DIVORCE PLEA FAILS

LONDON (Reuters) — A woman failed Friday to get a divorce on grounds that her husband's being a Communist constituted cruelty. Lilian Ingram had complained that her six children were being branded Communists because her husband, William, ran unsuccessfully as a Communist in a local election. The Ingrams have been married for 25 years.

Top Track Coach Charged For Utilization Of Drugs

By JERRY GLADMAN

TORONTO (CP)—Fred Foot of Toronto, chairman of the central Ontario branch of the Amateur Athletic Union, said Friday an investigation is under way into charges that Lloyd Percival had given his track and field athletes drugs.

Foot confirmed a report that a letter had been sent by Bill Crothers, world's outstanding middle distance runner, to the secretary of the Central Ontario Track and Field Association, charging that Percival had given his athletes stimulants and sedatives and the athletes had used the drugs.

Percival, track coach at the Don Mills club, denied the charges and asked that a full investigation be carried out by an impartial body.

Foot, who is Crothers' coach at the East York Track Club, said:

"The AAU is carrying out an investigation of these charges."

The case has been forwarded to Pete Beach, national track and field chairman of the AAu.

Beach was not available when called at his office Friday.

STORY PUBLISHED

The story first came to light Friday in a world copyrighted story by Telegram sports writer Al Sokol.

The letter, sent to the Central Ontario Track and Field Association March 31, says:

"I have knowledge, even proof, that Mr. Lloyd Percival is giving his athletes stimulants, notably dexedrine, and sedatives, for example uitnal, and that his athletes are accepting them and using these drugs."

Crothers also charged that the drugs have been used for a number of years, "including Canadian championships, and international competitions by members of his club, and he was the source of these drugs."

The Markham pharmacist requested that a hearing be held and that "some definite action be taken."

Percival, who was nominated for the job of coach of the Canadian contingent to the British Empire Games in Jamaica but lost out to Paul Poce of Toronto, said he is being guided by legal counsel.

WANTS NAME CLEARED

"I want to clarify my position in this and disprove these charges. This is not the first time it has come up but I definitely want it to be the last.

"What I would welcome most is a full investigation by an impartial body. I'm fed up with these accusations and innuendoes and I'm not going to be satisifed by having my wrists slapped after what my family, my athletes and their parents have been through this month."

He said that at no time during the existence of the Don Mills club "did I administer, supply or make available dexedrine or benzedrine to any athlete for the purpose of improving performances."

He said the only time dexedrine was given was to the former Don Mills discus and shot put star, Nancy McCredie, and this was during non-competition days and on the prescription of a doctor.

BILL CROTHERS — LLOYD PERCIVAL

ASKED DETAILS

Percival said he attended a meeting April 25 of five central Ontario directors, attended also by Crothers and Bob Meldrum, coach of the Tigerette track club and a former Percival pupil. Crothers and Meldrum were asked to amplify the charges.

The Telegram says Meldrum testified at the meeting that he had taken dexedrine and benzedrine while competing for Percival's club.

In a May 9 letter to the central Ontario executive committee, Percival said:

"Sworn evidence can be supplied which will, without a doubt, show the extreme prejudice, antagonism and irresponsibility of the major witnesses presented by the accuser (Crothers) and, in fact, of the accuser himself."

James Worrall, president of the Canadian Olympic Association, said his organization had known for some time "of the allegations against Mr. Percival and Bill Crothers' involvement in them."

HUNTER'S CORNER

Dry Hot Summer Likely; Beavers Are Preparing

This columnist is once again taking his cue from the beaver and predicting a hot, dry summer. On Monday evening I took a stroll over my property at Mount Albion. The first thing I noticed was the high water table. The old dam . . . the first one re-constructed in 1952 . . . and the original dam built on the property resembled a full sized lake . . . water all over the place. The last time it was checked the heavy sod covered embankment was a good two feet above the ordinary high water mark. Monday evening it was seeping over the heavy sod and alder studded bank and the bypass was plugged solid. Water was trickling through all over the place and finding its way by devious channels into the bypass bed. I opened up a track through the barrier but I knew it would be plugged solid as soon as I left the spot. Nature's top engineer was already circling around and giving 'back flips' that sent gysers of water six feet in the air.

ANOTHER SURPRISE

I had another surprise in store. The dam known as the Pats Ponds dam had doubled in size since my last visit. The Burns Spring was flooded completely over to a depth close to the two foot mark. I worked for an hour with a round point shovel digging out a sizeable opening but as soon as the old 'boss beaver' makes his rounds it will be plugged solid. I noticed also that in the ordinary creek bed small buffer dams have been constructed about one hundred yards apart. This dam got its name from the huge holes excavated by farmers digging black mud for use on the land and for mixture with ordinary farm manure. In those days farmers dug black mud in summer and mussel mud in winter. Commercial fertilizers were unknown in this bygone age. In winter I used to watch the loaded sleighs coming from Pownal Bay. One farmer, James Myers . . . we called him Jim . . . had four horses and wood sleighs and in my mind's eye I can see him sitting on the lead sleigh and the three other horses following close behind.

In the deepening dusk I followed a trail to where my car was parked a good mile distant. It was a trail bordered by stately spruce whose spires pointed to a night tinged sky. I thought back to the old days with a twinge of nostalgia to the time when fields of grain bordered this same trail and Paddy White and his 'reaper' were at work and I was thrilled by the deft manner he could bind sheaves by hand. He'd scoop up a couple of sections of cut grain . . . give the ends with the grain attached a couple of twists . . . pick up a sheaf of unbound grain and give with a couple of deft twists and presto . . . there was a tightly bound sheaf.

WOODS SILENT

It was a silent woodland through I walked. No covies of 'Native partridge' crossed my path . . . no chit chat of chickadees or rat-a-tat tat of woodpeckers seeking grubs in dead, or dying, trees . . . no harsh scream of a blue jay or half grown rabbits scampering across the trail. One lone black duck was all the wildlife I glimpsed. I did see the hind foot of a rabbit lying beside the path. A fox enjoyed a meal during the season when they were white. I am very much afraid our rabbit hunting enthusiasts will have to travel farther afield with each passing season. Rabbit hunting will soon be a memory only if our rabbit population continues its decline. I have talked to farmers in far away areas and they stated that rabbits are losing ground with each passing season in areas where they were formerly counted in hundreds and not twos and threes.

McCurdy Has Hole In One

Al McCurdy recorded the first official hole-in-one to be recorded at the Belvedere Golf and Winter Club yesterday afternoon as he aced the 165 yard sixteenth hole. McCurdy, playing with pros Bubby Dowling, and Gerald Burgoyne along with Ron Giggey used a five iron and a Campbell Polly Dyne ball to accomplish his feat.

Pro Bubby Dowling announced last evening also that today is the first playing date for the Presidents match.

Indianapolis Speedway Expecting Near Capacity

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (AP)— The last practice session Friday of 500-mile race at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway followed a month - long script. Mario Andretti again ran faster than anybody else.

The little Italian-born driver from Nazareth, Pa., practised at 160.6 miles an hour in the final carburetion tests, indicating he expects to race at that speed Monday. He qualified at a record 165.899 but not with full fuel tanks.

Arnie Knepper of Belleville, Ill., was the surprise of the final three-hour session, running his Indianapolis-built Cecil-Ford at 160.514. That wasnfaster than his 10-mile qualifying run, 159.440.

Jimmy Clark of Scotland, last year's winner, had some valve trouble which probably will be cured before Monday and ran no faster than 156.

A. J. Foyt of Houston, 1961 and 1964 winner, and Jim Hurtubise of North Tonawanda, N.Y., former qualification record holder, were nagged on the track for leaking oil.

Dan Gurney of Costa Mesa, Calif., whose new all-American Eagle Venture has five cars in the field, was running smoothly a little over 157 m.p.h.
