THE DAILY EXAMINER.

OCTOBER 23, 1880.

THE King's County Advertiser has an excellent article on the importance of better farming and special instruction and training of young farmers. It agrees with THE EXAMINER'S views respecting the Model Farm.

THE Postmaster General of the United States directs that, hereafter, such of the dead letter office mail as is made up of magazines, pictorial papers, or other acceptable second class matter, shall be turned over to the charitable societies of the district. Here-fore, it has been sold as waste paper, and although considerable in quantity, has yielded a very small sum to the Government.

RUSSIAN military authorities are not half pleased with the butchery done by the Russian troops in the recent war with Turkey. They have figured out how many times a soldier fired his gun at the enemy in order to hit a man. The infantry, it appears, fired 14,326,342 shots; the cavalry, 1,917,025, and the artillery, 187,783, making a total of 16,431, 161 shots. These figures, placed alongside careful returns of the killed and wounded of the enemy, show that only one man was hit for every one hundred and fifty shots.

It is not pleasant to see in papers abroad paragrapls like the following, which we copy from the St. John Sun:—

"We hear that the up-river lumbermen are kicking against P. E. Island pork this fall, wages being good and the men in a position at least to suggest somewhat in regard to the food supplied to the camps."

This may or may not be true. But it is certainly calculated to damage the character of Island pork; and it shows the necessity that exists for the most scrupulous care in regard to the quality of what we export. A "clever" dealer or farmer who sells for a good article, damaged pork, badly cleaned grain or rancid butter, may think he has done a "smart thing," but he has, instead, done both himself and his country a real injury, the effects of which may be widespread and lasting. Honesty is above policy, and a man should be honest whether it seems to profit him or not.

The Snow Blockade in New York.

THE New York Herald gives the following account of the extraordinary snow storm which visited the State of New York, and in fact all the Northern States, on the 18th inst.:

"Trains west of Rochester were delayed and blockaded by a snow storm which raged during the night. No less than fifteen inches of snow fell in Buffalo. The morning passenger trains East, between Buffalo and Rochester, were abandoned, and a large number of freight trains were stalled. The special New York express was made up in Rochester and came through all right. The storm abated this afternoon and the tracks were cleared to an extent that permitted the two Atlantics to come through all right this evening.
The second Atlantic was an hour late.
Information received from Batavia indicates that the weather was very cold and that the snowfall was heavy. There is a foot of snow all the way from Batavia to Buffalo, and the trains are snowed in and unable to move, as the engines are not provided with snow ploughs.

City Mission Work.

It has often been a sad though imperative duty to refer to the want of good behaviour from the youths of our city, predicting for many of them but a sorry future. The entire absence of the love of order, and willingness to appreciate any effort put forth on their behalf was alluded to in Tuesday's daily. It is to be hoped that those appointed to prevent unruly conduct will attend to their duty, and disperse the young offenders, bent upon mischief. Any attempt to improve the condition of society should be readily acknowledged and encouraged. These Sabbath evening services are only the commencement of what is intended to be a wider scheme of mission work amongst us, and as such, calls for the sympathy and timely aid, of all who wish to see such a work in progress, and in a position to effect the greatest good. Here we have a good centre for unsectarian work, put forth for the benefit of both sexes, and it is most earnestly hoped that this special call for combined effort in every department of benevolent enterprise will, be heartily responded to by those who love, what is good, pure and of honest report. A meeting will be held on the premises, Terlizick's building, Monday next Oct. 25th, at 8 o'clock, to inaugurate the work for the winter; the Ministers, and those who have assisted at the meetings are asked to attend, with any who desire to help on the work, and share the burden with those who have already gone forth at the Masters call and are anxious to do effectual work for Him.—

A British Sailor's Heroism.

RESCUING A BOY FROM A SCHOOL OF SHARKS.
—HE FIGHTS THE MONSTERS IN THE WATER ARMED WITH A SHEATH KNIFE.

(From the London Telegraph.)

To those who know the nature of the chase after slavers, still dutifully maintained by British cruisers off the African coast, the story which comes from Her Majesty's ship Wild Swan will certainly appear one of remarkable heroism. In the seas which wash that torrid shore abound almost every kind of shark, together with many a monster without a name—and woe to the unfortunate individual who chances to fall in among them. With a greedy haste that affords little time for escape, he is bitten in pieces, divided amid the predatory herd, and disappears as quickly as though he were the merest lobster. Such an incident as this was the cause of the brave deed which has just been performed.
Lying off the coast of Mozambique, the look-out on the Wild Swan espied a slave dhow, and chase was immediately given.
In vain the piratical craft cracked on canvas, and endeavored to escape; the British man-of-war was too swift and too well handled for such an attempt to succeed, and presently the dhow was safe alongside.
Then came the process of transferring the slaves, which were on board the doomed vessel, to her captor, an operation often of some difficulty in the treacherous African seas; and thus it came about that while the work was going on a little slave boy slipped from the ship's side and fell in the water. It was but a moment, yet already the chance of a morsel had been marked, and one of the sharks which had closely followed the dhow in hope of assisting at some such disaster, instantly darted upon the poor lad, and with one snap of the jaws bit off the right leg at the knee. As the blood tinged the water the attention of other monster of the same swarm was attracted; and one of these, arriving on the scene, severed the other leg of the boy.
Just then an English sailor on the Wild Swan, fully aware of all the danger he encountered, sprang overboard, armed only with a sheath-knife, and so violently attacked the sharks, and so determinedly held his own in supporting the poor victim, that he was enabled to beat off his assailants, get the boy into a boat alongside the ship, and escape himself unhurt. Unhappily the injuries inflicted on the negro child had been so severe that he died the same evening.

European News Notes.

Fresh outbreaks of pleuro pneumonia occur daily in Lancashire.

Hanlan appears to be quite a favorite with the people of England. Great crowds assemble every day to see him row at Putney. He is reported in good health, and everything indicates a stiff contest between him and Trickett.

The Globe says: "We hear from a trustworthy source in St. Petersburg that Russia has ordered the commander of the Pacific squadron to survey the entire coast of Corea as soon as possible."

A despatch to the Times from Vienna says: "The Austrian Consular dragoman who, with his wife, was killed at Prsrend by natives on the 12th inst., killed two of his aggressors and wounded two others during the attack. The Porte immediately telegraphed orders to the Governor to take energetic measures for the arrest of the assassins. The deed appears to have been an act of private vengeance."

A deputation consisting of the promoters of the Bonapartist meeting which adopted the resolution summoning Prince Jerome to renounce his claims to the throne in favor of Prince Victor a few days ago, requested an audience with Prince Jerome. The Prince, however, replied in a letter that he considered it useless to receive them, as he was unaccustomed to submit to interrogations or to exculpate himself from false accusations. He preferred to leave them free to act according to their own wishes, merely expressing pity for the honest men whom they led astray.
Prince Jerome declined to discuss the "puerile illusions" of his opponents, remarking that it sufficed on his own behalf and that of his sons to point out the diversity between their political views and his own.

MELANCHOLY DEATH.—The wife of John Farrell, of Sea Cow Pond, started for Miramichi in a schooner a few weeks ago, took sick on the passage shortly after starting and was very desirous to go ashore at North Cape, but the wind was blowing so fiercely at the time that it was impossible to make a landing, so she was compelled to remain on board until the vessel arrived at Chatham, N. B., where she was put under the care of the Sisters of Charity, who did everything in their power for her but were unable to save her life.—S. Journal.

AN OLD TARS YARN.—An experienced navigator who has gone about, says that the Arctic current flowing through the Straits of Belle Isle and down the east side of Newfoundland, is warmer at the present time than it has been in his experience for many years.
