

CHARLOTTETOWN Business College Writing Academy

Let the searchlight of practice illuminate the dark places of Theory.

THOROUGHLY Progressive Practical Instruction, in which young men and women are not only taught Book-keeping in all its applications to commerce both by single and double entry, but are trained how to do business, by actual business transactions. The students act as buyers, sellers, traders, bankers, book-keepers and accountants, in actual business operations, and the currency issued by the College Bank and the mids, issued from the Emporium, are used in bona fide business transactions, just the same as in mercantile and banking houses. Book-keeping in itself may be learned at home, but a knowledge of how to transact business, cannot be thus acquired. That our course system of training is eminently practical write for testimonials from business men, and from students who are now holding lucrative and responsible positions.

SUBJECTS:
Book-keeping by single and double entry (theoretical and practical), Actual Business Practice, Business Penmanship, Business Correspondence, Commercial Arithmetic, Commercial Law, Railroading, Steamboating, Banking, (actual practice in the college Bank), Typewriting, shorthand and Navigation.

FACULTY:
L. B. Miller, Principal, Teacher of Book-keeping, Arithmetic, Business Practice, Business Correspondence, Typewriting and Navigation.
J. W. Coulson, (Vice Principal), Teacher of Railroading, Steamboating, banking, Accounting and Actual Business Practice.

Coughs and colds need not be endured; they can be cured, and that quickly. Many mixtures are temporary in effect, but Scott's Emulsion of Cod-liver Oil with Hypophosphites is a permanent remedy. The oil feeds the blood and warms the body; the hypophosphites tone up the nerves; the glycerine soothes the inflamed throat and lungs. The combination cures. This may prevent serious lung troubles.

HOW A MAN MADE $7,000.

"Don't discuss your private business affairs in a public place," said an old Brooklynite to the New Yorker who approached him in a cafe near the city hall. Then the Brooklyn man, pointing out a real estate dealer, said:

"Talking about a business deal in this very cafe cost that man $7,000, and the money went into my pocket too. You see, he represented a syndicate that wanted to build on some property in one house and city lot. The agent did not know me from a Canarsie clammer. Well, he came in here with a friend—one of the syndicate—for luncheon on an afternoon in last July. They took seats at this table. I sat at the next one.

"I began to 'take notice,' as grand-mas say, when I heard the strangers at the next table discuss quite loudly a deal in relation to the property adjoining mine. The agent had ordered a fine layout for luncheon and was evidently well pleased with his deal. He said to his friend:

"Well, I pulled off the trick for that property at 219 Cheap street today. The owner thought I was doing him a favor. I started in at $15,000 and finally closed with him for $18,000. He bit in a hurry. Why, the property is worth $25,000 if it's worth a dollar to us. Now I must look for the chap that owes 221. He'll be glad to get $18,000 for his house. It's lucky for us they're not on to the fact that we want to buy that entire block."

"I didn't need to do any eavesdropping, you see. That little speech of the agent cost him exactly $7,000. You can readily guess that I, as the owner of 221 Cheap street, was not especially anxious to sell after that. I kept Mr. Real Estate Man on the jump for nearly five months, and when I let up on him I got my price, exactly $25,000—a neat little profit of $7,000 above what I would have gladly accepted. So you see the point of my remark to you, 'Don't discuss private business affairs in a public place.' Now we'll go to my office, and I'll listen to your proposition."

—New York Sun.

Sam Jones and Talmage.

Sam Jones is the embodiment of an audacity that sometimes comes very near the border line of discourtesy. A clergyman who often assists him in his series of meetings told me the other day this story in the early history of Mr. Jones' evangelistic work: He was invited by Dr. Talmage to hold a series of meetings in the doctor's Brooklyn church. Mr. Jones went to Dr. Talmage's home during the afternoon of the day on which his engagement began and introduced himself. Mr. Talmage looked him over and was evidently a little taken aback at the rather shabby appearance of the evangelist. As it approached evening he said, "Brother Jones, would you take it amiss if I presented you with a new suit of clothes?" "Certainly not," said the accommodating Samuel. He was taken to a clothier and fitted from head to foot, topping all with a high hat.

At church the doctor introduced him as the Rev. Samuel P. Jones from Georgia. Mr. Jones arose with his new hat in hand and repeated, "Yes, the Rev. Samuel P. Jones from Georgia," and added: "And this is the new suit of clothes and this the new hat your pastor has presented to me. If your pastor had as much of the grace of God in his heart as he has pride, he would convert all Brooklyn and would not need me."—Homiletic Review.

IN BONDAGE.

Silent, forever silent, through the years,
The dreary years which empty come and go,
Why do I cry to one who never hears
And, far away, my griefs can never know?

See here! I burn the letters one by one,
Although my heart burns with each burning word.
If chains are broken, freedom must be won.
My chains are loos'd, but my heart has not stirred.

What else is left for me to cast away,
What clinging memory from the too sweet past?
Upon the altar, midst the fire, I lay
This little relic, dear. It is the last!

And now I claim the freedom which I gain.
I am no more a slave to long dead things,
No victim I to swell thy triumph train,
But a freed bird, with new recovered wings.

What shall I do with this great gift long sought—
A gift which looked, far off, so passing sweet?
Clasped in my hand, it fades and turns to naught!
Once more I come and lay it at thy feet.
—Lillian Reilly, in Sketch.

Maginn.

Blackwood set a high value on Maginn's contributions. "There is one peculiar excellence," he writes, "in this writer which strikes us Scotsmen—his easy, idiomatic English. No Scotchman, however practiced as a writer, is master of the English tongue so as to be able to write in this way." But he never ventured to impart this opinion to the voluble and irascible North.

Maginn was a brilliant but unmanageable creature. He soon drifted away from Maga and devoted himself to its rival and imitator, Fraser's. When his habits had brought him to a premature grave, Lockhart wrote his epitaph in a score of jingling rhymes:

Here, early to bed, lies kind William Maginn.
Light for long was his heart, though his breeches were thin,
But at last he was beat and sought help from the bin.
Barring drink and the girls, I ne'er heard of a sin;
Many worse, better few, than bright, broken Maginn.
