

C.B.C. Hears Application For TV Station At New Carlisle

OTTAWA (CP) — The C.B.C. board of governors Friday heard an application for a licence to operate a television station in New Carlisle, Que., on the south shore of Gaspé peninsula.

Dr. Charles H. Houde, general manager of radio station CHNC at New Carlisle, applied on behalf of La Television de La Baie des Chaleurs, Inc., for a licence to operate on channel 5 with a power of 52 kilowatts video and 27 kilowatts audio.

The station, which would serve part of northern New Brunswick where there is a large French-speaking element, would broadcast in French and English.

DETERMINE PERCENTAGE

Dr. Houde said he would leave it to the board to determine what percentage of broadcast hours should be allowed to each language.

The majority of the population in the area was French-speaking. He suggested a 65-35 French-

English ratio.

Dr. Houde said there is no TV service in the area.

Television station CJCJ-TV, Sydney, N.S., renewed an application for a licence to operate a satellite station on channel 6, with 6,000 watts video and 3,200 watts audio in Inverness, N.S.

The station applied last September for a similar satellite linked to the main station, but with more than four times the power now requested. Last year's application was turned down.

OPPOSES APPLICATION

R. F. Large of CFCY-TV, Charlottetown, opposed the application on the ground the power requested is too high and would infringe on his own station's coverage area.

Mr. Large suggested the satellite should be in the 100-200 watts power bracket.

Brian O'Connell of radio station CJFX, Antigonish, N.S., said the proposed satellite would infringe on the coverage area of channel 9 allocated—but not in use—to the Antigonish area.

He said his year intends to apply later this year for a licence to operate on channel 9.

Radio station CJFX is operated by St. Francis Xavier University in Antigonish which now hopes to expand its broadcast activities to TV.

NOT AS GOOD A JOB

Mr. O'Connell said his station does not oppose the satellite application but believes it would not do as good a job for Inverness as his proposed station would.

N. Nathanson if CJCJ-TV said he would not object if the proposed Antigonish station's signal overlapped with that of his satellite.

He said power of 6,000 watts is necessary to serve Inverness, but he would accept any lower figure the CBC board thought appropriate.

WAITING LIST

Believe it or not... there is a "waiting list" for the Word of God! The world demand for Scriptures still grows and in 1958 the Bible Society is asked to provide Scriptures to the value of three million dollars. This it cannot do; its resources are no longer sufficient. At this time of peak demand for God's Word the Society has been obliged to retard its production... this in a day when billions are being spent on destructive weapons to say nothing of the billions squandered on harmful pleasures.

It is estimated that unless funds are forthcoming, the Society will have to reduce its production of Scriptures this year by $300,000. In similar circumstances a business concern would consider raising additional capital by issuing new shares. The Bible Society's only hope is for Christian people to take a larger share of financial responsibility by increased giving to the work. Will you help meet the challenge of this new and urgent situation? In addition to your contribution your purchases at the Bible House also helps the cause.

THOUGHTS FOR OUR TIME

BY HIS EMINENCE CARDINAL MCGUIGAN

DEFEND AND LIVE RELIGION

Universality in religion is sometimes opposed on the grounds that it means uniformity and conformity. Actually, this argument is not against, but rather for, universality in religion, if that universality is understood properly.

We misunderstand the meaning of universality if we think of it only in terms of the products of mass production which are stamped out mechanically and distributed universally to the detriment of local talents and ingenuity. When we say that an idea is universal, we mean that it cannot be fully expressed in any of its particular images or realizations.

There are an unlimited number of triangles other than the triangle I draw on a piece of paper, yet my idea of a triangle holds good for all of them. It is a whole which contains the perfections of its particular expressions but it cannot be fully expressed by any number of them.

We find triangles everywhere, not because someone had a mad desire to restrict materials to one particular shape, but because the idea of a triangle is so rich that it can be found wherever any three straight lines enclose a space. A general or universal or catholic truth is not tied down to one particular expression.

Thus in religion, no church which is catholic will ever claim that it has fully expressed the whole of religious truth. On the same grounds, it will condemn anyone who puts forth a particular expression of religious truth and claims that that is all there is to the matter. It will deny that anyone has the right to take a few texts from the Bible and assert them in such a way that the meaning is taken away from other texts. Each text must be interpreted by all the others on the same subject.

WHOLE TRUTH

We do not have to be able to express the whole truth in order to defend it. We know that a doctrine is an incomplete expression of a truth if it seems to contradict an equally valid truth. If we deny that one truth can contradict another, we are upholding the fullness of truth and we are defending the liberty of another to develop the counterbalancing truth.

A church which is catholic will be reactionary in the sense that it will assert the truths which are being neglected by the age. The history of that church will be interesting because by following the different stands it has taken in each age, we obtain a better understanding of the whole of truth which is being defended in a particular way in each age.

A church which is catholic will not admit that the young can make valid judgments on religious matters as soon as they are able to handle simple notions. It considers that a person needs a certain fullness of experience before he is in a position to appreciate the catholic truth. Consequently, it will extend the authority of parents in this regard and in countries which have been Catholic as long as they have been Christian it will tend to look upon the whole population as one family.

If we have not lived in such a place, we are in no position to evaluate such a situation. We can certainly point to many good results in our own society that are a consequence of the competition between different religions. However, there are defects and inevitable evils in our situation. The conflict of religions gives an excuse to the young to neglect religion before coming to a real understanding of it. This conflict exposes many to decisions which are beyond their experience and education.

DIFFER SINCERELY

A benefit of our situation is that we realize that good people can differ sincerely in religious matters; but too many draw the conclusion that doctrinal differences do not matter at all. At the opposite extreme, there are others who are so preoccupied with the task of defending their religious position that they cannot concentrate properly on the task of living their religion.

The disadvantages of the union of church and state are also many and obvious. To mention only one, there is a tendency to take religion for granted and to rely upon the religious values which over the years, that religion has been able to express in the customs and the way of life of the people.

This identification of religion and culture raises serious problems in a world in which the growth of communications more and more brings opposites face to face. This problem is especially serious when individuals leave such a homeland and enter a society such as ours, where a person finds his religion expressed publicly only in church and in religious institutions.

A person who is truly catholic realizes that his religion will express itself differently in different situations, and that no expression of it will ever be wholly satisfactory. It is too full of meaning to be expressed completely in any exposition, in any time or place.

Projects

Mrs. A. K. Richardson, National President, I. O. D. E., said that the 970 chapters in Canada raise and spend nearly one million dollars each year on their projects, and that the 32,000 members do a great deal of philanthropic and educational work.

This year, from its First and Second War Memorial Funds alone, the Order is providing 9 post-graduate scholarships (overseas) of $2,000 each and 17 bursaries to the value of $1,600 each in Canadian Universities. These two educational memorials represent only a portion of the $250,000 assistance given to Canadian students and schools in every province and the Yukon Territory. Chapters of the Order work in their own localities providing books, educational supplies and monetary aid for fees, transportation and hot lunches.

Last year the I. O. D. E. spent $507,729.23 an services at home and abroad. 80 per cent was spent in Canada on local projects, such as clinics, veterans' hospitals, sanatoria, senior citizens, immigrants, libraries, summer camps, nurseries, historic sites, Canadian disaster funds and emergency welfare. 20 per cent of the money is spent on clothing, bedding, powdered milk and handicraft materials and X-ray equipment to Asia, Africa and Europe.

Hicks Asks Permanent Grants For Atlantic Prov.

By DON HOYT

Canadian Press Staff Writer

HALIFAX (CP) — Opposition Leader Henry Hicks suggested Thursday that if federal grants-in-aid to the Atlantic provinces are withdrawn, after being paid for the next four years, this region's governments will be in financial trouble.

He said the grants should be made permanent and based on an agreed formula or principle. The current four-year allotments had been "pulled out of the air."

What will the Atlantic provinces do when the $100,000,000 bonus from the federal government is exhausted in four years, the former Liberal premier asked.

"... The process of government is such that we will almost certainly become dependent upon these grants... and find it extremely difficult to do without this or an equivalent amount."

It was announced several weeks ago that the four provinces will be given $25,000,000 annually during the next four years to help meet pressing economic problems. Nova Scotia, New Brunswick and Newfoundland will get about $7,500,000 a year. Prince Edward Island will get the remainder.

Trinity W. M. S. Held Meeting

The February meeting of Trinity United Church Missionary Society was held on Thursday afternoon in the Social Hall. A splendid attendance greeted the new president Mrs. K. A. Parker at the first meeting.

Following the Installation of officers the secretary Mrs. Avarad read the minutes of the last meeting and reported a banner year in all departments of the work, also read the minutes of our Executive meeting held where the plans for the year's work were formed with leaders arranged for the monthly meeting.

The president announced that a joint meeting with the Evening Auxiliary was planned for April. The Presbyterian will meet on May 7th and plans will be made later, the different leaders and committees reported.

The devotional period was led by Mrs. J.G. Bennett and Mrs. Morrison. Hymn 640 was sung. Mrs. Morrison gave a very interesting talk and used some wonderful quotation. Hymn 287 followed by Prayer.

The presidents and Mrs. Neal gave a very interesting study from the Life of a Japanese Lady who had been the 3rd Generation of a Christian family in Japan, a teacher and later the wife of a Christian Principal in a Girls High School. This was a most interesting part of the afternoon programme. The meeting closed with the Mizpah Benediction.

WANTS FORMULA

"These payments recognize that the Atlantic provinces need the money, but they do not undertake to make the grants on any stated formula or principle," Mr. Hicks said.

"they are not paid on a per capita basis. They are not paid after any attempt to determine or evaluate the fiscal needs of the provinces concerned. The amounts have been pulled out of the air."

Mr. Hicks, long a proponent of a formula on which federal grants to the provinces could be based, said eventual recognition must be given to a principle that would provide the poorer provinces with a long-term solution to their economic needs.

The opposition chief said a broadside of criticism at various government policies. His part in the throne speech debate ended with a motion of non-confidence in the Progressive Conservative government of Premier Robert L. Stanfield.
