ONE drunk to appear before His Honor this morning. An important witness in the case of Bernard Toole for Sunday selling was arrested last evening, but released on bail to appear at court to-day.

ANY who would like to receive the MORNING GUARDIAN for short terms can have it left at their homes promptly every morning and the boy will collect 10 cents at the end of each week. Send your name to the office.

H. MORPITH MCLEOD, ESQ., Dunstaffnage, was a passenger by the Stanley on Thursday. He goes on a six weeks visit to Boston, where he has a brother and many acquaintances. We wish him a pleasant trip.

WOMAN'S RIGHTS:—The ladies were not allowed to vote at the local election, but they have a perfect right during house-cleaning to send their lace curtains to the Steam Laundry. If your curtains are old you can have them made a (n)ice cream shade for the summer. Entire satisfaction is guaranteed and the most delicate fabric will be handled without injury. Your husband's summer suit is probably soiled, send it to us and we will clean and press it and make it look like new.—1i

The large attendance of citizens at the Students Tea and Concert in the basement of Zion Church last evening was most gratifying, and shows that the Prince of Wales College is coming to be more and more recognized as an institution of great importance to the city as well as to the province at large. The proceedings opened with an excellent tea served from 6 till 8 o'clock, which was well patronized, and from its social character was much enjoyed.

The literary part of the programme then began with a chorus "Rule Britannia" by the students. Dr. Anderson who presided, then gave a short address. He said that at first, though he was not much in sympathy with the organization of the College Y. M. C. A., he offered no opposition, but now he was pleased to be able to say that it had won his entire approval and he would suggest that a further step be taken, and that a College Club be formed as in the larger colleges, and thus the interest of students be maintained after they had left the institution. Master James Hyndman's violin solo was exceedingly well rendered and was heartily applauded by the audience. The Scotch reading by Mr. McPherson was real good and the sweet Scottish dialect was finely brought out by the reader.

Mr. Fitzgerald's address was short but right to the point. He has still a very warm feeling for the College and his early teacher and friend, Dr. Anderson. He was greatly pleased with this new departure taken by the students, and he could assure them that if a club should be formed as suggested by the chairman, it would have his hearty support.

The solos by Rev. F. E. J. Lloyd were highly appreciated. Mr. Bruce Shaw also sang well. T. A. McLean recited "Lay to the Line Boys" in his usual good style.

The several choruses rendered by the students showed that there were quite a number of good voices among the students and that Mr. Lloyd is a most competent and successful teacher of vocal culture. Altogether the concert was a complete success.

Reformatory for Girls.

The grand jury now in existence in alifax has made a presentment that whereas it had come to the notice of the jury that young girls of tender years had been going round the city for immoral purposes, the city police be instructed to report any such cases brought to their notice to the stipendiary magistrate, who would communicate with the parents of the children. The jury further recommended that as no institution for the reformation of young girls other than Roman Catholic existed, it is desirable that such an institution be provided. Chief Justice Macdonald said he concurred in the presentment.

Congratulation.

SIR.—Without saying one unkind word against the Examiner, for I am quite sure it cannot but feel the indignation of all respectable Conservatives on the position it has taken for months past on the temperance question, I must congratulate you and also the band of Conservatives who placed principle before party, on the triumphant return of Dr. Jenkins and the defeat of Mr. Henry Douse. From an examination of your figures I am pleased to find that Civic Reform has been carried in every Ward in the city. Ward One gives a majority of 12, Ward Two and Three a majority of 28, Ward Four a majority of 92, Ward Five a majority of 98, and the Royalty a majority of 53. Total majority 283. Charlottetown has thus to some extent at least redeemed its character before the world. The liquor men did not control the solid Catholic vote as they said they would, although they did their best to make it a religious question. They know well that in this and in this alone lies their strength. I am only surprised that there should be two opinions on the question before the citizens. It is not a question of favor, but of common fair play which I submit should be the common right of every Englishman, namely, representation by population.

AN OLD CONSERVATIVE.

Arnold's "Light of the World."

Oliver Wendell Holmes, in speaking of Sir Edwin Arnold's former poem, "The Light of Asia," says: "Its tone is so lofty that there is nothing with which to compare it but the New Testament." The critics, however, are scarcely so jubilant over the latest achievement of the distinguished author. We have not yet seen "The Light of the World," but it is declared to be in no signification of the term, a great poem. It is a narrative of transcendent import to humanity, related in good verse, and it is nothing more. We subjoin a few words respecting it, from the Critic of New York:—

"As a story 'The Light of the World' is interesting: as a poem it is disappointing simply because it is so barren of the qualities which belong to poetry. It lacks flexibility and melody. Its imagery is stilted. It abounds in lines whose only title to be called poetry lies in their uniform length, page after page reading like prose cut up into pentameters. Sir Edwin seems to us to be one of those people who can write verse without being a poet, and this volume serves well to exemplify our meaning. The story, itself, is poetic; the telling of it is hardly so."

Conclusions will, however, be dissimilar with regard to this new and notable composition.

What Drunkenness Really Is.

It is the essential nature of all wines and spirits to send an increased amount of blood to the brain. The first effect of taking a glass of wine or stronger form of alcohol is to send the blood there faster than common. Hence the circulation that gives the red face. It increases the activity of the brain and it works, faster, and so does the tongue, but as the blood goes faster than common to the brain, it returns faster, and no immediate harm may result. But suppose a man keeps on drinking; the blood is sent to the brain so fast in large quantities, that in order to make room for it the arteries have to charge themselves. They increase in size, and, in doing so, they press against the more yielding, flaccid veins which carry the blood out of the brain and diminish the size of the pores—the result being that the blood is not only carried to the arteries of the brain faster than is natural or healthful, but is prevented from leaving it as fast as usual. Hence a double set of causes of death are in operation. Hence a man may drink enough brandy or other spirits in a few hours, or even minutes, to bring on a fatal attack of apoplexy. This is being literally dead drunk.

The Pope favors Modern Democracy.

ROME, April 6.—Cardinal Lavigerie's recent toast at Algiers and the events which rapidly followed are much discussed in church circles. Everything clearly indicates a decided drift of the Catholic church toward modern democracy. The Pope sees that the future belongs to the democracy. He has great admiration for the American democracy, of which he is a close student. He is convinced that the United States will furnish a form for conclusion of European society as well as ecclesiastic questions. He believes sincerely that Europe is marching toward democracy with republican institutions as the predestined goal. In his character as pontiff he dare not say so, nor can he make of this conviction an absolute doctrine which he could force upon others; but Cardinal Lavigerie's development on the future triumphs of the republic is certainly the echo of close conversations which he has had with Leo XIII.

Makes the Weak Strong

The marked benefit which people in run down or weakened state of health derive from Hood's Sarsaparilla, conclusively proves the claim that this medicine "makes the weak strong." It does not act like a stimulant, imparting fictitious strength from which there must follow a reaction of greater weakness than before, but in the most natural way Hood's Sarsaparilla overcomes that tired feeling, creates an appetite, purifies the blood, and, in short, gives great bodily, nerve, mental and digestive strength.

Fagged Out

"Last spring I was completely fagged out. My strength left me and I felt sick and miserable all the time, so that I could hardly attend to my business. I took one bottle of Hood's Sarsaparilla, and it cured me. There is nothing like it." R. C. BEGOLE, Editor Enterprise, Belleville, Mich.

"I derived very much benefit from Hood's Sarsaparilla, which I took for general debility. It built me right up, and gave me an excellent appetite." ED. JENKINS, Mt. Savage, Md.

N. B. If you decide to take Hood's Sarsaparilla, do not be induced to take anything else instead. Insist upon having
