Large Contingent At Camp Sussex

CAMP SUSSEX, N.B., July 24 — A large contingent of Maritime Armored Corps troops from Nova Scotia and Prince Edward Island arrived here yesterday for one week of basic and advanced training on massive Sherman tanks. Led by their commanding officers the troops came from the Halifax Rifles Regiment (23rd Armored) and Prince Edward Island Reconnaissance Regiment.

This will be the first year since the end of the war that Reserve Force armored formations have carried out their annual training at Camp Sussex. In previous years R.C.A.C. units in the east have been going to Camp Borden, Ont., for summer concentrated training.

The Halifax troops travelled to Camp Sussex by chartered buses. Troops of the P.E.I. Regiment from Charlottetown and vicinity were flown by Maritime Central Airways to Moncton and transported by bus on to Sussex.

Lt.-Col. A.L. Rogers, officer commanding the unit, said his men were ready for some serious training this summer. He said Brig. W.W. Reid, D.S.O., Charlottetown, would be visiting the units during their training period at Sussex.

The camp is under command and training direction of Lt.-Col. R.R. Taylor, D.S.O., Halifax, one of the army's outstanding tank experts. Col. Taylor served with the Armored Corps throughout the Second World War and has had extensive experience as an R.C.A.C. instructor.

Eight Courses

At Sussex the program will embody eight separate courses ranging from training for bandsmen of the Halifax Rifles to officers' tactical exercises. On Saturday concluding the camp period the troopers will go to Camp Tracadie in northern New Brunswick for a final day of firing and driving on sprawling bushland tank ranges.

Both Major-General E.C Plow, chief of Eastern Army Command, and Brig. G.E.R. Smith, New Brunswick area commander, are expected to visit Sussex Tuesday to observe the training. In addition to armored training a small detachment of Reserve Force Provost Corps personnel from all provinces of Eastern Command will be undergoing courses during the coming week at Camp Sussex.

Instructors and administrative personnel for all courses have been drawn from the ranks of both Active and Reserve Forces. A large number of reservists have been called up for full-time employment to staff the camp.

Troops are expected to return to their homes next Sunday.

Canada May Send Montrealer To U.S.

OTTAWA, July 24 — (CP) — It's still a deep, dark secret, but the arms "super-salesman" Canada is expected to send to Washington may be a 50-year-old Montreal trader who sold the Americans about $1,000,000,000 worth of arms in the last war.

He is Roy G. Peers, who started his business career as a clerk in a Toronto retail store, got enthused about selling and ended up as head of his own import-export business in Montreal.

The Defence Production Department still has made no final choice for the Washington appointment, but officials said Mr. Peers is high on the list of those being considered.

Former Islander Passes In B. C.

..."The sad news came to Mrs. Malcolm D. Martin of Valleyfield West and Mrs. Marjorie MacPherson of Valleyfield East of the passing of their brother, Kenneth Martin, of Rossland, B.C.

Many of the older residents of Valleyfield and surrounding districts would remember the late Mr. Martin before he left his old home in Glen Martin.

The following obituary notice appeared in the Rossland "Miner."

"Citizens of Rossland were shocked to receive word of the death in Nanaimo on Sunday, July 1st, of Fire Chief Kenny Martin. The Martin's were visiting the coast on holidays at the time of Mr. Martin's death.

"Fire Chief Martin put in his first shift with the Rossland Fire Department over forty-three years ago, Jan. 1st, 1908. He worked as an extra fireman under Fire Chief Joe Martin, and relieved at various times until July, 1916, when he went on permanent staff. On April 1st, 1918, he was appointed Fire Chief.

During these years Chief Martin saw his department grow and change almost beyond belief. From the horse drawn fire chariots of his earliest days, he graduated to fire equipment of the most modern kind. Over the years he maintained efficiency, and the present reputation of the department is second to none in the province.

On Sept. 7th, 199, Fire Chief Martin was awarded the Eagles 'Good Citizenship' award, in token of his many years of service and a good citizen of Rossland. Active in community affairs, Fire Chief Martin was a member of the I.O.O.F. since 1914, and was one of the original directors of the Rossland-Trail Sick Benefit Association. He was also a long time active director of the Rossland Swimming Pool Society.

"He was married in Rossland in 1910 to Miss Alice Malcolm. He is survived by his wife and four children, Alison of Vancouver, Elmarie of Burnaby, Ken and Carol at home.

"Funeral services were held on Friday, July 6th, at 2 p.m. at St. George's Anglican Church."

for hundreds of millions of dollars worth of F86E Sabre and CF100 Canuck jet fighters, the former with Canadair, the latter with A. V. Roe of Canada at Malton, Ont., near Toronto.

Cabinet ministers have used the figure of $400,000,000 in discussing the magnitude of aircraft orders to be placed in Canada this fiscal year.

By late this year production of Canucks and Sabres is supposed to be large enough to permit formation of one new R.C.A.F. fighter squadron monthly. One R.C.A.F. squadron already is transferring to Sabre at Montreal.

To train the men to fly those planes, the R.C.A.F. needs more trainer planes and is believed to be seeking two kinds—the propeller-driven Harvard and an American-designed two-seater jet, both to be produced in Canada.

Now, with Canada contending Washington doesn't place enough defence orders here, the U. S. is negotiating for production, by Canadair, of a U.S.-designed twin-engine trainer-bomber aircraft, the T36, to be used in training U.S.A.F. pilots.

A $50,000,000 order would raise current U. S. defence orders here by at least 50 per cent, possibly more.

These signs indicate Canadair—once government-owned, now owned by a U.S.-controlled firm—will become one of the world's big aircraft producers with its staff boosted from some 6,000 to 10,000. At its wartime peak, its staff numbered 21,000.

Well Known Driver Injured Yesterday

His many friends will regret to learn of the accident which occurred to Mr. Alfred Lowrey, Montague, while driving Captain Missouri at the St. Peters Race Track yesterday afternoon. Mr. Lowrey trailing in second place behind Lindy H. cut in for position, both horse and driver were thrown to the track.

The following horse, Billy Budlong, driven by Mr. R. MacDonald, went over. Mr. Lowery as he was lying on the track. Besides suffering a fractured ankle, Mr. Lowery also suffered head injuries, and was immediately removed to the King's County Hospital.

A familiar figure on race tracks all over the Island, Mr. Lowery has been driving race horses for many years, and is well known as a partner of Annear and Lowery Stables in Montague. His friends wish him a speedy and complete recovery.

Greece Prepares For Rationing

ATHENS, July 25-(Reuters)- Six years after the end of the Second World War, Greece is preparing for large-scale food and clothing rationing in September.

The Greek government and British and American advisers have concluded that only through rationing can the collapse of the Greek currency, already threatened by inflation, be prevented.

In addition, price control through rationing will make it possible for civil servants, employees and workers to make ends meet.

About 20 basic food and clothing items will be distributed to the Greeks on coupons.

to the previously-stalled talks.

No one in official circles would say Wednesday precisely what Gen. Nam Il, senior Red delegate, proposed. It seemed likely that it represented some sort of retreat from the previous Communist stand that the withdrawal issue must be discussed at the Kaesong armistice talks.

Some observers presumed that instead of demanding immediate withdrawal of all foreign troops, the Communists may have proposed that opposing forces by withdrawn within a specific time period, say six months.

Washington reports indicated that under the new Red offer the Allies would pledge to discuss arrangements under which the whole foreign troops problem would be taken up later.

The two sides have reached agreement on the other points to be placed on the cease-fire agenda. These are believed to include exchange of prisoners, creation of a buffer zone, international supervision of opposing lines by neutral groups to make sure that armistice terms are being observed, and the significance of the 38th parallel in the future.

The Communist proposal took 26 minutes to read.

The U. N. communique said it was "sufficiently interesting" to cause the United Nations command delegation to suggest an overnight recess to study the matter in detail.

Nuckols had indicated the Communist offer would be examined in Tokyo, Washington and elsewhere. He explained that today's meeting was set for the unusually late hour of 2 p. m. so the new material could be studied "here and elsewhere."

Wednesday's session came after a three-way recess requested by the Communist delegation. The Reds asked time out to reconsider the Allied stand that the withdrawal issue was a political matter and would not be considered prior to an armistice.
