Murray Harbor North and Vicinity

Miss Abbie Collings has returned to her home at Alberry Plains after spending the winter months with her sister and brother-in-law Mr. and Mrs. Edward Millar.

Mrs. Chester Reynolds, Murray River, was a recent visitor to Murray Harbor North, guest of Mr. and Mrs. Willard McLure.

An enjoyable evening was spent at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Clow on Tuesday, April 25th when a large number of friends and relatives gathered to honor Mr. and Mrs. Weston Johnston with a miscellaneous shower. Mr. Harry Millar called the group to order and after a few brief remarks the gifts were opened by Miss Pricilla Reid and Mrs. James McLure and the accompanying verses were read by Miss Alice Millar. Mr. Johnston on behalf of his wife and himself thanked one and all present for their lovely gifts after which all joined in singing "For they are jolly good fellows."

The evening was spent in dancing music being furnished by Messrs. Otis Jackson and Preston Jackson. Refreshments were served by the ladies.

Several small craft were in Georgetown Harbour on Saturday, April 26th, unloading cargoes of herring for the various lobster packers, which will be used as lobster boat. The herring were taken on board in the Magdeline Islands.

Something in the nature of unusual happenings took place last week when Mr. Victor Rafuse, on a trip to Boughton Island, picked two buckets of beautiful and excellently preserved cranberries. Those berries were under water all winter, which accounts for their unusual excellent condition.

The Easter thanksgiving service of the Woman's Missionary Society was held in the United Church on Thursday evening, Mrs. W. A. Paterson, President of the Auxiliary conducted the service. The Mission Band under the leadership of Miss Janie Llewellyn gave some readings, duets, and exercises, which were very much enjoyed. Those taking part were: Marie Larsen, Jean LeLacheur, Linda Llewellyn, Ruth LeLacheur, Bruce MacLean, Beth Allen, Billy Lavers, Donna Llewellyn, Wayne Llewellyn, John Allen, and David Hartman. The auxiliary programme was then introduced by Mrs. Paterson, who made some remarks on the work of the W. M. S. The duet "Just As I Am," was very sweetly sung by Mrs. C. N. Llewellyn and Miss Mary Stewart. Readings were given by Mrs. Fred Allen, Mrs. Thomas Trenholm, Mrs. N. W. Hansen, Mrs. Spurgeon Walker and Mrs. W. W. MacLaren and a dialogue by Mrs. Paterson and Miss Janie Llewellyn. A demonstration was given by Mrs. Mary Yorston and a poem "Stitches For Korea," was given by Mrs. George White. The Easter offering was very satisfactory. Miss Sadie MacLeod and Mrs. Edward Easton were the accompanists. Rev. Mr. Paterson spoke on the New Training School to be built and brought a very fine service to a close with the benediction.

A Country Garden

away back in the very dawn of history. None of our garden plants has enjoyed such constant favour as the Daffodil, because even in these old years it was greatly prized as a decorative flower. In addition to the garden forms, many hundreds of them, they grow as wild flowers from Spain and Morocco through the Mediterranean region and northern Europe to the western boundaries of the old Chinese Empire. They are of easy cultivation and here in this garden are very lovely with a border of blue Scillas and the Forsythia branches covered with golden bells. These daffodils are planted in a sunny corner on the upper terrace with the evergreen hedge as a background and a good view of the river down below and all along for miles to the sea.

The Seasons

Along these blushing borders bright with dew,
And in your mingled wilderness of flowers,
Fair-handed Spring unbosoms every grace;
Throws out the snow-drop and the crocus first;
The daisy, primrose, violet darkly blue,
The polyanthus of unnumbered dyes;
The yellow wallflower, stained with iron brown,
And lavish stock, that scents the garden round;
From the soft wing of vernal breezes shed,
Anemones, ariculas, enriched With shining meal, o'er all their velvet leaves;
And full ranunculus of glowing red.
Then comes the tulip-race, where beauty plays
Her idle freaks: from family diffuse
To family, as files the father-dust,
The varied colours run; and, while they break
On the charmed eye, the exulting florist marks
With secret pride the wonders of his hand.
No gradual bloom is wanting—from the bud
First-born of Spring to Summer's musky tribes:
Nor hyacinths, of purest virgin white,
Low bent and blushing inward; nor Jonquils,
Of potent fragrance; nor narcissus fair,
As o'er the fabled fountain hanging still;
Nor broad carnations, nor gay-spotted pinks;
Nor showered from every bush, the damask rose;
Infinite numbers, delicate, smelly,
With hues on hues expression cannot pain,
The breath of nature, and her endless bloom.

—James Thompson.

A Medley Of Thoughts

(The following lines were written March 20, 1952, but due to the author's illness, publication was delayed till now.)

When winter came it brought us chills
And storms to blizzards wild,
Which hid from view the lovely hills
On which I played when but a child.
All native born of course do know
Whether living there or far have strayed,
The "Island" has its share of snow
Thus Nature's law must be obeyed.
This winter was an actor rare—
Doing bold and daring stunts,
Imposed upon the warm lands fair
A taste of what the "Isle" confronts.

Most Island folks are not aroused
At seeing fields in blankets white,
They are prepared and warmly housed,
And deem the snow a welcome sight.

For the grass roots it will cover
While they slumber and await
Nature's calling, winter is over!
Spring is here, you must awake!

This is St. Joseph's day, Spring's beginning
When the swallows fly back to Capistrano
When the Mission bells are ringing
For the Angelus sweet and low.

It fills my heart with love and longing
To roam the hills of Montague,
To see once more at early dawning
The rising sun's rich golden hue.

Then I'd look for flowers I knew
In the Oh, so long long ago,
There's where the May flowers
shyly grew
Neath the leaf mold creeping low.
Near Vessey's creek where laden hills
With wild flowers scented sweetly,
Which in childhood gave us thrills
Of joy in Spring time so completely.

Neath the green and shady bow
On the mossy green sward soft—
In the morn' or evening hour,
We would linger there so oft!

Old memories that so warmly burn
Shall never pass away,
So oft' for the smile of a chum I yearn
At the close of a long, long day.

Portland, 5, Maine.
Formerly of Montague.
