Business Spotlight

(By Forbes Rhude, Canadian Press Business Editor)

President Truman has asked Congress for an additional $10,000,000,000 to raise United States defence expenditures to $27,000,000,000.

Prime Minister St. Laurent, without naming an amount, says Canadian defence spending, originally estimated at $425,000,000 this year, will be increased to $500,000,000.

If it were increased to the same relative amount as that of the United States it would be somewhere about $1,350,000,000, though nothing like this figure is expected yet.

One can't just figure out, just what these vast sums will mean in increased demand on North American resources, but they inevitably speed the whole economy and make new demands on the productive powers of everyone.

The figures won't add their full amount to total demand, for to some extent they will displace other demand, but if there was any slack in our business and industry, they should soon take it up.

And, as far as one can see, they are just a start. There is almost a sense of unreality about the world on one hand prepares for a cataclysm and on the other tries to attend to its affairs as though the threat to cataclysm were not there.

For if we are to go through the things which we seem to be facing these may be the closing days of the world as we have known it.

Higher Costs

Meantime, to get back to things as they are, the magazine "Steelways of New York" gives an example of how much more it costs to replace industrial machinery than it did 10 years ago. Says Steelways:

Before the war, a grinder to resurface the rolls that make sheet steel cost $24,500. Such machines wear out and must be replaced, and today the same role grinder costs $138,000. Thus $113,500 must be raised and added to the $24,500 originally set aside.

If investors refuse to furnish the necessary capital, then the money must be taken out of profits. But profits are taxable. Last year the United States Government's "take" averaged 38 per cent. So besides the extra $113,500, 38 per cent in taxes must be raised to pay for the grinder.

Notes Upward Traffic Trend in Maritimes

MONCTON, N. B., July 22.—The upward trend in the movement of forest products, including lumber, pulpwood and wood pulp, which started about two months ago, is continuing, stated E. A. Ryder, traffic manager, Atlantic Region, Canadian National Railways, when interviewed here on traffic trends in the Maritimes. He stated further that expectations are that this upward trend in forest and other related products would continue. He said that there is a very heavy demand for lumber of all kinds for use in the building and other trades, and, from indications, it is expected that this demand will continue for some time. In the matter of other traffic, Mr. Ryder said that there has been a very heavy movement of vegetable products, particularly potatoes and turnips, which amounts to an increase of approximately 35 per cent over last year.

In speaking of passenger travel, Mr. Ryder said that there is a heavy movement both east and westbound at the present time and it is expected that this will continue for the next two months.

Religion and Life

By Very Rev. George C. Pidgeon, D.D., LL.D.
First Moderator of the United Church of Canada (Copyright)

What do you think of the hypothesis in religion? It is a safe guess that you wouldn't trust him in anything as far as you could see him.

One of my teachers told us of a perfectionist who claimed he hadn't committed a sin for fourteen years. The professor added that he didn't like to tell the man that he couldn't believe him, but made some inquiries about his sinlessness. They said that he was the most dangerous man in the whole country to trade horses with. That sort of creature brings contempt not only on himself but on the body with which he associates. Yet we must never forget that "hypocrisy is the tribute that vice pays to virtue" and that the persistence of a pretense assures us of the reality of the genuine.

Men like the one just described try to fool others; much more dangerous is the man who fools himself. A noted preacher once said that he had never known a man who had not deceived himself and any who believed them.

The word "hypocrite" as Jesus used it, meant "actor." As applied to the religious leaders of His time, it meant one who observed the forms of godliness but denied its power. They were men who, in their prayers and professions, said what they thought ought to be said instead of voicing real devotion. They thought that they were in the right, but were deceiving themselves and any who believed them. Their modern counterparts are as dangerous as they.

A story in the book of Acts illustrates the dire consequences of pretended faith. (Acts 19: 13-16).

Paul's ministry in Ephesus was carried on with a spiritual energy that we call miraculous, and his prising effects answered his faith. Some wandering exorcists tried to imitate him, particularly the sons of a certain priest whom Luke names. They found a man possessed by an evil spirit and tried to expel the demon by saying: "We adjure you by Jesus whom Paul preacheth." And the demonized man turned on them with exclamation: "Jesus I know, and Paul I know, but who are you?" He overpowered them and drove them out naked and wounded. People of that type in our time may not have suffered the wounds but have had the same humiliation.

On that story Dr. Charles Gilkey once commented: "There is nothing but failure for those who repeat a borrowed formula instead of reporting a personal experience. Religion is communi-

IN MEMORIAM

MR. MAURICE McCLOSKEY

The death occurred at the Charlottetown Hospital on April 13th, 1950 of Maurice McCloskey in his sixtieth year.

Mr. McCloskey, the son of the late Patrick McCloskey and Margaret Murphy was born in Emyvale and attended school there. After finishing school he studied telegraphy and later entered the service of the Canadian National Railway where he was employed for many years. He was characterized by his keen mind and his friendly nature. He was a member of the Emyvale branch of the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners of America. He was transferred as porter to Tignish. After a short time he became station agent at Vernon River where he remained a number of years. He was later transferred to Emyvale and later to Summerside as operator. After a short time as operator in Summerside he left and began farming. But this, too, gave way to his desire for seeking a better life. He and his wife went to Trail, British Columbia and remained there for three years. On his return to Prince Edward Island he resumed farming, this time in Tyrone where he spent the last years of his life.

Mr. McCloskey had been in poor health for some time. His sudden death came as a painful shock to his family and to his many friends—to his family because they will miss the cheerful presence of a loving husband and father, and to his friends because they will miss the joyous hours spent with one who gave them many amusing and enjoyable hours. To say that he was a good neighbor leaves many things to be said, for he was one who never allowed his neighbour to face his troubles alone. He was always ready to help and to do anything in his power. His life was sanctified by his great love for God and His Church. He died as he had lived, strengthened by the last rites of the church.

He wishes to hold the memory of his full and happy life with his wife, the former Margaret Griffin, R.N.Y. of Emyvale, one son, Raymond, a graduate of St. Dunstan's University; four daughters, Alice, also a graduate of St. Dunstan's University, Tenn, principal of Emerson School, Ross and Reta at home. He is survived by four brothers, James, of Emyvale and four sisters, Mrs. Amos Monaghan, New Wiltshire, Miss Martina McCloskey of Boston, Mass., Mrs. Owen McQuillan, Elmwood, and Mrs. Stephen Duffy, Charlottetown. Three brothers preceded him in death. Requiem High Mass was celebrated by his pastor, Rev. George McCormac, who also officiated at the grave.

The pallbearers were, Vincent McCloskey, Peter Clarkin, Michael Clarkin, Daniel McGinn, Louis Griffin and Matthias Murray. May his soul rest in peace.

CARD OF THANKS

Mrs. Maurice McCloskey and family wish to thank sincerely and gratefully, the kind neighbors and friends who helped in any way in their sad bereavement, at all times, Mass Cards, Messages of Sympathy and Enrollments.

CARPETS and CARPETING TAKES BIG JUMP IN PRICE

The extent of the increase is not yet known but the minimum is 10%, and probably will be 15%. The reason for the increase is given as (1) the extremely high and continuously rising prices of wool, cotton and jute; (2) the very unsettled conditions in our world today.

The 50 carpets include all sizes, patterns, colors and qualities. The 5 rolls consist of 27 inch and 9 foot width, in wine, green, grey and beige. In all a beautiful assortment.
