Further to last week's notice from the Canada Employment Centre on Campus, the above acronym stands for WHERE DO I GO FROM HERE WITH MY LIFE? It is the title of a book written by Richard N. Bolles.

Come and hear an audio tape of Mr. Bolles relating to job-hunting and career changing on Tuesday, February 21st at 2:30 p.m. in Room 01 of the Main Building.

The Career Centre has a number of other books relating to the job hunt for those of you who wish to learn more about the process.

Feel free to use it.

the course, the cross-listing would allow History majors access to his services while they fulfilled their major requirements.

But, as Keefe pointed out, the course involves more lectures by speakers from disciplines other than history than by historians.

The discussion eventually focussed on whether or not there was sufficient history content in Canadian Studies 201-202 to prevent a weakening of the History major if it was cross-listed.

Smitheram dismissed this, saying the cross-listing was meant to have a "broadening effect" on those majoring in History.

He warned that the History department might want to create its own Atlantic History course if the motion was defeated, and reminded Senators that the university was under a "constraint not to proliferate courses."

APC chair Black told Senators that these specific points had not been raised in Committee meetings.

Smitheram finally suggested the tabling of the motion for further discussion with the History faculty.

Dr. David Weale, the historian who co-ordinates the course, said he supports the cross-listing, and believes the course does have sufficient historical content to be of value to History students.

Gov't releases survey of 1982 grads

CHARLOTTETOWN, P.E.I. — Industry Minister Pat Binns has announced the release of a publication entitled "The Handbook of Labour Market Outcomes of 1982 Graduates."

The Publication is the second of what will be an annual report prepared by the Prince Edward Island Department of Industry.

Binns said the handbook is based on a survey of 1982 graduates from the University of Prince Edward Island, from Holland College post-secondary courses, Canada Employment and Immigration sponsored courses, and the Prince Edward Island Department of Education Vocational High School Courses.

Included in the handbook are course descriptions as well as statistics on graduates from each course, employed, unemployed, their average weekly wage and occupation.

As well, figures from the 1981 graduate follow-up survey are presented so comparisons can be made between 1981 and 1982 graduates success.

"The results presented in the handbook are very encouraging," noted Binns, "especially when one looks at the numbers employed and sees that 85% of the 1982 post secondary graduates and 81% of the university graduates who had answered the survey, had found employment."

(Editor's note: How many were underemployed?)

"Given our current economic circumstances, it is important that publications such as the "Handbook of Labour Market Outcomes for 1982 Graduates" be produced", said Binns, "so that the public, and in particular our youth, will be aware of available career choices and possibilities.

Copies of the handbook can be obtained from either the Department of Industry, 4th floor Shaw Building or Island Information Service, Jones Building, 11 Kent Street, Charlottetown, P.E.I.
