

Exhibition At Local Gallery

A colourful exhibition of serigraphs in modern style has arrived at the Harris Memorial Gallery for its first showing in the Maritimes. It will be on display here four successive afternoons, starting tomorrow, and consists of some thirty five silk screen reproductions, outstanding work of Dean J. Meeker and his students at the University of Wisconsin. Though the Gallery is yet to be equipped with a practical means for showing prints, a committee of Art Society members have managed to display them quite well. This exhibition is sponsored by the Prince Edward Island Art Society and admission is free to everyone. It is provided for showing as a part of the exhibition program of the Maritime Art Association, of which Mr. Vic Runtz, City, is president.

Y.M.C.A. Re-opens For Active Season

Juniors libbies and corridors quiet during the summer, rang with noisy chatter Saturday morning as the program for Juvenile and Junior boys and girls re-opened at the Y.M.C.A. for the fall and winter season. Nearly a hundred youngsters were on hand bright and early to renew their memberships, arrange their gym class schedules, and enjoy a program of talks, entertainment and movies conducted by the 'Y' staff.
Bill Kingston, physical director, welcomed newcomers and outlined the special programs and class schedules planned for the season. Staff members introduced included Mrs. Pauline Fear, who will be assisting with club and physical program for girls and women, Jack Turner, assistant physical director, and Gordon Maxwell, general secretary, who told some tall tales from the West and spoke of 'Y' work with boys and girls throughout the world.
Following a program of movies, Mr. Kingston invited the boys and girls to bring a friend as their guest to the next class period. A final tour of the building produced expressions of surprise and pleasure as the boys and girls spied the newly re-finished gym floor, and all went home determined to qualify for the 100% attendance award offered each season.

Meeting of First Aid Committee

The members of the First Aid Committee met at Red Cross Headquarters on September 27. Dr. A. J. Murchison, chairman of this committee, reviewed the activities carried on by this department during the summer.

They are on call at any time for emergency help. The Red Cross provides the equipment at each post and keeps the supplies replenished. A supervisor inspects all posts at regular intervals.
Some First Aid courses have been carried on during the summer, and at present requests are coming in from many centres for the committee's refresher courses for instructors. Tignish and Charlottetown. These will be conducted during October and November.

But the French prime minister sounded a warning about his unpredictable National Assembly, which killed the original European army concept—as he left by air for Paris.
It was "too early to give a definite answer" whether the French parliament would ratify the agreement, he said.
He will call the National Assembly to an early debate on the detailed agreements and stake his government's life on them.
The French delegation, with memories of three successful German invasions of their country in less than a century, fought stubbornly for an arms control plan. Finally, encouraged by Britain's offer to keep troops on the European continent for 44 years, Mendes-France and the eight other ministers put their signatures to the agreement.
The British offer, representing a sharp break with her traditional peacetime policy of non-involvement in Europe, was the turning point of the conference. But it left the French still dissatisfied until a solution of the arms control problem was drawn up Sunday.
A double-edged system will keep a check on Germany's new forces. They will be integrated with other forces under the supreme commander in Europe of the 14-nation Atlantic pact. And the seven nations in the enlarged 50-year Brussels treaty will strictly supervise and control the size and power of Germany's arms.
Adenauer has promised that West Germany will not make certain weapons, including the atom bomb. His government also undertakes not to use force to reunite Germany.
EARLY SOVEREIGNTY
By the agreements Britain, France and the United States also pledged early sovereignty for West Germany, which they have occupied for nine years.
Under this agreement the Western powers will retain full responsibility for West Berlin and for negotiations with Russia on German reunification.
The United States is expected to underwrite the new defence grouping with a pledge to keep her troops in Europe so long as the "threat exists."

Southeast Asia May Get More Aid From Canada

By Harold Morrison
Canadian Press Staff Writer
OTTAWA, (CP)—Appeals from Southeast Asia for increased aid are piling up on Canada's doorstep and a high government informant said Sunday there is a "good chance" they will be met.
He said the main issue is to decide what additional aid is to be granted and whether it is to be in the form of a fixed increase in Canada's $25,400,000 a-year Colombo plan contribution. The issue is to be thrashed out by cabinet in the next few days.
Meanwhile, it was learned that Japan is gaining support in her bid for admittance into the 14-country Colombo plan. Canada, as host country to the annual meeting of ministers which opens here today, has quietly polled the various governments on their views.
Informants said replies received so far are favorable towards Japan. Polling likely will be completed by this afternoon.
WILL EXTEND INVITATION
If all member countries favor Japan's entry as a donor member, Canada will extend an official invitation to the Japanese government to send a delegate to the week-long sessions. Dr. Koto Matsuaira, the Japanese ambassador to Canada, likely will represent his country.
Though Japan would be classified as a donor country, she likely will make no fixed financial contributions but would provide technical aid in fishing and growing rice.
Thus, her admittance would be born of political rather than economic motives. One Western diplomat attending the Colombo plan meetings said Japan for a long time has felt "left out in the cold."
The cabinet spokesmen from the Colombo countries will gather in the Commons chamber of Canada's Parliament at about 10:45 a.m. EST, where they will hear an address of welcome by Prime Minister St. Laurent.
They then will move to the Commons railway committee room to elect a chairman, approve an agenda and study the draft of an annual report prepared by a body of some 60 Colombo plan experts.

90 Key Districts Hold Fate Of U. S. Election

By William F. Arbogast
WASHINGTON, (AP)—Whether Republicans or Democrats control the House of Representatives in the new Congress hinges on Nov. 2 election results in about 90 key districts.
These are districts that have a history of political instability, in which incumbents usually have a hard fight to hold their jobs regardless of party label.
Most of them gave the 1952 congressional winners 55 per cent or less of the total vote cast. That's why they are called marginal districts.
Party strategists are concentrating on the 90 districts. They assume that the 345 other House districts will run fairly true to form, electing about 180 Democrats and 165 Republicans.
Democrats hope to chalk up a net gain of from 30 to 70 seats, mainly in the 90 key areas, while Republicans are counting on net gains of from 10 to 40.
Lineup of the present House is 219 Republicans, 215 Democrats and one Independent, including vacancies. All 435 House seats are at stake this year, including three already won by Republicans in Maine Sept. 13.
To regain control of the House, and with it power to direct the course of legislation, Democrats need a net gain of only three seats to reach 218.
Tradition is all in their favor. Only once in the past 100 years has the party in power failed to lose House seats in a general election in which there was no presidential contest.

SIX-YEAR PACT

The six-year, $5,000,000,000 economic pact is made up of nine Asian countries, including India, Pakistan and Ceylon; two Asian observed countries, the Philippines and Thailand; and five donor powers, Canada, Britain, the United States, Australia and New Zealand.
Canada splits up her $25,400,000 annual contribution among India, Pakistan and Ceylon. But now she has received requests for aid to help build industrial projects in Nepal, Burma, Indonesia and Vietnam.

Washington Is Optimistic Over Agreement

WASHINGTON (AP)—Signing of the nine-power London agreement on rearming West Germany Sunday provided a dramatic crescendo to a series of events that has pumped new unity and strength into the grand alliance against Soviet communism.
Now gains which the Soviet Union has made recently in the cold war show up as less threatening than they were a few weeks ago. During the past several weeks, at least four developments have reinvigorated the Western alliance and posed new problems for Soviet Premier Malenkov and his associates:
1. The agreement on a plan for freeing and rearming West Germany. This opens up the possibility of solving the critical European defence problem by producing French-German co-operation.
2. Military leaders of the North Atlantic alliance have long wanted to get German divisions—12 are projected—into the line. Otherwise they felt there could be no adequate defence.
3. Trieste settlement. The nine-year-old dispute between Italy and Yugoslavia has been substantially concluded with an agreement due to be signed this week. Although the ultimate success of the settlement will depend on popular reaction, it opens the way for co-operation in the defence of Europe's southern flank.
4. U.S.-French agreement on Indochina. The end of the war there more than two months ago left feelings of suspicion and distrust between the United States and France. The United States did not like the terms made at Geneva, which permitted Communists to take over northern Vietnam.

Phoney-money Boys Fooled

The new Elizabethan bank notes are the most fool-proof ever, with so many built-in obstacles to counterfeiting that the phoney-money boys might as well pack up and call it a day. Even the master engravers who made the plates from which the new notes are printed couldn't duplicate their own work if they tried. It's really going to be tough on the boys who would rather make their own money than earn it. Read all about it in The Standard this week. The Standard is on sale now, complete with Picture Magazine, 12-page novel and 20 pages of comics. Only ten cents!
