Europe's Industries Adopt North American Theories
 After years of running industry for their own profit, Western Europe's big businessmen have switched to capitalism, North American style. This has helped produce the amazing European business boom. The problem now, says an Associated Press reporter in the last of a series, is how to get European labor to accept the capitalism, too.

Also thank you to those who sent cards and flowers, to Rev. L.M. Murray for his thoughtful calls, and to the many friends for their cheerful visits.
 Mabel Montgomery, Graham's Road.

REVERSAL OF 1961
 The bank says the situation in 1962 was a reversal of the previous year as a wheat crop of over 538,000,000 bushels, the fifth highest in the country, and above-average of other cereals, for a total harvest of well over 1,000,000,000 bushels of grain from previous years."
 "We now are back in the familiar position of having a surplus of the type that have been set the western economy in the post-war period."
 The bank says most agricultural products experienced a good year in 1962 and that future prospects are encouraging in most major areas of agricultural activity.
 "A strong domestic market for farm products is expected to continue and that of our farm product abroad, which in 1961 rose to its second highest on record."

Fishing Fleet as Bitter Over Weather Forecasts
 The men on the fishing banks spoke in protest of a motion proposed by Senator David Crolo, sent out a distress call. Capt. Hans Davison, owner of the scalloper Finerose B, joined in with a statement that "when they said 25- to 30-knot winds, we had 80. The forecast was worse than if they hadn't given any at all. We could have used our own judgment."
 "I just might go to the weather bureau in Boston and retire a few of those so-called forecasters," said Capt. Albert Dahl, whose ship, the Monte Carlo, sent out a distress call. Capt. Heat Deposed As Farming King
 By GREG MACDONALD
 Canadian Press Staff Writer
 Wheat is no longer king in Canadian farming and has been dethroned in importance in Montreal exports, says the bank. Commenting in its monthly publication, "Business Review," the bank says that diversification of Canadian agriculture in recent years has proceeded to the point where wheat, which in the 1920s was responsible for the bulk of the total income of the farmers' cash income, now amounts to something less than 20 per cent.
 On exports, the bank says that 30 years ago wheat from Canada represented about one-third of total merchandise whereas in recent years it has accounted for only about 10 per cent of the total.
 "There is also another reason for the relatively small impact of western grain crops on the level of cash incomes of the farm community."
CUSHIONING EFFECT
 "The reason is to be found in the cushioning effect of a complex of governmental policies which tend to stabilize farm incomes and to spread out over time both the costs of holding farm commodities and the returns from selling them."
 Partly because of these factors, the bank says, Canada last year saw the lowest level of the poorest grain crop in years because of the highest farm cash income on record.
 "At this time last year while sales were high—aided by recently negotiated exports to mainland China and other non-traditional markets—severe drought had cut production to one of the lowest levels in modern times and it was possible to enter into substantial new export commitments only because of the carryover of unused grain from previous years."
 "In 1962, however, the concern that another crop's this year as poor as last year's—and this year was high-aided by recently negotiated exports to mainland China and other non-traditional markets—severe drought had cut production to one of the lowest levels in modern times and it was possible to enter into substantial new export commitments only because of the carryover of unused grain from previous years."

Lumber Industry Declines in Nfld.
 ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP)—The lumber industry in Newfoundland is expected to be sustained at a high level.
 "In terms of the gross national product it seems likely that agricultural production, although still well below the dizzy heights achieved in some earlier post-war years, will this year contribute to the total than in any year since 1956."
