A LOST ALASKAN MINE.

Searching For Hidden Millions In the Dreary Yukon Country.

Five million dollars in nuggets and an inexhaustible mine of fabulous richness will be the reward of the prospector who can find the lost Golden mountain in northern Alaska. Such at least is the report current among the miners along the Yukon and its tributaries, says a Sioux City correspondent. The story may be a myth or it may be literally true. No one seems to know for a certainty, and so many lives have been lost in the effort to establish its truth or falsity that investigators are growing somewhat chary of entering on the search. Mark Hamilton, a Yukon miner in 1891 and 1892, thus told the legend:

"Away back, before Alaska passed out of Russian hands," he says, "a party started up the Koyokuk river, a tributary of the Yukon. The members wanted to learn all they could concerning the topography of the country, its mineral resources and the various tribes by which it was inhabited. They were picking up furs, too, and looking for any little snaps on which they might stumble in the way of Indian trading. Alaska was not known then, as it is now, as a gold country; still it was understood that gold was occasionally found, and the explorers kept their eyes open for any chance sight of the precious metal. About half way up the north fork of the Yukon they branched off to the west and somewhere between the north fork and the Arctic ocean, no one knows just where, came to a small mountain, the base of which was literally honeycombed with veins of rich gold bearing ore.

"Such at least is the story. I don't vouch for its truth. It is said that $5,000,000 worth of nuggets were picked up in a few weeks almost on the surface of the ground. By this time the winter season was beginning to set in, and the prospectors concluded they had better strike for the southern settlements. Traveling was so difficult and the party so small—it numbered only six or seven—that the greater part of the treasure was cached near the camp and only enough packed for transportation to convince settlers in the south of the richness of the deposits. It was expected to return the next summer with a stronger party and work the lead for all it was worth.

"What became of that party after it left the mountain no one knows. It was never seen again. Inquiry made by the Russian authorities when the explorers failed to return on schedule time developed from the Indians the story given above."

MESSAGE TO MEN

Proving that True Honesty and True Philantrophy still Exists.

If any man who is weak, nervous and debilittaed, or who is suffering from any of the various troubles resulting from youthful folly, excesses or overwork, will take heart and write to me, I will send him confidentially and free of charge the plan pursued by which I was completely restored to perfect health and manhood, after years of suffering from Nervous Debility, loss of Vigor and Organic Weakness.

I have nothing to sell, and therefore want no money, but as I know through my own experience how to sympathize with such sufferers, I am glad to be able to assist any fellow-beings to a cure. I am well aware of the prevalence of quackery, for I myself was deceived and imposed upon until I nearly lost faith in mankind but I rejoice to say that I am now perfectly well and happy once more and am desirous therefore to make this certain means of cure known to all. If you will write to me you can rely upon being cured and the proud satisfaction of having been of great service to one in need will be sufficient reward for my trouble. Absolute secrecy assured. Send 5c silver to cover postage and address Mr. G. Strong, North Rockland, Mich. 135 p&w.
