

MR. AND MRS. T. F. MCGAUGH

Double Ring Ceremony Unites Popular Couple

St. Dunstan's Basilica was the scene of a quiet wedding on April 9th, when Marie Doris, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John E. Coady of Charlottetown, was united in the holy sacrament of matrimony with Thomas Frederick, son of Mrs. Chester McGaugh and the late Chester McGaugh, formerly of Bear River. Reverend Floyd McGaugh, cousin of the groom, performed the double ring ceremony and celebrated the nuptial Mass.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a floor length gown of white brocaded taffeta, styled on princess lines, with sleeves tapering to points over the hands. Her chapel length veil was held in place by a semi-pearl sequin of chiffon with iridescent sequin trim. She carried a cascade of pink delight roses.

Miss Bernadette Rossiter was the bride's only attendant. She wore a waist length gown of aqua lace over taffeta. Her headress was a white chiffon bandeau of petal design. She carried a nosegay of pink feathered carnations. Mr. Alfred Coady, brother of the bride, was groomsmen. Mr. Francis Zakem, classmate of the bride and groom, ushered the guests. Miss Elaine MacDonald was soloist with Mrs. Joseph Dougan at the organ.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Coady chose a royal blue dress of crepe and lace, with pink accessories. Her corsage was of pink feathered carnations.

The groom's mother wore a dusty rose dress of lace and taffeta, topped by a grey squirrel stole, and she wore navy accessories. Her corsage was of pink carnations.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the Queen Hotel, where Mr. Francis Zakem acted as master of ceremonies. Reverend Floyd McGaugh proposed the toast to the bride to which the groom responded.

Remarks were made by Reverend George MacDonald, Reverend Preston Hammill, and Lieutenant Governor F. W. Hyndman. Several telegrams of congratulations were received.

Miss Marion Brennan was in charge of the guest book.

Following the reception the young couple left on a motor trip through parts of New Brunswick and Maine. For travelling the bride wore a light blue tweed suit with accessories in white and black and a corsage of white carnations.

The groom is accounts officer with the Royal Canadian Army Pay Corps at Camp Gagetown, Lt. and Mrs. McGaugh are now residing at the Wilnot Park Apts. in Fredericton, N. B.

Previous to her marriage the bride was guest of honour at a miscellaneous shower at the home of Miss Bernadette Rossiter, who Miss Rossiter and Miss Marion Brennan were co-hostesses. The bride was also entertained at a personal shower at the home of had a most enjoyable two weeks visiting relatives and friends in New Glasgow, Nova Scotia, has returned home to the Queen Hotel.

"I Like Your Little Hat" is an expression we often hear. Well next Tuesday that remark will be heard more than ever. Because on that day Mrs. Walter Bears of the Hi-Style Millinery has most generously offered her beautiful hat creations to be worn by the attractive Beta Sigma Phi at the Talisman Tea.

Hats have always fascinated women — and intrigued men! To recall some of the millinery of past eras one thinks of the medieval ladies in great dunce's cap and veil, the Stuarts in sweeping plumes, the Victorian lady in picture hat and the Edwardian lady in cartwheel.

I more recent years there has been an infinite variety of styles. But at present the cloche emerges as one of the big hat fashions of this spring. It may recall the 1920's but this year's versions will be worn back on the head revealing the hair, and will generally be in a softer mood.

However the hats at the Talisman Tea will not be limited to one style. There will be a delightful variety, all beautifully modelled. The Talisman Tea promises to be one of the most colorful and gayest parties yet!

ELLEN'S DIARY

Katherine, Your Tribute Is A Mother's Day Gem!

Marking the progress of spring's march, Granddaughter carried it to us today in golden treasure — a dandelion. We put it in a clear vase against a pane, the first meadow-flower of the year. In homes when there are children how many bouquets of these and successive blossoming hands will gather to bring in a love offering to the mother. Not to be regarded lightly, we are sure, but to be duly admired and placed in the prettiest bowl or vase and remembered long after the flowers — and years, have faded and the young'uns gone to — And we will remember as well they, the light that once shone in a mother's eyes over the gift of lowly blooms, when tomorrow they wear in our honour it may be, a red carnation; or many of us older-grown, one white in memory of her about whom in years long gone, our whole world orbited — a mother exceedingly dear.

A successful business man who had lost his aged mother, replying to a letter of sympathy said: "We were fortunate indeed in having our parents both live to a good old age, particularly as we looked away back down life's pathway and realized how hard the good mother labored seven days every week, out in the country with a family of small children, seven in number, and practically no help."

"Few women today realize what it means to have raised a family of seven children in the country, in the days when there was no bread or pastry to be purchased, no ready-made clothing for kiddies, practically no household appliances to be found, no modern conveniences in the home. I think, in the days I speak of, Mother must have averaged 18 hours a day without a minute's lost time. Naturally she had a wonderful constitution or she would never have been able to carry along on her Scotch determination alone. We all inherited a great deal from Mother, not the least of which was a wonderful constitution."

"My mother raised a family of fourteen" a recent visitor and mother of a chosen daughter said "In an island farm-home, without benefit of modern conveniences. How did she do it? Honestly, I at the tea hour on Tuesday in honor of Mrs. William Stewart of Halifax, N.S. a beautiful arrangement of mauve, yellow and white 'mums centred the tea table. The hostess was assisted in serving by Mrs. Meynard Schurman, Mrs. David Morrison and Mrs. D. R. Morrison.

don't know! She was a marvellous woman, a great Mother — and still is. Even now she smiled "close to 70, I wouldn't like to follow her at her day's round of work." Of the Mother we best know, one of her brood of eight, the youngest as it happens, wrote the following tribute to her last Mother's Day with much love and twinkle in her pen: "Who tended me when but a babe And time and loving comfort gave And fed me plenty milk — and sops! They always made me mad as hops? My Mother. And later made me go to school And taught to me the Golden Rule While learning to make beds and bake So that a real smart wife I'd make? My Mother. And when in some sequestered nook I'd steal away to read a book, Who'd send me off to Hughie's store To lug home groceries galore? My Mother. And while the other girls had beaux Made me wear all their cast-off clothes And plied me when I had a cold With grease from off a gander's bold? My Mother. And later sent me off to college To gain a bit of needed knowledge and plied H. B. with cups of tea, So that he'd make a mate for me? My Mother. Though the village store has soups and lard I couldn't get a Greeting card. So here's three cheers for you today With lots of love and stuff from K. To Mother! — in the flesh or in memory . . . God bless them! Until Monday — — Diary — Goodnight. . . ."

"I feel her presence in my little room, Like golden sunlight shining through the gloom, I hear her voice that soothed each childish fear, And brought a thousand smiles for every tear I hear her singing softly, sweet and low, The old, old lullabies of long ago; Still rings the silvery echo of each word, And treasured memories in my heart are stirred. Her smile most comforting and kind I see, The smile that has so often soothed me, I see her eyes, so calm, so full of love, As steadfast and as true as starlight from above. And softly as the murmuring of the sea, Across the years my Mother speaks to me "Because my love surrounds you, come what will Be happy, I am with you still." Constance I Heckbert

MOTHER

Across the years I see her smiling face, I see her hands that move with gentle grace, Their tender touch I have so often known Those gentle fingers laid upon my own.
