

U.S. Senate Plans Probe Of Relations With Canada

By GEORGE KITCHEN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON (CP)—The Senate foreign relations committee Friday scheduled a week-long inquiry into U.S. relations with Canada, described by one of its members as occupying a position of "tremendous importance" in the present-day world.

Senator Mike Mansfield, Democrat from Montana, said the committee will devote one or two days to public hearings on Canada and the rest of that week to study of the testimony.

The Canadian phase of the review, scheduled to start Monday, is expected to be reached sometime in April.

His purpose, Mansfield told reporters, will be "to repair some of the fences that appear to be building up between our two countries and to bring about better understanding, better relations and better co-operation."

Canada will occupy a unique position as the only country singled out for separate study.

The balance of the review will deal with broad geographic areas.

WONDER AT IRRITATION

The decision for a separate Canadian study points up a growing congressional uneasiness over Canadian complaints against U.S. policies. The House of Representatives foreign affairs committee this week sent two members to Ottawa to determine the cause of Canadian irritations.

Mansfield said the committee study will ensure that Canada "gets the attention she should have got in the past." Witnesses will be asked to outline problems and suggest remedies.

The committee hopes to hear testimony by Livingston Merchant, U.S. ambassador to Ottawa who said in a speech at Hamilton two weeks ago he had detected a growing criticism of certain U.S. policies. It also would like to hear testimony from Canadian officials but that was a "delicate matter" which may be resolved later.

"Canada, Mansfield said, is of 'great economic importance' to the United States.

"We think that Canada, despite her small population, is a great power. On occasion, the Canadians have acted in the foreign field for Britain and the rest of the Commonwealth and she now occupies a position of tremendous importance in the world.

"The committee intends to give Canada the recognition it is due as an equal state and a close friend and neighbor and as an ever-growing influence in the British Commonwealth of Nations.

The committee plans to look into the problems of exports and imports, tariffs, American investments and Canada's recent protest against the imposition of voluntary restrictions on oil imports.

Citing the need for more information about Canada, Mansfield said "a lot of important government pronouncements are being made in Ottawa and they don't appear in our newspapers." He, for one, wanted to know about them.

Scarcity Of Oyster Seed Is Big Problem, Researcher Says

A major problem confronting oyster representatives at Ellerslie is the scarcity of oyster seed or spat, states Mr. Reed Logie, scientist in charge of the Biological Sub-stations. Mr. Logie said that if enough oyster seed was available to plant all the leased grounds in the Maritimes adequately, production could be increased by at least tenfold.

He added that if a regular source of seed could be found it would also be possible to produce oysters on grounds that are presently not being used, because the oysters won't spawn there due to the cold water.

The science of oyster culture and its many related problems are continually being studied, investigated and solutions sought through experimentation, at the Fisheries Research Board, where Mr. H.R. Found is officer in charge of field administration of the Dept. of Fisheries Shellfish Culture Program for the Maritimes.

Mr. Logie's scientist in charge of the Biological Sub-station and the two units work side by side in probing for solutions to the many and varied problems of oyster culture.

TEST FINDINGS

The findings of Mr. Logie in this field are passed along to Mr. Found, who with his staff, tests them as to their feasibility for use on a commercial basis. If found practical the information is released to the lessees of oyster beds.

EGG CRATES

Mr. Found explained that the seed oyster is caught by means of collectors, made of the old type egg-crate fillers, dipped in concrete and encased in wire meshing. These collectors are suspended from floats which are placed in shallow water when the spat is ready to settle, usually in late July or August, depending on the water temperature.

Mr. Logie and his staff can forecast when the spat is ready to settle, through examination of larva samples and this information is passed on to the lessees who put out their collectors.

Mr. Found pointed out, however, that in recent years commercial oyster fishermen have found these collectors are too costly to construct, especially since they are an annual expense, as they can only be used once, being destroyed when the spat is removed.

OTHER AREAS

Mr. Logie said there were only three places in the Maritimes outside of P. E. I. that produced any significant quantity of oysters in 1957. These were Bras D'or Lakes in Cape Breton, Miscou Harbor and Caracat Bay on New Brunswick's North Shore. This is a direct result of the epidemic oyster disease, which incidentally is non-injurious to humans, and which is presently killing off oyster stocks in Nova Scotia and New Brunswick. To combat this situation of Dept. of Fisheries is now transplanting disease-resistant oysters from P.E.I. waters to the waters of Nova Scotia and New Brunswick.

S. D. U. NOTES

Students Hear Talk On Social Welfare

Five of the nineteen classes of St. Mary's Academy, Summerside which have contributed to the March of Dimes Campaign are represented in the picture above, holding dime laden placards.

FRONT ROW (L to R): Gerald Richard, Grades 3 and 4 boys; Sheila MacLean, grade 3 girls; Edward McKenna, grade 3 boys (full card).

(BACK ROW): Frances LeClair, grades 9 and 10; Patricia Perry grade 7 (full card).

As this week is written we find St. Dunstan's shrouded in swirling clouds of damp, misty vapour. It's a weather that seems by its very nature to stifle or at least subdue campus activities and, on the surface, activity at S.D.U. for the past week has been somewhat slower than that of the two previous weeks.

Co-ED DANCE

The S.D.U. Co-eds held a sponsored dance at the Rollaway on Tuesday evening, January 28th and it seemed to be both a social and financial success. The Downtowners always the popular favorite of the Saints and considered by many to be one of the best orchestras in Eastern Canada, supplied the music.

It seemed that the Co-ed's dance had been dubbed with a nick-name long before its arrival and many of the Co-eds weren't exactly pleased with it. The general consensus of opinion had it that Tuesday's dance was held with a view to facilitating attendance at one of the year's biggest social events taking place this Monday evening. We doubt very much if there was any ulterior motive in placing the sponsored dance so close to this second event, but the coincidence certainly came as a welcome opportunity to the many, both male and female, who had not finalized their plans for Monday.

STAFF MEETING

An important meeting of the Red and White staff should be mentioned here although it was held some two weeks ago. The meeting was important for two reasons. The first being that the deadline for the acceptance of material for the winter issue of the magazine was set and the second that a number of suggestions were offered for fund raising projects.

When the editor, Richard St. John, set the deadline for incoming material at February 10, he particularly stressed the need for articles written in a creative vein preferably short stories. This particular type of article in previous issues had been lacking mainly because of the trend towards the writing of essays. There are hopes that for the winter and final issue the labours of the English 5 (creative writing) class will bare fruit and supply a number of first grade short stories.

FINAL ISSUE

The fund raising projects which were discussed arose from the financial condition of the magazine, as might be expected. Following the trend set last year, the Red and White's final issue will bear a close resemblance to a College year book and of course this final issue is quite expensive to publish. A number of suggestions were put forward for the raising of money to make the year's final publication a worthy one. They ranged from charging for the spring issue to sponsoring dances, skates and movies. To date the only project that can be held with any certainty is the showing of films and even with this there are difficulties not yet ironed out.

SOCIAL WELFARE TALK

A group of interested students listened to Sister Mary Henry, C.S.M. of the Catholic Social Welfare Bureau give a very stimulating and enlightening talk on Social Welfare work on Wednesday afternoon Jan. 29. Although her talk was directed primarily at the Co-eds she succeeded in arousing a great deal of interest in Social Work among the male students that were present.

Sister Mary Henry's talk touched all phases of Social Work practically all of which are encountered and handled through the local Welfare Bureau. The numerous personal incidents which she related illustrated vividly the great personal satisfaction and sense of accomplishment Social Workers receive in carrying out their duties. In defining social workers she said they were people who helped others to help themselves, a picture somewhat different to that held by the majority of people who think of Social Workers as those who dole out food and clothing with no thought to alleviate the source of need, whether it be physical or mental, by assisting the person to remove the source himself.

In concluding, Sister Mary Henry gave a brief outline of the course of studies followed in Colleges which have schools of Social Welfare, emphasizing particularly the curriculum at St. Patrick's College where she obtained her degree in Social Welfare. Her talk turned many heads towards Social Work as a career.

BASKETBALL

In basketball St. Dunstan's had a busy and highly successful week. First team started the inter-collegiate schedule of Saturday night against the Mount Allison Hawks. And through the week Second Team encountered R.C.A.F. Summerside, Y.M.C.A. and the Summerside Spudniks. Three of the four games ended in victory for the Saints.

Saturday's game at the College gym saw the Red and White squad start the N.B.-P.E.I. Inter-collegiate Basketball League off by posting a one sided 65-49 victory over the visiting Mount A quintet. A number of men stood out for the Saints and at the top of the honour list was Team Captain Lorne MacGuigan who dunked twenty-two points to take a high score honours for the night. Peter McGonnell and Gerry Tingley each tallied twelve and Morrison, who displayed some pretty agile ball handling throughout the game, accounted for nine. The Saints led from the early part of the game holding a ten point edge at the half and finishing off with a sixteen point margin over the losers, when the final whistle blew.

SECOND TEAM

Second Team's two victories were on Wednesday, Jan. 22 when they defeated Y.M.C.A. 68-31 and on Sunday afternoon of Jan. 26 when they downed R.C.A.F. Summerside 53-32. Ken MacKinnon had high score in both encounters with a total of 33 points for the two games. The Summerside Spudniks handed Second Team their only defeat on Wednesday, Jan. 29. The game which was only played for twenty-two minutes of regulation time, finished 34-31 in favour of the Summersiders.
