Moderator Welcomed By Church And State

Dignitaries of church and state attended a luncheon given yesterday in honour of Rt. Rev. Angus J. MacQueen, moderator of the General Council of the United Church of Canada. Rev. T.R. Goudge, chairman of the P.E.I. Presbytery presided.

The moderator who has travelled over 30,000 miles since his election in September 1958 stated that in all his travels that had taken him from coast to coast, no place had given him a more "royal" welcome.

Possessed with a ready wit and a dry humor, the moderator was pleasantly surprised when Acting Premier R.R. Bell presented him with a Prince Edward Island tartan scarf, promising to give him a complete kilt upon his return to the province.

Mr. Bell said that research had led to the discovery that the MacQueen clan was at present without a chieftain and suggested that Dr. MacQueen be duly installed as chief when he returned.

Another pleasant highlight of the luncheon was the presentation to Rev. A. Frank MacLean of a fountain pen from the Island Presbytery. Mr. MacLean was elected president of the Maritime Conference of the church last June. The presentation was made by Mayor E.C. Johnstone.

During the luncheon Miss Joyce MacCallum rendered a solo, "How Beautiful Upon The Mountain". She was accompanied on the piano by Royston F. Mugford, organist of Trinity Church.

Head table guests were Rev. A. Frank MacLean, president of the Maritime Conference of the United Church, and Mrs. MacLean, acting Premier, R.R. Bell, Q.C. and Mrs. Bell; Mayor Edwin C. Johnstone and Mrs. Johnstone; Rev. T.R. Goudge and Mrs. Goudge; Justice George J. Tweedy, and Mrs. Tweedy; Rev. Burton Grove, secretary of the P. E. I. Presbytery and Mrs. Crowe; Allison MacKinnon, representing the P. E. I. Presbytery Men's Council and Mrs. MacKinnon; Mrs. Ewen H. Anderson, president of the P. E. I. Presbytery Women's Association; Mrs. R. F. MacAusland, president of P. E. I. Presbyterial WMS.

Later in the afternoon Dr. MacQueen delivered his moderatorial address to the Prince Edward Island Presbytery meeting at Trinity Church in Charlottetown.

St. Pius X Variety Concert Enthusiastically Applauded

'Heavy showers failed to dampen the ardor of a crowded hall last night to enjoy the second annual variety concert sponsored by the Holy Name Society of St. Pius X Parish.

From the opening overture "O Canada" by Art Cantwell and his orchestra with all the contributing talent "on stage", until "the Queen" brought the concert to a close, the variety of talent presented met the wishes of the large and appreciative audience as evidenced in generous applause.

The Thunderbirds, in rock and roll selections were followed by the popular soloist Amber Doyle in "The best things in life are free" and a tap dance number by Janet LeClair and Rita Callaghan, with Marleen Weatherbie as pianist.

Danda Bell and Peggy MacDonald were heard in the song "Waterloo" and they were followed by Heather, Shirley, Donald and Tom Burke in Scottish dances — "The Reel of Tulloch" and the "Highland Fling".

Eugene Donahue was well received on singing "Galway Bay" and "St. Louis Blues," as was also Junior MacDougall in his step dance number. Pat Redmond closed the first half of the program with violin selections.

"Mother's Love is a Blessing" and "Bonnie Lassie".

STEALS SHOW

The unscheduled appearance of pretty two-year-old Jacqueline Flanagan in tap dancing brought her an ovation.

The Lads and Lassies pipe band were in championship form as they continued after intermission with selections: "March of Strath-bay Reel", "Pibroch of Don Dhu", "Hot Punch" and "Highway Lintin". Dee Dee Wynne and Bowser Gallant in hillbilly songs were followed by the Weatherbie sisters tap dancing with Marlene at the piano and George doing the violin work. This was a popular and pleasing number.

Frank MacIntyre was in splendid voice as he sang two general favorites, "Old Man River" and "Danny Boy". He was followed by the popular James Flanagan who sang "Rose of Picardy" and "Birth of the Blues". George Weatherbie was well received in fiddle selections as was also Wendell Burke in guitar selections.

Donita McQuarrie and Peggy Anderson revived the Charleston in dancing which proved most interesting and pleasing to the more modern devotees.

Tap dancing by Mrs. John Flanagan indicated a continued interest in this form of entertainment which she has engaged in since a child.

Joseph Murphy was master of ceremonies.

The concert tonight will present numbers by an entirely new group of artists.

News Guild Faces Suit

WASHINGTON (AP) — Hearst Consolidated Publications Inc. Tuesday filed a $6,000,000 damage suit against the American Newspaper Guild.

The suit, filed in federal district court, alleged that the Guild circulated libelous and injurious falsehoods involving the New York Journal-American.

The Guild is a union representing editorial workers and other employees on many newspapers and news services.

The suit was based on a story in the Oct. 23 issue of The Guild Reporter and a press release in which the Guild said it had urged the justice department to investigate whether there was an agreement between Hearst and Scripps - Howard to divide the U.S. newspaper market.

The complaint said this material was published and circulated with knowledge that there was no basis for statements that the Journal-American was about to be absorbed by the New York World - telegram and Sun, a Scripps-Howard publication.

The complaint said Hearst has been damaged in its reputation, in its financial and competitive standing and in its ability to continue harmonious relations with its employees.

The allegations in the complaint are basically the same as in a $3,100,000 suit that Hearst Publications filed against the Guild Oct. 30 in New York.

Speaker Says Criminals Can Be Useful Citizens

Even the most hardened criminal can stage a come-back and emerge as a useful member of society, J. Alex Edmison, QC, a member of the recently established national parole board said in Charlottetown last night.

In an address delivered at the Charlottetown Hotel and released to the press in advance of delivery, Mr. Edmison told the Canadian Club that the files of the former Canadian Remission Service were full of cases of highly successful parolee or ticket-leave cases.

"Men and women have emerged from prison, have co-operated well with groups or individuals seeking to help them, and have never since had any trouble with the law," he said.

Several had actually risen to a place of more than average prominence in business and industry. Others had graduated from universities and professional schools.

Mr. Edmison said that the parole board must be satisfied that a prisoner had really changed for the better before a parole was considered. For instance, in cases where alcoholism was considered a factor in the inmate's crime, the prisoner must show an interest in the AA services available to him.

SINCERITY NEEDED

It was likely that parole would be granted if prison records would show that the individual had made a sincere effort to better himself like working in the prison garage and behaving well.

On the other hand, those who showed no interest in trade training or academic study, who constantly exhibited a surly disposition, were not responsive to counselling, were immature, inadequate, were dull, unstable in-

Under the direction of the Navy League of Canada, Prince Edward Island Division, it is the first such corps to be formed in this province.

Training is similar, but on a modified scale, to that given regular cadets.

The youngsters are trained once weekly on board HMCS Queen Charlotte by Petty Officer Lyn Gallant who is on loan to the Navy League Cadets from Royal Canadian Sea Cadet Corps Kent.

Coal Selling Probe Asked

SYDNEY (CP) — Henry Hicks, leader of the provincial Liberal Party, called on the Nova Scotia government Tuesday to investigate Dominion Steel and Coal Corporation's coal sales policy.

Mr. Hicks said in an interview that in many parts of the province Dosco coal cannot be bought.

He also called for immediate clarification of the federal government's interest and assistance in selling coal and completion of arrangements between federal and provincial governments and Dosco for a coal-washing plant.

If mine closures in Cape Breton are inevitable, he said, the government should face the fact realistically and take "every positive step" to promote production of cheaper coal and to rehabilitate displaced miners.

Halifax Raid Peril Is Told

HALIFAX (CP)—Fallout from a nuclear bomb attack on Halifax would cause radiation burns or death to anyone in the Maritimes that did not take cover, chemist George Smith of Truro said Tuesday.

It was necessary that everyone in the Maritimes—whether they lived in the target areas of Halifax or Saint John, N.B., or elsewhere—to be aware of what action to take in the event of a nuclear strike.

Routine business was carried on with President W. A. Murphy in the chair. The library workers agreed that children's books were urgently needed to supply the demand, and the secretary was instructed to order as many as funds on hand would buy.

Mr. Murphy introduced the guest speaker, Rev. Allan MacDonald, who is librarian at St. Dunstan's University.

Father MacDonald studied library work at Toronto University and also at the Catholic University of America.

Father MacDonald said that St. Dunstan's parish library, like all parish libraries had been started on a shoe string and was making progress in spite of the many problems of finance selection of books etc.
