Opening lead - seven of hearts.
In choosing an opening lead against a notrump contract, a defender should be guided more by the aim of what is best for the partnership than by just the lead of his own hand.

Defense is a partnership property and not the exclusive property of either defender. The joint effort will produce better results in the long run than the solo venture.

West decided against a club lead because there was too much chance that declarer might gain a trick as a result. With spades and diamonds ruled out by the adverse bidding as opening leads, he led a heart in the hope he might hit partner's suit.

Declarer played low from dummy, losing the finesse to the king. East read the short suit lead correctly and saw there was no future in continuing hearts.

Declarer could do nothing but attack spades. When he led the king East grabbed the ace, returned his last club, and West cashed the A-9 to defeat the contract one trick.

The defense had functioned perfectly, it is true, and were entitled to A for effort, but declarer's downfall was brought on largely by himself. He fell into the trap of taking an unending lead.

All he had to do was step up with the ace of hearts at trick one and then force out the ace of spades. This would assure him of four spade tricks, four diamonds, and a heart. The defenders could not by any stretch of imagination possibly take more than a spade, a heart, and two clubs.

The principle involved is an ancient one. A finesse should not be taken merely because the setup for it exists. The more dominating consideration always is the fulfillment of the contract.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE - Here's how to work it:
A X Y D L B A A X R
L O N G F E L L O W
One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.
