Carrying Corpses on the I. C. R.

(St. John Gazette.)
The rules of the I. C. R., in regard to the carrying of corpses, do not seem to be generally known. The Charlottetown EX-AMINER, in speaking of the case of Miss Carrie Aitken, of P. E. Island, who died recently in Boston of typhoid fever, said:
"Her friends in Boston decided upon bringing her remains home for interment, and after getting as far as St. John the authorities refused to allow the body to be taken further, and ordered it to be sent back to Boston on account of the nature of the disease of which she died."

As this case has excited some comment, a Gazette reporter made enquiries of Station Master Robertson about it. Mr.
Robertson says that the body was in charge of some friends of the deceased young lady's brother. The railway between St. John and Boston had brought the body along in the baggage car, but the regulation on the I. C. R. in regard to such cases is different.
Mr. Robertson informed the parties in charge of the body that according to the Intercolonial regulations the body would have to be forwarded from St. John to Pictou in a box car, for which they would have to pay at the rate of $5 for ten miles for the journey, and ten cents added for each additional mile.

The men in charge of the body were not willing to provide for the additional expense, so they telegraphed to Mr. Aitken in Boston, and as Mr. Robertson supposed, had the body sent back to Boston in consequence of the answer to their telegram.

Further unpleasant occurrences of this kind might be avoided if the public were aware of the I. C. R. regulations in regard to the carrying of corpses. The regulations are as follows:—

"A first class full fare card or book ticket will be required for a corpse, without regard to age, and (if in good condition) it may be carried in a passenger train baggage car. It must be accompanied by an adult person in charge, with a physician's certificate or a board of health permit certifying the deceased did not die of a contagious or infectious disease. The certificate must also state the name of the disease or the nature of the casualty which caused death.
Corpses of persons who have died of contagious or infectious diseases, such as typhoid fever or diphtheria, are not to be received for transportation excepting when enclosed in hermetically sealed cases. They are carried in freight trains only, and in a car by themselves, the rate of transportation being $5 for ten miles and 10 cents added for each additional mile carried."

An Interesting Case.
An interesting case will be ventilated in the Halifax Supreme Court at its next sitting. Ten years ago George Umlah, of Halifax, adopted a young girl aged (at that time) 8 years. The mother, Mrs. William Robinson, widow, surrendered all claim to her child in writing and left for Boston where she remained up to a month ago.
The girl died two months ago at St. Margaret's Bay, and at her death left near $2,000, saved during her life. The girl made no will, but verbally requested that the money be divided between the members of the Umlah family. The mother now claims the money, on the ground that as her daughter left no will, she is rightful heir or next of kin. Mr. Umlah claims that the mother surrendered all claim to any property her daughter might possess when she signed the paper above referred to, and also that the dying words of a person are as binding as a written will. The case is the first of its kind that has ever been adjudicated in Nova Scotia.—Herald.

Some Food Figures.
Statistics are not always dull, and the following, collected by an industrious Parisian, are certainly both interesting and curious. According to this Frenchman the average Parisian consumes during his lifetime 1,800 lb. of bread and 1,000 lb. of meat, and these he washes down with 57 barrels of wine, 400 litres of alcohol about 100 litres of beer, and an equal quantity of cider. He also absorbs 11,160 eggs, 1,600 lb. of fish, 1,800 lb. of oil (1,800 lb. of salt, and 20,000 lb. of vegetables. Seeing that the civilization of a nation is measured by its consumption of salt and soap, the 1,800 lb. of salt speaks well for the Parisian; but what about the oil and the alcohol? The next item in the statistician's account would furnish a vegetarian with a text for a sermon. It states that every inhabitant of the French capital, on an average, is the grave, in the course of his lifetime, of three kids, six quails, six thrushes, six hares, nine turkeys, eighteen partridges, eighteen geese, twenty-four ducks, thirty-three swallows, seventy-eight pigeons, ninety-three rabbits, and two hundred and ten pullets. It is a pity the number of frogs and snails have not been added to the menu.

Dyspeptics Will Rejoice.
Attention is called to the advertisement of "Dyspeptiure" which appears to-day.
"Dyspeptiure" has been a valued household remedy for a number of years in St. John, and without any advertising, has been well known in nearly every part of the Maritime Provinces. That it is so well known is due to its wonderful success in really curing not only indigestion and all ordinary stomach troubles, but the worst cases of Chronic Dyspepsia. There are thousands upon thousands of Chronic Dyspeptics who have used so many remedies without success that they will hardly believe a cure is possible; these are exactly the ones that are particularly requested to try the remedy.
The pamphlet [copyrighted] on "Dyspeptiure," giving a history of its discovery and full of information about diet and digestion, is wrapped around each bottle or will be promptly sent free to any address. The fact of "Dyspeptiure" having been thoroughly tested for ten years and being prepared by a responsible druggist, Charles K. Short [Graduate Mss. College Pharmacy Boston] of St. John, N. B., recommends this remedy

Local and Other Items.

SUDDEN DEATH.—Edward O'Brien, of North street, St. John, on Saturday morning, got up, lit the fire, and complaining of a pain in the head, lay down on the bed.
In a few minutes he was dead. Deceased was 66 years of age.

TRAIN DERAILED.—The Cape Breton railway train was derailed last Thursday near Orangetown, and all the engines on the Cape Breton railway were called into requisition to assist the derailed train, and all, four in number, went over an embankment, and passengers were obliged to go to Mulgrave by stage.

NO MODERN EFFEMINACY.—Parrishor-Leader: Three children of Mr. Kendrick, of Black Rock, one a little girl of ten, and all attending the primary department of the High School, walk four miles every morning and night for the purpose of attending school in the town—there being none in their own section. Is there not a lesson in this to some of us of living up to our privileges?

GOT THIRTY DAYS.—A Connecticut man has just been sentenced to jail for 30 days for having stolen a kiss, notwithstanding that he offered to restore it to the young woman from whom he snatched it. The law on kissing in Connecticut is rather severe. It provides that no man shall kiss a girl against her will, and one of the old blue laws says a man shall not kiss his wife on Sunday. Perhaps this explains why Connecticut isn't growing any faster.

HIGH TIDE.—At St. John, N. B., on Monday, the tide reached a height never before known there, nearly a foot higher than at the time of the Saxby gale. Much damage was done to stocks in the shops and warehouses, and many wharves were badly torn up. The railway trestle work, the property of the St. John Bridge and Railway Extension Company, was damaged about $2,000. A terrific wind and rainstorm prevailed all the day.

THE WAY OF THE TRANSGRESSOR.—The Amherst Press says: Scott Act Inspector Casey and Constables Petches and Brenton paid a visit to Maccau before daylight this morning, and caged a Scott Act offender.
They found their man in the attic, and in the rummaging the light was kicked out, a pistol fired, and the man attempted to escape by the back door in the confusion, but failed, as Mr. Casey had taken the precaution to secure the door on the outside before entering.

WAS THERE FOUL PLAY?—The Transcript says: The mysterious disappearance of Joseph Bicherton from Sackville, some time ago, and the failure to gain any tidings of his whereabouts, is causing much anxiety to his friends. That he has met with foul play is scarcely thought possible, yet there are rumors afloat, though not credited by many. Still there should be some means put in force to unravel the mystery.

A SAGACIOUS ANIMAL.—The 15-year-old daughter of Isaac Hastings, of Monongahela, W. Va., was in a room alone warning a cloth with which to ease an aching tooth a few days ago, when her clothing caught fire and she was burned to death.
The family shepherd dog, moved by her screams, rushed at her and fought the fire with wonderful sagacity, tearing the clothing from her with paws and mouth until both were severely injured and much of the faithful creature's hair was singed off.

ACCIDENTALLY BURNED.—The Moncton Times says: Miss Edna Northrup, daughter of C. E. Northrup, had the side of her face and right arm very severely burned on Saturday evening, from the explosion of a bottle of kerosene oil which she was using in kindling a fire. The consequences might have been a good deal more serious had it not been for the prompt action of her sister, who wrapped a cloak about her and smothered the fire which had caught in her clothing. The latter also had her hands quite badly burned in saving her sister.

HE SWALLOWED HIS TEETH.—The Amherst Press says: It is generally conceded that swallowing false teeth is not a very pleasant undertaking. The last attempt was made last evening by a traveller on the C. P. R., coming from Moncton towards Amherst. The teeth got fast in his windpipe, and for some time it seemed a serious matter. One of the Amherst physicians was telegraphed for, to meet him at the train upon his arrival at Amherst, but fortunately the man had succeeded in recovering the wayward incisors.

THE 1, 2, 3, 4, 5.—The Canadian Fireside Week is out with another grand prize competition to increase its circulation, in which 300 valuable prizes are offered. This is no puzzle or trick, and requires no searching in dictionaries or books of any kind. It is ingenious, but simple, and has never before been offered by any paper. A child of eight can win as easily as a college professor.
Among the prizes are bicycles, tricycles, $100 cash, furniture, silverware, jewelry, summer trips—prizes for men, women, boys and girls, 300 in all. Send at once for sample copy, with full particulars and list of prizes, to Adelaide street west, Toronto, Ont. Mention this paper.

FROZEN TO DEATH.—Medicine Lodge, Kan., advices of the 4th are as follows:
Two brothers named Bell, aged 22 and 9 years, and a sister 19 years old, attended a meeting near there Wednesday night, and a blizzard arose as they started for home.
When 200 yards from home they drifted south about a quarter of a mile and took refuge in a canyon, where they were soon covered by snow. Thursday morning the elder brother crawled out to get home. He was soon frozen. The younger brother froze to death later. Friday morning the bodies of the young men were found, who had been out 36 hours, badly frozen. The girl did not know her brothers were dead. She is
