WEST EUROPE MAY PRODUCE SURPLUS OF PAPER BY 1965

By JOSEPH MACFARLANE
UNITED NATIONS (CP) — Western Europe may produce a substantial "surplus" of paper, including newsprint, by 1965, says a study prepared by the Food and Agricultural Organization.

But this could be quickly wiped out in following years if Western Europe's economy continues to expand.

The study is expected to be issued early next year but a preliminary report was put out at United Nations headquarters in New York Thursday night on the basis of a statement by an FAO spokesman in Rome earlier this week.

No countries are mentioned but the report is expected to have interest in Canada, prime exporter of newsprint and other products.

Preliminary results of the study, financed by pulp and paper industries of Western Europe, the United States, Canada, Chile and Argentina, were discussed at a recent Rome meeting of the FAO pulp and paper advisory committee.

The committee is composed largely of industry representatives and met under the chair-

Bruce Acclaimed For Great Effort

By PAUL WESTERBROOK
LONDON (CP) — Buoyant with the lessons learned in losing his "greatness" race, Canada's Bruce Kidd few home to Toronto Sunday.

In a tugging, seasaw contest Saturday at White City Stadium, the ex-patier boy finished second in an international field of 18, a scant four yards behind barefoot Bruce Tulloh of Portsmouth who completed the three miles in 13:16.

Kidd's time of 13:17 was a national record for Canada.

"He learned a lot on Saturday," said coach Fred Foot just before boarding a Trans-Canada Air Lines aircraft for the home-ward flight.

Martin Lyman of Portsmouth, who cut out the fast early pace, said later that Kidd is the fastest ten-age distance runner he has ever seen.

"You ran great and you have great talent to run," he told the Canadian.

Tulloh ran despite an injury suffered Friday when he caught his hand in a combine harvester.

RIN DIFFERENT RACE
Kidd, questioned about the fact that around the half-way mark he appeared to be flagging slightly.

"Back home we start fast, take it easy in the middle and slow, somebody else comes up and takes the lead."

The young Canadian caught the eye of British sports writers.

Former track star Christopher Braithwaite was the observer that it was "another run on the road to Tokyo" for the 18-year-old Canadian. Braithwaite says that the Olympic Games there in 1964 may show Kidd to be one of the "all-time great athletes."

In a separate article Braithwaite compares the Canadian with one of the great distance runners of the post-war era, Czechoslovakia's Emil Zatopek.

Repercussions From Austerity Facing Gov't In Repayments

By ALAN DONNELLY
OTTAWA (CP) — One repercussion of the government's austerity program faces the government itself in the form of higher interest rates for its borrowing.

Once all these bills are turned over at the higher rate, the cost of the government's borrowing will be added to annual interest costs, assuming treasury bill rates remain at present levels.

The examination flows from the movement's rapid growth. It now has attracted about 40,000,000 in individual savings — about 15 per cent of the public's total dollar savings, while Canada savings bonds are excluded.

Commission members indicated at a hearing Friday that their concern is not only over how this money is being invested but the protection of credit union members, but the measurement of the liquidity in relation to monetary policy.

SIR WINSTON AIDED MOUSE

LONDON (AP) — Sir Winston Churchill once took a paint brush to touch up a picture by Rubens, Lord Casey reports in memoirs published here.

The book of the 76-year-old Australian statesman gave this account:

The Rubens painting in involved was The Lion and the Mouse. It hangs in the great hall of Chequers, the official country residence of British prime ministers.

The picture illustrates the Aesop fable of the lion trapped in a net and the tiny mouse which seeks to gnaw it free. During the Second World War, the mouse became a symbol for Churchill, Casey said. It reminded him of Britain in mortal combat. He drew impatient with the puny efforts of the mouse.

In 1941, when the war was in some of its darkest days, Churchill took out his brush, mounted a ladder and strengthened the mouse.

Neither the book nor reviews of the work stated how Churchill strengthened the mouse. But he presumably made the brushwork bolder.

Car Is Ditched But None Injured

MONTAGUE — A 1952 Meteor sedan left the paved high way near Milltown Cross and landed in a ditch over the weekend. There was no report of injuries and the vehicle, believed owned in Belle River, did not appear to have suffered much damage.

Deal For Subs May Be Shelved

By DAVE McINTOSH
OTTAWA (CP) — Canada's proposed submarine deal with Britain may be washed out by the austerity program, a reliable source said here.

Defence Minister Harkness announced three months ago that three Oboron class conventional submarines would be purchased from Britain "subject to satisfactory completion of negotiations with the British government."

The negotiations concern British purchases of defence equipment in Canada of approximately equal value to the $20,000,000 submarine order.

The Canadian government is particularly anxious to sell the CL-44 cargo transport plane to Britain. The CL-44 is made by Canadian Limited, Montreal. However, the Royal Air Force rejected the idea.

COULD CANCEL DEAL
Since then, the source said, there have been no negotiations. In the meantime, the austerity program, including a $20,000,000 cut in government spending in a full year, has been imposed. It could cancel the submarine deal, the source added.

and about 20,000,000 tons in 1970.

The estimated 1965 surplus thus might be quickly wiped out should the economic development of western Europe continue at its recent rapid rate.

FAO officials have stated a potential market for any surplus, but probably could not afford to spend their foreign exchange to any great extent.

The study also indicated that Western Europe would have a surplus of woodpulp by 1965 on the long run would be an importer of this commodity.

SEE SURPLUS

Total production — as against requirements of about 25,500,000 in the same year was estimated at 25,600,000 tons.

"The exportable surplus might thus be somewhat over 2,000,000 tons," the report says.

"A substantial part of this surplus would develop in the newsprint sector, where the potential production in 1965 might exceed the internal requirements by some 700,000 tons, as compared with the present net exports of only 200,000 tons."

The study also indicates that requirements for paper and pulp in Western Europe will continue to rise in the next few years — but not as fast as production capacity.

However, the FAO spokesman in Rome said there are indications the situation as outlined for 1965 might change drastically in the following five-year period.

Paper and board requirements, the study showed, would continue to grow rapidly and reach nearly 30,000,000 tons in 1970.
