

PROVINCIAL LEGISLATURE.

HOUSE OF ASSEMBLY.

SESSIONAL NOTES AND COMMENTS.

DEBATE ON THE ADDRESS.

The Leader of the Opposition having returned to his place, the debate on the Address began last evening.

By the way, the thanks the Government have received for the courtesy they exhibited in waiting for the hon. gentleman is shown by the rough, rude, taunting article in yesterday's Patriot. We hope the Government will not be provoked, by the boorishness of the organ, to treat the Opposition uncivilly; but it is a question whether, in keeping twenty-eight representatives of the people waiting upon the Leader of the Opposition, they have not rather over-strained the etiquette of the Legislature.

MAIDEN SPEECHES.

The opening night heard, with gratification and applause, the maiden speeches of Dr. Gillis, Mr. J. McLean and Mr. Blake. All three were gentlemanly in tone and well delivered; and all three dealt with the living issues of the Province. In calling attention particularly to the encouragement the Government has given to agriculture and the promotion of a spirit of emulation among our farmers, our promising young legislators showed good discernment; for no better service can be rendered by a local administration. Their remarks upon the want of better communication with the Mainland, and better means for transporting our surplus produce, were practical, business-like and to the point.

OFFICIAL SUMMARY.

TUESDAY, March 27.

The Speaker took the Chair at 4.40 p. m. The Speaker read a letter from the secretary of the Young Men's Christian Association, offering the privileges of their Reading Room to members during the Session.

DR. GILLIS MOVES THE ADDRESS.

Mr. GILLIS moved that the House do now go into the Order of the Day, and said that the people of this Province, should join most heartily in thanking Almighty God, for his mercies during the past year. The exertions of our people engaged in agriculture, lumbering and fishing have been successful; while people in many sections of the world, were suffering from floods and conflagration, we have been free. We had been almost entirely exempt from disease. He believed that had done good. At the time of the Exhibition, the people of Prince County were gathering the crops, yet there was a large attendance of people who manifested much interest in it. Much can yet be done, however, to render these Exhibitions more successful. Much prejudice exists in some parts of the country against them—the people considering that they contend unequally against those living in and around the towns. Until this prejudice is removed, the Exhibitions will not be what they ought. He would suggest the appointment of more Commissioners and Judges, which would give confidence to farmers and exhibitors, and materially change the working. Agriculture must continue to be the leading industry of our people. There is no reason why this Province, with all her fertilizing resources, should not succeed. What are required are capital, mechanical power and brains to exercise it. If young men would adopt farming, they would be prosperous in a few years. Nova Scotia is not so favored as we—she is a great mineral country, having every facility for manufactures. At present she fairly supplies herself with products of soil, but if her manufactures increase at a greater rate, the result will be a market for our surplus produce. If we can export to United States, why not to Nova Scotia, thus saving the difference of freight.

NATURE ALWAYS PROVIDES.

for the population of a country; she shows us what we should do; we must cultivate the soil. He was much pleased that the Government had taken such an interest in agriculture, for in doing so they assisted every other branch of industry. In various ways agriculture can be encouraged, namely, (1) by importing improved breeds of stock and distributing them through the country—a wise proceeding, as evinced by the improvement visible during the last twenty years; (2) by holding Exhibitions which have steadily been improving; (3) by establishing Farmers' Clubs for the diffusion of information and the importation of stock and seed. At the Dominion Exhibition to be held in St. John we shall have an opportunity of showing the people of the Lower Provinces our stock, and that we can produce as good an article as those of the Upper Provinces. The question of Steam Communication has been discussed in almost every settlement in the country. It is generally agreed that the terms of Confederation have not been carried out, but the manner in which they should be fulfilled has not been settled. Each member should give his opinion, as those on the spot should know more than others a thousand miles away. In Prince County, the communication is inadequate, particularly during export season of September, October, November, if a steamer could be procured to keep navigation open later each season, other vessels could take advantage of her work in getting through the ice.

WHAT SUMMERSIDE REQUIRES.

is a steamer to run to Point du Chene, perhaps, twice a day, but speed is of greater importance than size. As to Winter Communication, it is doubtful whether any steamer can run the whole winter. We should favor the Cape route, which has now been used so many years. The present method of crossing is very unfair—no convenience are provided. Mails, baggage, passengers, are all in one boat. There should be more boats, and of better class—boats for passengers and boats for freight or baggage, and there should be proper houses on each side. As to the question of wharves and piers, it is very evident that they should form part of the Public Works of the Dominion, and should be taken charge of by them. The Government promise all that reasonable people can require. It would be unjust to lay on taxation while the people are paying for their land. The Government are prepared to carry on the public service and keep within the limits without direct taxation. He was opposed at last election, because he was not in favor of imposing taxation, by many whose support he hopes to receive next time. Knowing our country and our resources, all that remains for us is to do our duty, and we shall be happy and prosperous. (Applause.)

MR. McLEAN SECONDS THE ADDRESS.

Mr. JOHN McLEAN, in seconding the motion, said that he had reason to be thankful for the fair harvest and good prices for all kinds of farm produce and stock; it had been a successful year for farmers and merchants, who had met with no losses. Price for oats had been low, and a large quantity of produce had to be held over which, it was feared, would prove a loss. This will not be so, as oats, potatoes, and pork are now selling at high figures. There is

MORE PRODUCE.

on hand awaiting shipment than for years, when navigation opens we shall have a large influx of money, and the prospects are that this year will be reasonably successful. The Government can make no mistake when they undertake the

IMPORTATION OF STOCK.

if judiciously selected, he trusted that this year's estimates would contain provision for a good importation. In the eastern part of King's County, the progress in stock raising had not been such as was desirable. This was attributable to the great distance from the Stock Farm. One of our staple articles is stock, particularly which are as merchantable as oats. They are easy to raise, and any horse of 1,200 lbs. meets a ready market. He wished the Government would send one or two heavy horses to King's County, whose services should be placed at such a rate that the poorer class may receive their benefit. It is this class who require encouragement. The well-to-do are wide awake, and do not require stirring up. The great difficulty in regard to Exhibitions is to get the farmers to send their stock and goods there. This is owing to lack of enthusiasm. The best plan to adopt at the Dominion Exhibition would be to have men of good judgment select the stock. Each Exhibition has been more successful, as witness that of Halifax, where the Island took over $1000 prizes. In the matter of Steam Communication, he trusted that the Government had impressed upon the Dominion that the people would be satisfied with nothing less than a COMPLETE FULFILLMENT.

HEAVY HORSES.

of the Terms of Union. We should have better transport for freight during the latter part of the season. When we have a local demand in the other Provinces, two or three weeks in the fall is worth more than as many months in summer. There are $40,000 worth of freight now waiting at Pictou for the Island. There should be two boats between Georgetown and Pictou in the fall. In the matter of the claims for wharves and piers, we had the assurance that the claim will be satisfactorily adjusted, and he had every confidence that this would be done.

The Emigrant Drain.

The London Times, quoting from German authorities, says that the number of emigrants that have left Germany during the last 60 years is over 3,500,000, of whom the greater part have taken their departure within the last 30 years, the United States having absorbed in 1881 no less than 248,323. Dr. Friederich Kappe estimates the amount taken away by each emigrant at not less than 450 marks, or £22 10s. so that the capital transferred to the United States during last year (1882) amounted directly to £5,587,267. And this, it should be remembered, is not returnable to Germany in the ordinary ways of trade and commerce, as, in point of fact, the German emigrants to the United States become Americans, and consequently competitors with Germany in agricultural and industrial pursuits. Dr. Engel considers that the cost of bringing up a young person of the lower or middle classes to the fifteenth year is about £200, and he estimates the loss to Germany during the emigration of the last sixty years, in cash and valuables taken by each emigrant at over nine millions of marks—nearly twice the amount of the war indemnity paid by France in 1871.

A Minister Overhauled.

Rev. W. P. Walker, of Binbrook, Ont., a Presbyterian minister, wrote home to the Glasgow Herald some remarkable statements as to the terrible severity of an Ontario winter. The Presbytery of Hamilton has resolved:—"That the Presbytery deem it their duty in the interests of truth, as well as out of a proper regard for the country in which God has cast our lot, promptly and emphatically to declare that many statements in that letter, while they convey a small element of truth, are so exaggerated and extreme that they cannot fail to convey a most erroneous, misleading, and false impression regarding our country generally, etc." Rev. Mr. Walker will likely appear before the Presbytery in May and explain why he has such a bad opinion of Canada.

A Put Up Job.

DETROIT, March 22.—Big Rapids is much excited over the following story:—Mrs. Lease asked Mr. Aitken of that town to call on her, stating that she wished to speak to him on business. Aitken had some acquaintance with the woman, and told her he would call. Upon his arrival at Mrs. Lease's room he noticed Mrs. Lease sitting at one end of the table. Upon being received into the room he was given a seat at the other end of the table. She then stirred the fire, and instead of returning to her chair, deliberately seated herself on Mr. Aitken's lap. Almost immediately the woman's husband entered from an adjoining room with a revolver pointed at Mr. Aitken, and demanded an adjustment of the matter, stating that nothing short of $1,000 would repair the damage. Mr. Aitken made out a note for $500 and was permitted to depart with the understanding that if the note were not paid at sight he would be at once riddled with bullets. Mr. Aitken went to the bank and gave instructions not to pay the note. He then swore out a warrant for Lease and his wife on a charge of blackmail.

Mr. Earle's Concert.

We regret that our limited space prevents us doing full justice to the excellent musical bill of fare set before the select audience assembled in the Y. M. C. A. Hall last evening. The Glee Club, of which Mr. Earle is director, gave four fine choruses, in their usual spirited style, and showed evidence of careful practice. It is unnecessary to enlarge upon the greater strides this Club has shown in the proper rendition of the best known works of the great masters; and we would urge upon the ladies and gentlemen to follow up the good work. With continued practice, and the use of a proper instrument suitable for accompanying, the Club will, before long, take rank with similar organizations anywhere. A concert hall should possess a first-class piano and organ, for the use of those who are compelled to make use of it, and it behooves the managers of the Y. M. C. A. Concert Hall to see to this matter at once. It is simply a nuisance to drag large unwieldy instruments from place to place every time a concert takes place; and at times a suitable one for the purpose is very difficult to obtain. We would like to have the opinions of Mr. Fletcher, Mr. Earle, and other of our musical people, in regard to this matter. The Misses Hull executed a piano duet in such a manner as at once showed their right to be placed among our very best amateur pianists. Miss Katie Hensley sang a pleasing song, "The Children's Home," very sweetly and correctly. The duet, "Singing Season," by Miss Knight and Mr. Earle, was in the opinion of most of the audience, the gem of the evening. The lady's appearance was greeted by a perfect ovation, and as her exquisite soprano warbled the beautiful bird-like tones, the delight of the audience knew no bounds, and culminated in a stunning encore, which could not be denied. Miss Knight also gave a vocal solo, "Above in her Chamber Window," by the celebrated Julius Eichberg. Her rendering of this was almost above criticism. She was accompanied by the piano, and a violin obligato written by the composer, was played by an amateur. All blended harmoniously, and henceforth there need be no question as to what position Miss Knight holds among the leading vocalists. "The Skipper" by Mr. George Ings, was capitally sung. This gentleman has a well cultivated clear baritone, and will prove a great acquisition to future concerts. Miss Ings in the accompaniment displayed a most pleasing acquaintance with that art so difficult of acquirement. The "Convent Cell," a pathetic solo from the Rose of Castile, by Baffe, was one of the best received pieces on the programme. Miss Gertrude DesBrisay was in fine voice, and the beautiful melody lost none of its richness in her rendering of it, which evinced careful study, and a fine conception of the effect desired, which was enhanced by the excellent accompaniment of Mr. Earle on the piano, and of an amateur on the violin. Caldico's melodious music in the Nursery Rhyme Quartette by the Misses Knight, Mr. Knight, and Mr. Bell, was sung with great care and effect, and the only regret was that the composer should have made such a peculiar combination of the sublime and ridiculous in immortalizing the exploits of "Jack and Gill" in such enchanting tones. Mr. Reed's ever popular buffo song, "The British Lion," received vociferous applause, and had to be repeated. The overture for piano and violin, by Mr. Earle and an amateur, was given in good style, and was heartily applauded, notwithstanding the difficulty the latter gentleman had to contend with, caused by the effect produced on the strings by the extreme heat of the hall, which was a source of annoyance during the entire evening. The performer was obliged to execute on three strings what should have been done on four. Only the initiated can fully understand the embarrassment of a performer who is compelled to execute very high passages on a string not designed for that purpose. The duet, "Country Courtship" was so spiritedly sung by Miss Crabbe and Mr. Maynard, as to necessitate an encore. Dr. Creamer's song, "The day when you'll forget me" was much appreciated. The Dr. always sings with great taste, and never did his fine tenor sound to better advantage than it did last evening. One of the best numbers was the Piano duet from Tanhauser, by Messrs. Watson and Earle. Rarely has so much skill been displayed here on the piano and could the great Wagner have listened to the masterly rendition of his magnificent march with its ponderous bursts of harmony, no one would have been more delighted than he. Messrs. Earl and Reid gave the Musical Trial with splendid effect, Earle bringing down the house, by taking in fine style one of Reid's "Pedal" notes. There was no resisting this, and it had to be repeated. Miss Crabbe, by request, gave the song "Would I were with Thee," with much taste and feeling, and her sweet soprano never sounded better. She was accompanied by the piano and violin, which added to the attractiveness of the piece. It was a matter of regret that Miss Mamie McLeod, who is suffering from a severe cold, was not present among the lady amateurs. Taken altogether, the concert was a great success, and many hearty encores would have been responded to, had not the length of the programme rendered that impossible. We may conclude by urging that more attention should be paid, in future to the proper heating of the hall.

John Bright, in delivering his address as Rector of Glasgow University, said that American independence, the French revolution and the English reform bill had transferred the power from monarchs and statesmen to the people. The address, as far as it related to political questions, dwelt upon the advisability of a peaceable policy, even with a view to self interest. The cost of the civil war in America, he declared, would more than have sufficed to free every slave without bloodshed. With regard to Ireland, he said, if the treaty of Limerick had been fulfilled and freedom of religion granted, the sad history of that country might never have been recorded. India, he said, was the great problem of the future.
