailors, breezing along in first place with a 6-0 win-loss record, have their two toughest games on the last Saturdays of the schedule. They meet Mount Allison University Mounties, at 4-2 still a contender, in Halifax today and then meet St. Francis Xavier X-Men, defending champions, at Antigonish, N.S., next Saturday.

St. Mary's Huskies, also 4-2, meet University of New Brunswick Red Bombers at Fredericton today while the X-Men visit Acadia University Axemen at Wolfville, N.S. Both SMU and St. FX are expected to have easy days.

But the Stad - Mount Allison game is seen as tough in both camps.

The Sailors were rocked last Saturday before managing to squeeze by the St. Dunstan's Saints of Charlottetown 9-0. Mounties had a slow start but now have won four in a row—all on shutouts.

St. FX, undefeated in AFC play in three seasons and victor in all three playings of the Atlantic Bowl Game, are conceded one of the two Purdy Cup berths. Stad can wrap up the other with a win today over Mounties.

But a Mount A victory would keep both themselves and Huskies alive, providing SMU defeats UNB as expected.

That situation would bring it down to next week's finale with Mount A meeting SMU and Stad against St. FX. A Stad loss in that game would tie them with the winner of the SMU-Mount A game and bring the cup berth down to a matter of point spread.

Airmen Call Team 'Eagles'

With Cape Traverse Evinrudes out of senior hockey action this season, The Island Senior Hockey League declared their players free agents at the recent meeting of the hockey loop in Summerside.

It is expected that many of the former Evinrudes will line up with a team which will represent Summerside and district in the ISHL. An organization has been formed to handle this team's affairs and Harold Rodd is the new president. Vice presidents are Don Cameron and Gordon Kelly with Joe Clark to act as secretary. Gord Cutcliffe will be the team's treasurer.

Edgar Cannon who piloted the Evinrudes for the past two seasons will manage the Summerside and district club.

The RCAF team, a new entry this season, notified the league at the recent meeting that the name of the Air Force entry would be 'Eagles.'

Some thought was given to the idea of having a minor hockey game preceede the ISHL contest on some nights during the schedule. The executive was to look further into this matter.

Charlottetown Royals will open the league at The Sports Arena on Thursday, November 15 with RCAF Eagles supplying the opposition.

Claude Delaney resigned as vice president and his place was filled by the appointment of F-O Matthews to the post.

Club Starts Its Bowling

The Basilica Youth Club bowling league, starting its 11th year of operation, will get rolling Monday night at the Rollaway Club.

Joe Whalen, league president says the league will go with 10 or more teams this year, with upwards of 60 partcipants. Bowlers are asked to be on hand at 8.30 for opening night, and anyone interested in signing up can do so Monday night at 8.30.

Other officers of the league include Mary White, secretary-treasurer, and Norida MacLean, vice - president.

Meet Called For Juniors

A meeting has been called for all Juniors interested in playing with Old Spain Penguins this Sunday at 12.30 at the Horse and Sulky Club.

Als Make No Predictions About Important Game

MONTREAL (CP)—No predictions were forthcoming from the Montreal Alouettes camp Friday night.

The Als meet Toronto Argonauts here this afternoon in a struggle to determine who makes the final playoff berth in the Eastern Football Conference. Argos must win to get in.

Coach Perry Moss of the Als had nothing to say beyond: "it'll be a tough one." His assistant coaches, Jack Jacobs and Leo Cahill, were similarly disposed.

Said Jake: "I don't want to say anything that might get them (the Argos) mad at us."

The Als whipped through a light practice in the afternoon and then retreated to a suburban motel for the night.

"We want everyone together and thinking football," said Moss.

EXPECT GOOD FIELD

Condition of the playing field of Molson Stadium was a topic of discussion all week and the word Friday night was that it would be in fairly good condition provided there is no more rain or snow. It will likely be damp though.

The forecast calls for cloudy skies with a high of 40 degrees today with no mention of precipitation.

Snow and rain earlier in the week turned the turf into a quagmire. A 30-man crew was put to work to get it back into shape. They dug drainage ditches and installed construction heaters. Two helicopters were also used, hovering above the stadium to blow away moisture with the rotary action of their blades.

Friday night the crew was spreading 120 bales of peat moss on the ground.

The EFC schedule winds up Sunday in Hamilton when the Tiger-Cats meet Ottawa Rough Riders in a game that will leave the team positions in the standings unaffected. Hamilton is first, Ottawa second.

The winner of today's game will meet the Rough Riders Nov. 10 in a sudden-death clash for the right to advance to the EFC final against Hamilton. That's a home-and-home total-point series.

MacDonald Off To Good Start With Red Wings

By RON ANDREWS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Add Parker MacDonald's name to the growing list of National Hockey League players who show improvement when they are put on the same line as Gordie Howe.

The dark-haired MacDonald, 29-year-old native of Sydney, N.S., has had an up-and-down professional career which includes trials with three NHL clubs.

Last season, however, MacDonald is off to his best start in NHL action and is currently the second-highest scorer with the league-leading Detroit Red Wings.

MacDonald, who started his professional career in 1953 with Pittsburgh of the American League, has been the left winger on Detroit's top line. The other members of that unit are centre Alex Delvecchio and Howe.

HAS SEVEN POINTS

In the eight games Detroit has played—six wins and two ties — MacDonald has scored four goals and set up another three. Delvecchio has three goals and seven assists and Howe, off to a slow (for him) start, has three goals and three assists.

Willie Mays Pronounced Fit

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Star outfielder Willie Mays of the National League San Francisco Giants was pronounced in top physical condition Friday after a medical checkup.

Dr. Harold Rosenblum, chief of medicine at Mount Zion Hospital, who conducted three days of tests on Mays, said, "his condition is perfectly healthy.

The $90,000 - a - year centre fielder collapsed Sept. 12 in a game against the Reds in Cincinnati.

"It was simple exhaustion," said Dr. Rosenblum.

Harold Rodd Named Prexy Of S'side Club

SUMMERSIDE — Harold Rodd of Summerside has been elected president of the Summerside entry in the Island Hockey League. The Evinrudes of Cape Traverse and the Crystals of Summerside have joined forces, but as yet the team has not been named.

Other members of the executive are: first vice-president—Don Cameron; second vice-president—Gordie Kelly; secretary—Joe Clark; treasurer—Gord Cutcliffe.

Edgar Cannon, last year manager of the Evinrudes, will be in charge of the new team. The group in charge of the club are running a contest to obtain a name, and the contributor who sends in the name that is eventually picked will get a season's ticket to all ISHL games.

SNORING CHILDREN

A child who snores may have enlarged tonsils or adenoids, requiring the attention of a doctor.

Ernie Davis In Condition For NFL Play

CLEVELAND (AP) — Halfback Ernie Davis now is in condition to play with Cleveland Browns of the National Football League but there is a question whether he could help the team more than the player who would have to be cut from the roster, Art Modell, club president, said Friday.

"I feel as good as I ever felt in my life," Davis said during a workout Thursday. "I'm ready now. It's just up to him," he said, pointing to coach Paul Brown.

Brown won't comment, but it is known he is reluctant to put the 22-year-old all-American on the team at this time.

Davis, the nation's top collegiate player in 1961 with Syracuse University, has had leukemia. But the deadly blood disease is in a perfect state of remission, according to doctors. Remission means the disease has been halted temporarily. This is not uncommon in leukemia cases.

Davis said he has never felt any weakening effects from leukemia, which doctors now disclose first struck him in early June.

Bombers Face Problem In Player Equalization Plan

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The controversial player equalization plan of the Western Football Conference presents Winnipeg Blue Bombers with a real poser.

If they win tonight's "nothing" game with Edmonton Eskimos, they stand to lose two Canadian players in the equalization draft for next year.

If the defending Grey Cup champions lose their last game of the regular schedule in Winnipeg tonight, the Eskimos will wind up within 10 points of the Bombers in the league standings and won't be able to claim any of the players on Winnipeg's 12-man protected list.

Going into the game, the Bombers have 22 points—good for first-place in the final standings no matter what the result, and a bye into the league final against either Saskatchewan Roughriders or Calgary Stampeders.

A win for the Eskimos, who have 11 points, would move them into fourth place in the final standings, still out of the playoffs but a notch higher than British Columbia Lions.

HAVE GOOD RECORD

The Eskimos have had five five straight wins in Winnipeg, their last losing effort on Bomber soil being in September, 1960. The Bombers have seven straight wins in Edmonton.

The big goal for the Eskimos will be the league's individual scoring title. Star end Tommy-Joe Coffey has 118 points while Winnipeg's Gerry James has 110. With six more pass receptions, Coffey will break a record of 66 in a season jointly held by Bud Grant, now coach of the Bombers, and Winnipeg end Ernie Pitts.

In Vancouver, fog forced postponement of tonight's game between B.C. and Saskatchewan. Lions general manager Herb Capozzi announced Friday that the game will be played Sunday afternoon.

He said the plane that was bringing the Roughriders to Vancouver was forced back to Edmonton because of fog that has shrouded the lower mainland of B.C. all week.

Saskatchewan coach Steve Owen said his club wants a win against the Lions to get second place in the final standings. If the Riders win second place and a choice of sites in the league semi-final, they'll play the first game of the two-game, total-point series at home.

Phalanx, Pirates Notch Victories

Phalanx defeated Senior BYC 52-38 and the powerful Pirates outscored PWC Welshmen 73-52 in 'Golden Ball' basketball tournament action at PWC gym last evening.

The Phalanx team outscored BYC 29-13 in the first half of their contest and just kept pace with their opponents in the final period.

Roy Scantlebury once again was the big gun for the winners, swishing the twines for a total of 18 points. Fifteen of these points came in the first half. In runner-up spot was John Ives with 11 points followed by Roy Doiron with nine.

Tops for the losers was Roy MacDougall with 12 followed close behind by Emmett Ellsworth with eleven.

In the final contest the veteran crew of Pirates were pushed by the younger PWC five in the first half and by half-time were leading by only two points with the score reading 31-29 but in the final half it was a different story with the much more experienced winners outscoring Earl Nicholson's Welshmen 42-23. The losers showed plenty of spirit but were unable to match the accurate shooting of Wendell MacLean, Dave Hyndman and Wayne MacDonald.

MacLean was the biggest point-getter of the night with 23 points with teammates Wayne MacDonald and Stu Lavers counting 12 points each and Dave Hyndman right behind with 11 points.

Winston Smith led the collegians with 22 points and runner-up was George Ward with 11.

Hoop action goes on two fronts this afternoon and evening. The airfroce team plays host to BYC in a contest which will get underway at 2 o'clock this afternoon at the Summerside base and this evening PWC and Phalanx at the Y at 7 p.m.

Here are the lineups for last evening's games: — PWC: — W. Smith 22, M. Dagg 1, S. Ladner 5, G. Gallant, B. Diamond, D. Ling, G. Ward 11, S. MacFadyen 2, L. Hodgin, R. Diamond 10, J. Webb 1. Total - 52.

Pirates: — D. MacLean 8, W. MacLean 23, W. MacDonald 12, R. Atkinson 4, R. MacGonnell 1, S. Lavers 12, I. MacKinnon 2, D. Hyndman 11. Total - 73.

Phalanx: — R. Doiron 9, R. Scantlebury 18, K. Johnston 4, S. Harper 8, H. Ladner 2, J. Ives 11, R. MacDonald, F. C. Burns. Total - 52.

BYC: — L. Baglole, E. Ellsworth 11, R. MacDougall 12, T. King 3, J. Basha 1, L. Ellsworth 2, E. Murphy 3, G. Chipman 4. Total - 38.

CFL Clubs Leaning More Towards Dual QB System

By DAVE McINTOSH
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Remember the days when one quarterback would do a football club all season? He wasn't permitted to get hurt.

Nowadays it's getting so that a Canadian Football League club is chary about signing any player unless he can operate at least part time at quarterback.

Coaches are running through quarterbacks like halftime rhetoric on the theory that if one doesn't click the next one—or the next one after that—will.

Latest club to try this on for size is Winnipeg. At Edmonton Oct. 27 Blue Bombers coach Bud Grant threw in Kenny Ploen, Hal Ledyard and Dick Thornton, in that order. Thornton produced the desired results.

In the Hamilton camp coach Jim Trimble has alternated Frank Cosentino and rookie Joe Zuger since Bernie Faloney was hurt.

In Montreal coach Perry Moss went to the extreme of using two quarterbacks — Sandy Stephens and Joe Francis—at the same time. This was designed to confuse the opposition but some contend it did more to confuse the Montreal backfield.

Moss may have figured he still had a third quarterback, Dave Grocz, in reserve so why not put two on the field together?

SOME HOLDOUTS

Edmonton Eskimos have long alternated Jackie Parker and Don Getty.

These days, it seems, only Toronto, Saskatchewan, Calgary and British Columbia rely, in the main, on a single quarterback. Each has a reserve who has seen action but they don't use a dual system, and Tobin Rote, Bob Ptacek, Eagle Day and Joe Kapp are the basic quarterbacks for the teams, barring injury.

Some think the all-star quarterback this season is a tossup between two of these regulars, Calgary's Day and B.C.'s Kapp.

There are few quarterbacks around today with the staying powers of two of Canada's all-time football favorites, Sam Etcheverry of Montreal and Jackie Parker of Edmonton.

Ottawa coach Frank Clair has been a practitioner of the dual system for a couple of years now. He never declares before a game whether Russ Jackson or Ron Lancaster will start. And he never shows any preference for one or the other.

"We're fortunate we've got two quarterbacks," Clair says. "If things aren't going well for one, I can call in the other to help out."

DON'T COMPETE

Also fortunately for Ottawa, Jackson and Lancaster aren't engaged in competition but work together for the team. They give each other tips throughout a game and when one connects, the other is the loudest cheerer.

In fact, Jackson and Lancaster sometimes appear at pains not to try to outdo each other. In a recent game in Ottawa against Saskatchewan, with Ottawa desperately needing a touchdown in the final minutes to win, Jackson threw a pass that Steve Myrha intercepted. Clair sent in Lancaster. On the first play he threw an interference pass—to Myrha.

You couldn't ask for much more comradeship than that although Clair may have thought Jackson and Lancaster had carried it a bit too far.

Incidentally, the lineup always shows "Jackson and Lancaster," not "Lancaster and Jackson." This doesn't indicate any preference, the club says. It's just that Jackson has seniority.
