Notes and Comments.

The Young Memorial Fund is closed, and the subscriptions aggregate upwards of two thousand five hundred dollars.

The party of the minority in the United States is now controlling both the Legislation and Administration of the States.

Report of the French Budget Committee of Finance show that the estimated debt of the country is 300,000,813 francs of nominal capital, and 22,825,043,990 francs of actual capital, the nominal interest being 3.48 per cent.

Official figures issued by the Montreal live stock exchange show that 123,627 cattle and 43,739 sheep were exported from Canadian ports to Great Britain during the past season.

The Mercier regime in Quebec began with the promise of retrenchment in the expenditure, and with an assurance that the Treasurer's estimate of the cost of the public service would not be exceeded.

The failure of the Philadelphia banking firm of Barker Brothers & Co. reminds the Montreal Star of a page of history of passing interest to the people of Canada.

In the latter part of 1877 and the beginning of 1878 there seemed every probability of war breaking out between Great Britain and Russia.

The Week reports that, thanks to the liberality of William Mulock, M. P., Vice-Chancellor of the University of Toronto, the people are likely to be among the foremost in proving the virtues of Dr. Koch's great medical discovery.

League of the Cross.—The Summer-side Journal reports that at a meeting of St. Paul's League of the Cross, held on the 30th ult., the following officers were elected: John Gaffney, President; J. B. Strong, 1st Vice-President; S. M. Bent, 2nd Vice-President; Walter T. Wickham, Recording Secretary; Charles Murphy, Corresponding Secretary; Capt. D. McKinnon, Treasurer; Nathan J. Higgins, Sergeant-at-Arms.

The Ship Railway.—A gentleman just returned from Nova Scotia says that work is progressing splendidly in the Chignecto Ship Railway. Six hundred men will be kept at work all winter.

Steamers' Movements.—The St. Lawrence left here for Pictou at the usual hour this morning.

The Princess of Wales will not leave Pictou until the weather moderates.

PARNELL'S MANIFESTO

GLADSTONE'S CONTRADICTION.

Opinions of Archbishop Croke and the British Press.

LONDON, Nov. 29.—Mr. Parnell's manifesto is in part as follows:

TO THE IRISH PEOPLE:—The integrity and independence of a section of the Irish parliamentary party having been apparently sapped and destroyed by the wire pullers of the Liberal party, it has become necessary for me, as leader of the Irish party, to take counsel with you, having given you the knowledge which is in my possession, to ask your judgment upon a matter which now solely devolves upon you to decide.

In November last year, in response to a repeated and long-standing request, I visited Mr. Gladstone at Hawarden and received the details of the intended proposals of himself and his colleagues of the late Liberal cabinet with regard to Home Rule in the event of the next general election favoring the Liberal party.

1. The retention of Irish members in the Imperial Parliament.

2. The settlement of the land or agrarian difficulty in Ireland.

3. The control of the Irish Constabulary.

4. The appointment of the judiciary, including judges of the supreme court, county court judges and resident magistrates.

Upon the subject of the retention of Irish members in Parliament Mr. Gladstone told me that the opinion—and the unanimous opinion—of his colleagues and himself, recently arrived at after the most mature consideration of alternative proposals, was that, in order to conciliate English public opinion, it would be necessary to reduce Irish representation from 103 to 32.

Mr. Parnell then states his own views and position in respect to these points. These were, of course, not in accord with those of Mr. Gladstone. His desire is the concession of full powers to an Irish Legislature equivalent to those enjoyed by a state of the American Union.

ger Home Rule. But even if the danger with which we are threatened by the Liberal party of to-day were to be realized, I believe the Irish people throughout the world would agree with me that postponement would be preferable to a compromise of our national rights by the acceptance of a measure which would not realize the aspirations of our race.

I have the honor to remain your faithful servant, CHARLES STEWART PARNELL. GLADSTONE'S DENIAL.

Gladstone has issued a reply to Parnell's manifesto, in which he denies in toto the statement made by the Irish leader in regard to the retention of the Irish members in the Imperial Parliament, the settlement of land or agrarian difficulty in Ireland, control of the Irish Constabulary and appointment of judiciary in Ireland.

MR. MORLEY'S STATEMENT.

Mr. Morley writes to the London press that the "manifesto of Parnell contains two or three statements affecting me, I desire to correct. I made no sort of attempt to fetter Parnell's action with reference to the land bill. Parnell imputes to me, in our conversation on November 10th, a remarkable proposal with the object of absorbing the Irish party into English politics by the means of office.

ARCHBISHOP CROKE SPEAKS.

Archbishop Croke, in his telegram to McCarthy, says: "All are sorry for Parnell, but still, in God's name, let him retire quietly and with good grace from the leadership. If he does so, the party will remain united; in honorable alliance with the Gladstonians success at the general elections will be assured, and Home Rule certain. If he does not, the alliance will be dissolved, elections lost, the party damaged and perhaps broken up, Home Rule in definitely postponed, coercion perpetuated, evicted tenants hopelessly crushed and public confidence outraged."

COMMENTS OF THE BRITISH PRESS.

Commenting upon the Parnell manifesto, the Standard believes it will deal a fatal blow to the prospects of the Home Rule party in England. It appeals with matchless directness to every ingrained prejudice and every potent passion of the Irish, not merely in Ireland, but of the Irish in America, who furnish the national movement with its life blood and its sinews.

The Chronicle says: "The manifesto will complete the disorganization of the opposition for the present, though it will have the effect of arousing popular indignation. Our opinion is Parnell has not quite gauged the situation. He is in error if he imagines that by wrecking the Gladstone party he will materially improve the prospects of Ireland."

The Telegraph says it would be surprised at the success of this attempt on Parnell's part to play off the Irish constituencies against the Irish party. If he should be deposed by his own party it is probable the Irish people would reverse such a decision and support him with passionate enthusiasm.

"A Member of Parliament" has an article in the European edition of the Herald this morning in which he says that events are still further shaping themselves toward a reunion of the Gladstonian party on the understanding that Home Rule be dropped out of the programme. The general opinion of Parnell's manifesto is that it will strengthen him in Ireland, though it may do little for him in England.

An important section of the Parnellites met in the Commons last night and resolved to take active steps to combat the influence of the manifesto, resenting its appearance as a breach of faith. A decision was arrived at and the meeting only adjourned in order to get the opinions of the delegates in America.

The Star (Home Rule), commenting on Parnell's manifesto, says it is the final act of suicide. Its malignant power and unscrupulousness, the deadly mischief of its purpose, and its frigid and calm style, invest with terrible force the spectacle of the death of a great public man.

The Pall Mall Gazette says the manifesto is as unscrupulous a document as ever a politician penned. Parnell hits below the belt, it says, but he is fighting for life.

The Dublin Freeman's Journal says the manifesto is a terrible reply to Gladstone's indiscreet and impudent letter to Morley, and that it falls like a bombshell upon Parnell's quondam and apparent allies.
