Wedding Takes Place In Children's Events

MONTAGUE BUREAU OF THE GUARDIAN
The Montague Regional Strawberry Festival, which is being favored with ideal weather, continued yesterday. The day's events were mainly for the children of the area. Featuring ball games for the boys, a doll carriage and tricycle parade for the girls and a soap box derby for an extra.

The doll carriage parade was a delight to the large crowd. The daintily young ladies wheeling their beautifully decorated carriages created a difficult situation for the referees. Mrs. B. H. Yoo, Mrs. Lincoln Dewar and Miss Florence MacDonald, Justice Ainslie was finally chosen winner of the doll carriage event with Jennifer Clarkson and Edna Shaw second, and Jackie Hughes third. Fourth was Karen MacKenzie and fifth Marlene Murphy.

Merilee and Shelly Pepler, although the only two contestants in the tricycle event with Merilee placing first, also stole the hearts of the audience.

SOAP BOX DERBY
In the soap box derby, Allan Fraser was first, while his brother Gerard placed second. All contestants in these events were presented with silver dollars.

In the little league game Montague leads won by a score of 4-1 over a Summerside team. This game featured good pitching and fielding and was a crowd pleaser. In the midday game

Montague also won over the RCMP team from Summerside 6-5 and was a close one with good ball playing.

A turkey and ham dinner featuring strawberries and ice cream was served in the afternoon.

In the evening a large crowd gathered to witness the sky diving event which had to be cancelled due to the high wind and unfortunately this event will not be re-scheduled due to regulations.

The large crowd then took advantage of the midway until the dance which was an outdoor affair put on by Montague Fire Department.

EXCHANGE STUDENTS HERE
Today, coronation day, will see the largest parade to ever be held in this area with over 30 floats, two bands, the queen contestants and other features, a band concert and majorettes display; a lobster dinner with strawberries and ice cream giggle; the crowning of the queen and the Don Messer Show will take place in the regional high school where they will feature modern and some old time dance music.

Some 24 exchange students from Manitoba will be treated to the Don Messer show tonight. The group consists of 10 boys and 14 girls along with 20 students from Charlottetown. They are in the province as part of the department of education's student exchange program.

Policeman, Fire Protection Are G'town Council Topics

GEORGETOWN — Deputy Mayor A.H. Stewart presided over the regular monthly meeting of the Georgetown Town Council held recently. Councillors Walker, Lavender, Murphy and Johnson were in attendance.

Mainly routine business was before the Council which heard reports from the various committees. The police committee reported that it had engaged the services of Mark Murphy of Georgetown as police officer for the town.

In reporting for the fire department committee, Coun. Walker stated that in response to a suggestion made some time ago by the council to the residents of Burnt Point and Georgetown Royal regarding the town's fire fighting equipment giving fire protection, five residents had paid the $5 for the service. Many others have signified their intentions to do so but to date have not paid the fee required, he said. Since the plan went into operation the local fire department has answered one call to put out a woods fire started by lightning in the vicinity of a paid resident.

CIVIC HOLIDAY
The council issued a proclamation declaring Wednesday July 22, a civic holiday being Georgetown's Centennial Day. Other items of general business coming under discussion was the collection of dog and car taxes, the maintenance of the town dump, a request for the installation of a street light in the vicinity of the Royal Canadian Legion Hall and a general discussion on tax arrears. An application was before the

G'town Lions Enter Float At Montague

GEORGETOWN—The Georgetown Lions Club decided at its last meeting to send its float to Montague for the giant Strawberry Festival parade being held today.

The meeting was held in the office building of Balthus Marché limited with Howard S. MacLean presiding. Charles M. Smith will be in charge of the float.

Following the reading and accepting of the minutes and the financial report of the meeting, the task of making arrangements for the canteen service on Centennial Day, July 22.

The club will provide canteen service on the Railway Wharf in the morning during the sports and in the afternoon in the park during the track and field events. Again in the evening the canteen will be operated in the government potato warehouse on railway wharf, where a mammoth dance is to be held.

Arrangements were made for the building of the necessary booths, the ordering of the supplies and a schedule of workers to staff the canteen.

Other matters dealt with were the preparation of the float for its participation in the parade and other matters vital to the observance of Centennial Day.

mile radius of the village, and can handle as many as 30,000 boxes on two shifts a day.

A representative of the department of Agriculture estimated the crop is much the same as last year, but ventures the opinion that berries may be larger because plants did not thicken as in other years due to weather conditions.

Berry pickers are in good supply. It was learned from the National Employment Office in Charlottetown. Several days ago it was felt that demand for pickers would exceed the supply should the weather cause most fields to ripen at the same time. As many as 400 pickers are registered with the office, approximately the same number as last year. Persons working in the processing plants are not included in this number.

Office manager George Chevere said, however, that there is a small problem involving transportation of these workers to the picking areas — some growers are not able to provide about 20 of the larger growers have applied through the office for pickers. Most of these are located in the Mt. Stewart, Plaqué, Tea Hill and Alexandra areas.

THE POMP and ceremony of a full dress ball in the year 1864 opens the Two Islands Pageant, playing in Memorial Theatre tonight and tomorrow night, and these three Charlottetownians of a different era, resident in the gowns and officers' uniforms of the period, play a part in the scene. Dorothy Baxter, Adèle Leper and Kirby Smith, for a few minutes each night throw back into a great and splendid society, prepare for their roles backstage before the curtain rises.

Theatre's All-Island Show Two Islands Proves Popular

The Centennial Pageant of "Two Islands," with a cast of almost 100 local amateurs which opened Wednesday night to a near capacity house, continues to night and Saturday at Confederation Theatre.

This is the only local show on the summer schedule of the theatre, and it is authentically local, as it is written, directed, and acted by Island people. The play, which covers Island history from the Jacques Cartier landing to Sir John A. MacDonald's speech for union, was written by Adele Townsend of Rollo Bay. It was co-directed by Rev. Adrian Arsenault, who is on the staff of St. Dunstan's University and Iron Roving at Charlottetown. The producer was Montague's gift to the world

Spiritual Atmosphere Seen Need in Schools

Education which dispenses completely with moral and spiritual values is just as much a curse as a blessing, Rev. John S. Bonnell, B.D., D.D., L.D., said here today.

Speaking to members of the Canadian Home and School and Parent-Teacher Federation in "Spiritual Values in Education," Dr. Bonnell urged delegates to promote cooperation among home, school and church. He said although it was not the duty of the school system to teach religion, it does have a belief and doctrine, parents had a right to expect an atmosphere in schools, and colleges hospitable to the growth of moral and spiritual ideas.
