On the Wing.

Leaving Charlottetown on Tuesday afternoon, January 24th, we arrived at Cape Traverse about 5.30 p. m., after a very pleasant passage.

I may remark that it would be preferable if the train would stop at the front of the Lansdowne Hotel for a brief space in order to allow passengers to alight, rather than run the train to several hundred yards further and compel them to trudge their way back to the place of lodging. A word to our obliging Superintendent would, no doubt, obviate this grievance.

We were, on arrival at Cape Traverse, surrounded by a host of boatmen who wished all passengers to take advantage of their respective boats. We hesitated and decided to await the dawn, when we would, without any prejudice, decide. By the way, I may say that the Lansdowne Hotel, as conducted by the obliging proprietor, Mr. Alex. Strang, is a resort of which we may be proud. Its spacious rooms and bountiful table guarantee to the belated traveller a quietus of which any may be thankful of. Every attention is paid, and you feel, after leaving the hospitable roof, that the one desire you have is to be again received into the tender care of Mr. and Mrs. Strang. One can have only one opinion, namely, that the only "continuous steam communication" can be effected by means of a Subway. Why, when one arrives at "The Cape" he is looked upon as a semi-barbarian who is escaping his country, and who, to do so, is compelled to undergo a laborious journey such as would be awarded him if he were adjudged guilty of a heinous offence. We are a free people, and I consider a fair people; yet it cannot be accepted as any panacea for our ills until the stipulated terms of Confederation, are carried out, and we are placed on a par with the other members of the Confederation and be in a position to compete with the markets of the world in the forwarding of our shipments and the forwarding and receipt of our mails. I shall write further from Sackville.

THEO. L. CHAPPELLE.

Notes From Montague.

The new Post Office in this village, so long in course of construction, has at last been opened, and appears to be well laid off and the work tastefully done. There seems to be every convenience for the accommodation of the public, and for the officials. Besides the regular office tehre is room for the Money Office, which is a great convenience now, there being no bank here. We are glad to see the efficient and popular officer, Mr. Poole, in charge.

The brig Warren W., previously spoken on the 22nd December dismasted, has again been spoken off Bermuda apparently abandoned. The Warren W. is a vessel of 268 tons. She was launched here in 1886, coppered in 1887, and cost about $13,000—with cargo and freight (say) $19,000. There is only a partial insurance on the hull and nothing on the cargo or freight, so that the loss to the owner will not be less than $16,000.

The home of O. B. Emery presented a lively appearance on the evening of the 17th inst. The members and friends of the Church of Christ gathered there to have a social meeting, and to wish their pastor and his worthy partner in life a happy New Year. After ample justice was done to the good things prepared by the ladies, the evening was pleasantly spent, interspersed with music and speeches. Many kind words were given by the speakers, some of whom were well advanced in years. But one of the best features was the presentation of a well-filled purse to Mrs. Emery, accompanied with a suitable address, which was replied to by Mr. Emery. Many substantial tokens of the good will of the congregation, formed their way to both barn and pantry, thus ended one of the many pleasant evenings spent by the writer in Montague.

B.

Montague, Jan 22nd, 1888.

Commercial Union and the States.

The Washington correspondent of the Empire writes that journal as follows:—"I have made a very careful and thorough canvas of the House and Senate, and have talked with the leading men of both parties in regard to Commercial Union and unrestricted reciprocity. With the exception of Congressmen Butterworth, of Ohio, and Townshend, of Illinois, the sentiment is dead against it. The consensus of opinion is that America does not want Commercial Union in any form, and that any measure looking in that direction, if one should be introduced with the serious intention of its becoming law, is bound to fail. The Democratic members of the House would like to see the American tariff reduced so that Canada could send to this country articles which the United States would gladly buy, knowing full well that such an arrangement would be mutually beneficial. To that extent they are willing to go, but Commercial Union would have to be so thoroughly explained to their constituents and might give rise to some awkward questions that no one would care to touch it."

ADVICE TO MOTHERS.—Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup should always be used when children are cutting teeth. It relieves the little sufferer at once; it produces natural quiet sleep by relieving the child from pain; and the little cherub awakes as "bright as a button." It is very pleasant to taste. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain, regulates the bowels, and is the best known remedy for diarrhœa, whether arising from teething or other causes. Twenty-five cents a bottle. Be sure and ask for Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup, and take no other kind may17 eod & wky

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Postal.

SIR,—I see that an addition to the Post Office staff has been made in the person of Mr. Fenwick Gill. My object in writing is not to pass any remarks on Mr. Gill's abilities to perform the duties of a third-class clerk, but to ask why there is not more fair play shown by those who have the appointing of persons to such positions. Why was not a Roman Catholic appointed to that position? You, sir, approve of those positions being held by persons capable of filling them, no matter what their religious persuasion may be. But if the Dominion Government is doing so, we may wait some time to see a Roman Catholic receiving the much sought for Government position. On the list of those who have passed Civil Service examinations since 1882, there are a great many Roman Catholics, and therefore it cannot befor want of ability that there are only four out of fourteen clerks in the Post Office that are Roman Catholics. The last three appointments made in that Department are Protestants. I think that it would be nothing but just that every alternate appointment should be a Roman Catholic. I do not wish to see a religious cry started, but I think that you, sir, are not blind to this way of treating the principal support of the present parties in power.

I am, yours, etc.,
SENSE.

Imports of Potatoes.

LARGE QUANTITIES RECEIVED FROM GREAT BRITAIN AND IRELAND—STATISTICS FROM THE BOSTON CUSTOM HOUSE.

A Boston despatch says: New England is being at the present time supplied with potatoes from England, Ireland and Scotland, and even the potato growers of Belgium are sending a part of their products to this city. These importations became noticeable in November last, when 312,142 barrels of potatoes, valued by the customs officers at $65,231, were entered at this port. Of that number only 8,902 bushels came from Scotland, but in December that country sent 28,974 bushels valued at $13,734. The total number of bushels imported in December was 240,000, their total value being $76,813. Of that number Belgium sent 2,864 bushels, valued at $1,324; Ireland, 5,278 bushels, valued at $3,019, and England, 10,333 bushels, valued at $3,890. The remainder came from the provinces. Since the first of January the countries named have sent us as large shipments as in December, and Scotland has, in fact, sent larger; the importation from that country since January 1st being, according to the custom house figures, 26,042 bushels. In January and November, 1886, Scotland sent no potatoes here, and the custom house officers are of the opinion that, until recently, no shipments of any account have been received here from Scotland for at least three years. It is said that the freight from Scotland is only nine cents a bushel. The same gentlemen say that it has been a rare thing to be called upon to enter shipments of potatoes from Belgium and Ireland. Large shipments are constantly coming from the provinces, but England seldom sends any potatoes to this port.

Not a Libel.

At the Assize Court at Hamilton, Ont., last week, the case of Findlay vs. Kelly, a libel suit about a bogus marriage notice was tried. It appears that James Findlay and Charles E. Kelly, two young farmers living near Ancaster, had been in the habit of playing practical jokes on each other. In September last Kelly sent to a local paper a bogus marriage notice with an account of a marriage between Findlay and an estimable young lady living in the Scotch block near Ancaster, giving the name of the bridesmaid and groom with a description of the dress of the bride. It was subsequently discovered that no such wedding had taken place, and the affair was intended as a practical joke. The result of the joke was a libel suit brought against Kelly for $5,000. Judge McMahon charged in favor of defendant, taking the view that little damage had been done by the publication. The jury, after being out some hours, returned a verdict for defendent.

OPEN FOR THE SEASON.—Tom Allan's Hotel at Cape Tormentine was opened for the season about a fortnight ago. It has undergone considerable improvement of late years, and is comfortably furnished. The best chamber is quite elaborate, and is ready for any brides or dignitaries who may chance that way. The renowned Hotel has been favorably connected with the winter iceboat service at the Capes for over a quarter of a century, and is favorably known to the travelling public, who have had occasion to sojourn at Cape Tormentine. Tom is always on hand to welcome weary travellers who may seek rest under his roof, while Mrs. Allan and her daughters are most attentive to provide meals and look after the wants of their guests. Sleighs are always in attendance to convey passengers to and from the house and to the board ice, as well as to and from the station, with the mails. The Allan's Hotel is the proper place to put up at, being near the Government boat station and telegraph office, where the boats start from, and reliable information regarding their movements is always obtainable.

E. M. CASWELL, Grand Union Hotel, N. Y., says: Adamson's Cough Balsam has cured coughs and colds for me repeatedly. I have used it in my family fifteen years, and at every trial we have found it successful. We are never without it. Trial bottles 10 cents; large, 35 cents. dy wy 1w
