India's Nehru Is At Peak Of Popularity After 8 Years

By V. M. NAIR
NEW DELHI (Reuters)—Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru, who celebrates his 60th birthday Nov. 14, during the last eight years has come to occupy a position of popularity and strength never before achieved in Indian history.

Before India attained independence in 1947, Nehru was the idol of the Indian masses, next only to Mahatma Gandhi. Today, he is the most powerful man in India and the undisputed leader of the nation.

NO HECKLING
His popularity has become an established feature of the Indian scene—even the slightest criticism of him by any Indian is looked upon as "treason" by many Indians. Recently, when students of Gujarat University heckled him while he was trying to address them, both press and public un-animously condemned the students' action.

Nehru's power both inside the cabinet and outside is almost absolute. But, with ingrained respect for democracy, he has bent all his energies to developing a parliamentary democracy in India. Dedicated to the task of making India an industrially-advanced nation, to raising the standard of living of the people and to welding them into a powerful nation, Nehru often gets impatient at the country's slow progress.

In addition to being prime minister, Nehru also is the foreign minister and chairman of both the atomic energy commission and the planning commission. In his pre-occupation with foreign affairs and his efforts to spread the spirit of co-existence abroad, he is helped by V. K. Krishna Menon, a member of the cabinet without portfolio.

WORK AND YOGA
Nehru works 14 to 18 hours a day. His day starts at about 7:30 a.m. and sometimes goes on far into the night. He enjoys excellent health and does physical fitness exercises regularly, including a few minutes of "sirasasana"—the Yogi exercise of standing on one's head. Many believe the prime mini-

CARRIES "CANADA" EDITION

LONDON (CP)—The Times Tuesday devotes a special 16-page supplement to Canada—"this great transatlantic kingdom." In an editorial, the newspaper calls attention to its appearance at a time when Canada is "stepping to the front by virtue neither of her membership of the Commonwealth nor of her intimate association with the United States."

QUEBEC CCF IN LINE

MONTREAL (CP)—The Social Democratic party, Quebec branch of the CCF, announced Monday night it has swung into line with the Winnipeg declaration and that it favors a mixed economy in which "the need for private enterprise in many fields" is acknowledged. The party's decision was taken at closed weekend meetings.

ter should try to groom someone of sufficient political integrity and popularity to succeed him. Some say that Nehru favors Jai Prakash Narayan, 54-year-old American-educated Socialist leader, as his successor. But Narayan recently declared his intention of giving up politics.

The only other likely successor being mentioned is Morarji Desai, now the chief minister of Bombay. Desai, 60, is a man of unquestioned political integrity and principles.

Compares Hi-Fi Addicts To Sadistic Psychopaths

MONTREAL (CP)—A Montreal psychiatrist compared some high-fidelity addicts Sunday with sadists and psychopaths.

Dr. H. Angus Bowes, clinical director of psychiatry at Ste. Anne's hospital in nearby Ste. Anne de Bellevue, made the comparison in a paper submitted to a regional meeting of the American Psychiatric Association.

In the paper titled "The Psychopathology of the Hi-Fi Addict," Dr.

Bowes distinguished between the "audiophile," a person genuinely appreciating recorded music reproduced by good high-fidelity equipment, and the hi-fi addict. The addict is interested mainly in sounds and is often a nuisance to family and friends, he said.

PSYCHOTIC SYMPTOMS

"While the audiophile is content with reasonable levels of volume and reproduction, the addicts wants everything larger than life.

The sound is turned up and up till it reaches the physical level of pain.

"A preoccupation with extremely low frequencies that can be felt rather than heard, with the highest frequencies that leave one's head numb and ringing with loud aggressive passage of orgiastic vehemence are now the addicts' targets and milestones on the road of his artistic disintegration.

"Some addicts isolate loud aggressive passages from different works, record them individually on tape and play them in continuum as a sadistic, psychotic symphony."

Dr. Bowes said hi-fi addiction is rare among women because they are less "compulsive" than men and their ears are "extremely intolerant of aggressive sounds and especially of high frequencies."

OBSTINATE AILMENT

Hi-fi addicts are difficult to deal with from a medical point of view, Dr. Bowes continued.

"They are reluctant to undertake psychotherapy, like true addicts they wish to be left alone with their addiction. Some in England were referred to me by the courts because of the repeated nuisance their loud and aggressive playing caused their neighbors.

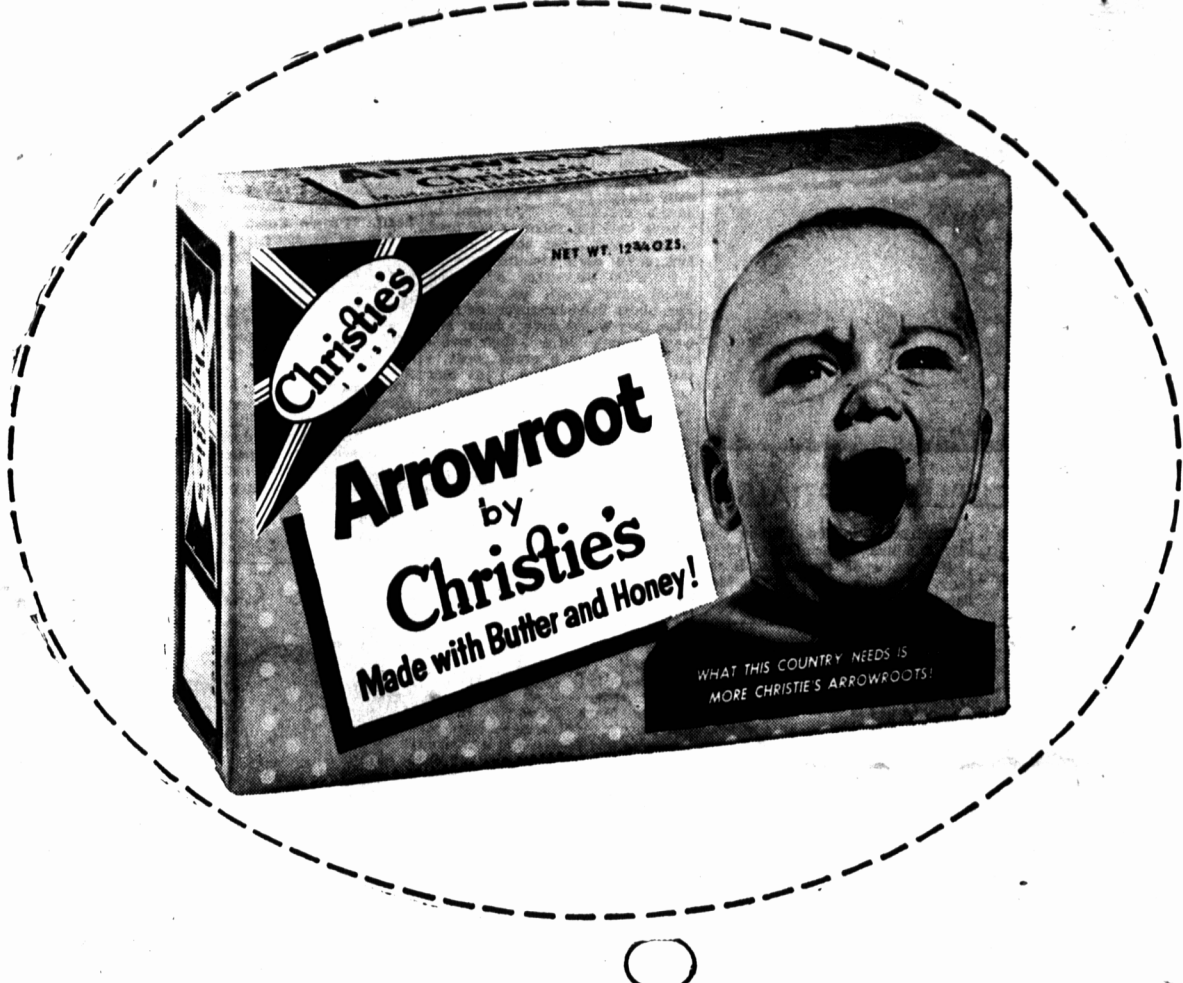

"Some are pushed into psychotherapy by their relatives. Only when they realize that they are dealing with someone who understands their audiophilic activity do they become amenable to treatment."

UNIQUE DEFEAT

CONCORD, N.H. (AP)—George H. Hooper of Sutton Friday petitioned for a recount of one of the most unusual votes for state representative in New Hampshire history. Hooper had both the Republican and Democratic nominations for a House seat in First Tuesday's election, but lost out to Harold W. Chadwick, a write-in candidate, by one vote 153 to 152.

YOUTH ELECTROCUTED

CHICAGO (AP)—Martin Ritchie 15, was electrocuted Monday night when he short-circuited a 5,000-volt wire atop a utility pole while attempting to hang Rock 'n' Roll singer Elvis Presley in effigy. Police said Ritchie tumbled up the pole with a 54-foot dummy dressed in blue jeans and sweater.
