

War Of The Roses Raging In Canada

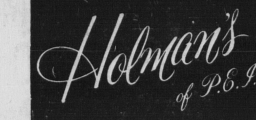

By JANET KASK
MONTREAL (CP)—Horticulturists across Canada for the last few months have been pampering three roses developed by one of the world's leading hybridists on Canadian soil. Visitors to 27 test gardens across Canada have been rating bellows this summer for the best roses. A rich red, four-petaled, a coral rose, the same variety and a golden-yellow tea rose.

The man behind the Centennial Rose idea is Jack McIntyre of Montreal, whose garden of 4,000 roses in a local cemetery draws thousands of visitors each summer.

Mr. McIntyre owns the rights to the name "Centennial Rose" and proceeds from the sale of the chosen rose will go to a Centennial Foundation for Handicapped Children, sponsored by Rotary Clubs across Canada.

The three roses were developed by American hybridist E. S. Boerner.

The fact that American roses are being used for a Canadian Centennial has sparked a controversy that has been dubbed "Canada's War of the Roses" by The Canadian Association of

Social Credit leader Sticks By Time Story

OTTAWA (CP)—Social Credit Leader Thompson is standing by a statement attributed to him by Time magazine that Opposition Leader Diefenbaker refused to consult his own party on the flag issue.

Publication of the remark raised a storm among Conservative members of the Commons last week and Lloyd Cross (PC—Queens-Lunenburg) told the House Mr. Thompson either was talking through his hat or had been misquoted. He asked that the Social Credit leader dissociate himself from the magazine report.

Mr. Thompson, who was in Red Deer when Mr. Cross raised the matter, replied Monday that the magazine had quoted him exactly as he had made the statement about Mr. Diefenbaker. "It was a statement of fact," he added.

He then started to refer to an Aug. 4 meeting of the party leaders on the flag question in the prime minister's office when he was interrupted by cries of order from the Conservatives.

Donald Maclean (PC—Cape Breton South) protested Mr. Thompson "can very easily be proven wrong by every member sitting in the Conservative benches."

RULING MADE

Speaker Alan Mantha noted in last week's exchange he had suggested the matter be dropped until Mr. Thompson's return to the House when there

S. Viet Nam Gets Back War Effort

By JOHN T. WHEELER
SAIGON (AP)—South Viet Nam's latest political upheaval and mob violence probably has set back the U.S.-supported war against the Communist Viet Cong by at least two months, American military sources said here.

The two-month estimate compared with a reckoning that six months' progress was lost following the uprising which overthrew President Ngo Dinh Diem last November. And that three months more went down the drain after Maj-Gen. Nguyen Khanh ousted Diem's successor, Maj-Gen. Duong Van (Big) Minh, Jan. 30.

In the interval the United States has increased its military manpower in Viet Nam from 16,000 to about 20,000 and boosted expenditures from $1,600,000 to nearly $2,000,000 a day.

Saigon shake-ups tend to hit provincial chiefs, the military officers who are key men in the program of systematically repressing government control in areas now under varying degrees of Communist rule. That makes for caution in promoting pacification.

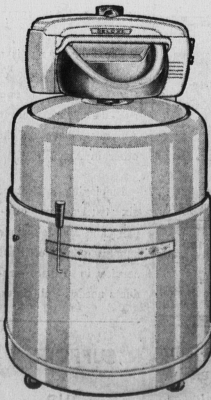

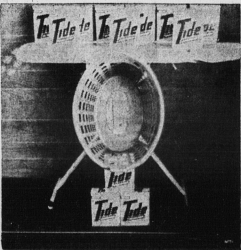

"As long as there is a big question mark on how long the men will stay in, they will tend to be apathetic, sitting on their hands and playing it safe," a senior American officer said.

COUP POSSIBLE

There was speculation that instability due to the fact a caretaker government is in charge during the two-month transition period that is supposed to lead to more civilian rule may open the way for another military coup.

"The biggest hazard right now is that the caretaker government may be knocked off" by a high U.S. officer declared.

The tempo of Viet Cong military activity remained relatively low. One American adviser maintained, however, always takes the Viet Cong a week or so to react and exploit tactical trouble on the govern-

Plenty Freedom Given Artists For Murals Here

MONTREAL (CP)—Don't look for a message in the painting of John Fox, who was commissioned to paint one of three murals for the Fathers of Confederation Memorial Building in Charlottetown.

"We have plenty of freedom," he said. "All we have to do is keep in mind what went on in Charlottetown a century ago."

The Montreal artist, noted for his still life studies and intimate interiors, said his mural, in three panels, "will be purely decorative" in its portrayal of the arrival of delegates to a meeting that led to Confederation.

The other murals for the building have been assigned to Jack Shadbolt of Vancouver and Paul Lemieux of Sillery, Que.
