Fat Man wanted a Correction.
 "That was a fine report you had of the explosion," puffed the fat man, who did not know there was an elevator in the building and climbed three flights of stairs to the editor's office, "a fine report, I must say." And sarcasm fairly rang in his tones. "Did you know that it was my furnace that blew up, that I stand the loss, that but for me you wouldn't have the item?"
 "If you are D. J. Jones, we did."
 "I am D. Jacobus Jones. You didn't even spell out my middle name. You'd think that my wife and hired girl were the whole thing the way you wrote it up."
 "The girl was terribly burned, and your wife was badly hurt while saving the girl. You don't appear to have had any hand in the matter."
 "Didn't, hey? Did you notice how slowly I sat down when I came in here? Did you hear me stifle a groan? I'm sore as a felon from the crown of my head to the sole of my foot. That's what I am. But there's not a word about that."
 "Were you in the explosion?"
 "No. Wish I had been. When I heard the report, I knew some one must be hurt. I fell down stairs. I ran five blocks for a doctor. When I got home, I was so exhausted that I had to retire, and this morning I had to roll out of bed on a chair to get up. It wasn't my fault that the doctor was out or that an ambulance was at the house when I got back. You can say that I showed great presence of mind and got out and humped myself or stop my paper. Good day!"—Detroit Free Press.

They Pay the Rent.
 "There is," says a traveler, "a stock saying which they have at Queens-town, Ireland. It is there the steamers pick up the mails, which can leave London 12 hours later than the boats do Liverpool and overtake them there. Frequently, however, delays occur, and then the passengers kill time by going ashore, and the native is always in wait to sell them shillalabs and other things, such as bog oak jewelry, canes, etc., which are supposedly indigenous to and characteristic of Ireland.
 "Some of the shillalabs are wonderful and awful to look upon and have no possible place in real life, their only object being to take in the unwary transatlantic traveler. One I saw there had a head fully six inches in diameter, with projecting knobs and roots thickly covering it. It was so heavy that to lift it was an effort and to carry it any distance without using a dray a physical impossibility. It was a murderous looking weapon, and a blow from it on the head would have done for any living thing, even a ducky from Georgia.
 "Why," I asked in my surprise, "what on earth do you use this for?"
 "That?" he rejoined. "Arrah, that's what we pay the rent with."
 "I've got it yet."—New York Tribune.

Adhesive and Pressed Stamps.
 "Wait until I have washed off the postage stamp on this envelope, spoiled in the addressing," said a man.
 "It is not necessary to do that, as is commonly supposed," said a lawyer. "You may take your scissors and cut out the adhesive (not the impressed) stamp and stick it fast to your new envelope with mucilage notwithstanding the adhering piece of the old envelope.
 "It does not look nice and may become detached in the mail, but if the stamp is a genuine, unused, adhesive stamp it is not questioned. The government when it sells an adhesive 2 cent stamp undertakes for such consideration to transport and deliver to destination the letter to which it is affixed. The fact that it has a piece of an envelope to which it was formerly attached, but not used or deposited for mailing, does not relieve the government to execute its part of the contract when the letter is deposited for mailing, the stamp being otherwise perfect.
 "An impressed stamp, however, cut from an envelope is defective and invalid for postage purposes. It is astonishing how many of these are used, some people apparently being unable

Imitations
 of Dodd's Kidney Pills are legion. The box is imitated, the outside coating and shape of the pills are imitated and the name—Dodd's Kidney Pills is imitated. Imitations are dangerous. The original is safe. Dodd's Kidney Pills have a reputation. Imitations have none or they wouldn't imitate. So they trade on the reputation of Dodd's Kidney Pills. Do not be deceived. There is only one DODD'S. Dodd's is the original. Dodd's is the name to be careful about—

A Rapid Observer.
 Here is a story with a moral: A countryman had just returned from a journey to Paris. One of his cronies asked him what opinion he had formed of the Parisians.
 "Delightful people," he replied, "but frivolous, changeable and altogether incapable of forming an attachment of any duration."
 "How long were you there?" asked his friend.
 "Three days."—Chicago News.

Fear Evil Spirits.
 Evil spirits are held in great dread by the Chinese, who believe them to bear special ill will to the eldest son of the family and to delight in playing unkind tricks upon him. To prevent this the eldest son in one family was named "Sixth Little Sister," the child's parents evidently being under the impression that evil spirits could be deceived as to the sex of the little one.
Among the Poultry.
 "Good morning. How do you do this morning?" said the duck, meeting the hen.
 "None of your business," replied the hen. "You are no doctor."
 "Quack!" squawked the duck angrily.
 "That's what I said," cackled the hen.—Detroit Free Press.

Value of Consulars.
 "Young man," said a noted Illinois congressman in the house restaurant at the capitol, "when you get a chance to be a consul for the United States select a smoky city, one where there are many factory chimneys. Do not try for the fashionable capitals. Leave them for the ambassadors. Go where the air is murky, for there business is lively, and many a consignment is sent to the United States. This means fees, and fees mean a good income for the consul."
 In the coaching days it cost from £5 to £6 to go from York to London.

The Kentucky Mountaineers.
 There are no more strikingly interesting people in America than these isolated mountaineers, who make their homes generation after generation among the fastnesses of the eastern section of the "dark and bloody ground." The waves of civilization which swept westward along the St. Lawrence, the Erie canal and a dozen other routes seem to have found at this point in the Appalachians an insurmountable barrier and rolled back, leaving the descendants of the pioneers of a century and a half ago with many of the same habits and customs and traditions dear to the hearts of their forefathers.
 A man who knows the whole country as a child does his first picture book told me that if any person took the trouble to go through a copy of Shakespeare and pick out all the obsolete words he would find nearly all of them in common use among these mountain folk. In their phraseology we find "holp" for "help," "hit" for "it" and other words which, far from being corruptions, are the pure old Anglo-Saxon. Even their ballads are memories of ages gone by, and I know of one man who, after riding 200 miles through the mountains for the purpose, finally picked up, from hearing the women sing them, the full 13 verses of an old Scotch ballad which proved to be identical with those recorded in a diary bearing the date 1665.—International Magazine.

Prayer of a Soubrette.
 The people who live in stegaland have the strangest ways. I sat in a box in one of the theaters one evening and I could see into the wings on the "prompt" side of the stage. A comic opera was on, and I saw one of the leading women come and take her stand there in the wings, waiting for her cue. I could see her quite plainly, and I watched her with curiosity, wondering if she were not cold in the tights and thin gauze of her scant costume.
 The comedian began the long speech, the last word of which was to call her on. She bowed her head, her lips moved, and thrice she made the sign of the cross with a devoutness which left no room for doubt that she was actually praying. An instant later she had frisked out on the stage with a laugh and a dance step and a wink that was anything but pious. Nobody seeing her could have dreamed that just the moment before she was actually praying—praying for guidance in her work, praying for strength to succeed, as earnestly and with just as much faith and reverence as if she—well, as if she were anything in the world but a dancing girl in a comic opera.—Washington Post.

Nervous Debility.
 A Sufferer From Weak Blood and Exhausted Nerves Tells of His Cure by Using Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.
 Mr. A. T. P. Lalame, railway agent at Clarenceville, Que., writes:—"For twelve years I have been run down with nervous debility. I suffered much, and consulted doctors, and used medicines in vain. Some months ago I heard of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, used two boxes, and my health improved so rapidly that I ordered twelve more.
 "I can say, frankly, that this treatment has no equal in the medical world. While using Dr. Chase's Nerve Food I could feel my system being built up until now I am strong and healthy. I cannot recommend it too highly for weak, nervous people."
 Dr. Chase's Nerve Food is a tonic and restorative of inestimable worth. It makes the blood rich, the nerves strong, increases the weight, and cures all weaknesses and diseases of the nerves and blood. In pill form, 50 cents a box, at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates and Co., Toronto.
