Speculation Mounts Re U.C. Moderator

OTTAWA: Election of a new moderator to head the 950,000 members of The United Church of Canada will be one of the first actions of that Church's highest court, the General Council, when it opens at Chalmers United Church, Ottawa, on Wednesday, September 17.

The present Moderator is a Montreal theologian, the Rt. Reverend James S. Thomson, one-time General Manager of the CBC. He will preside at the opening session of the General Council, and after the election of a new Moderator he will bear the title "The Very Reverend."

The Moderator serves for a period of two years. He not only presides over the meetings of the General Council but officiates in the "chief executive office" of the Church. In practice his executive functions are exercised by presiding over the meetings of the Executive and Sub-Executive of the General Council and attending, when possible, the annual meetings of the Boards of the United Church of Canada at States, civic and religious functions.

The Moderator may be relieved wholly or in part from his ordinary duties in order to travel extensively throughout the Church, giving spiritual leadership to the Church in its courts and congregations and gaining impressions which he may report to the next General Council. He receives no salary as Moderator but is given a travel allowance, and the salary which he receives for his regular work may be supplemented to the salary standard of a Secretary of a General Council Board.

The United Church is a thoroughly democratic body. Its duly elected representatives, assembled in the biennial sessions of the General Council, legislate for the Church and make Church pronouncements. No individual is authorized to speak the mind of the Church otherwise. Between the biennial meetings, the Executive of the General Council carries out its decisions and recommendations and deals with routine and emergency matters, and the Board of the Church follow its directions. United Church leaders offered these views on who will be chosen as the new Moderator. "He will not be from the headquarters office," said one. "The Westerners consider it is their turn," said another. "We no longer think in terms of former Methodists, Congregationalists or Presbyterians," said a third.

Some elements in the Church would like to see a layman elected. A few favour a woman Moderator. Some want a young man. Others have expressed a wish for a man from the rural church. "The new Moderator will certainly come from the pulpit," said one. Only a member of the General Council may be elected Moderator, and the delegates will nominate and elect any member of their choice when the Council meets in September.

Rumour Aid Planned For Wheat Growers TORONTO (CP) — The Globe and Mail says the federal government is "seriously considering" a $25,000,000 program of assistance to Western Canada wheat growers.

It says in an Ottawa dispatch the program will probably comprise a special $1-an-acre payment to a maximum of $200 for each farmer. The aid would probably be announced before the end of the current parliamentary session as "part of a Progressive Conservative parcel to give the session a strong upshot ending."

The Globe says the government has been exploring the possibility of making the payments under either the Prairie Farm Rehabilitation Act or the Prairie Farm Assistance Act without passing the new act.

New Sack Lines Shown in Paris PARIS (Reuters) — Balenciaga retains evolutions of the sack in his winter collection shown to the press Wednesday. The new sack takes on indications of the high-waist line, suggesting a bosomy effect through yoke treatment, and keeps hemlines up to knee length.

The basic shape remains loose, but gives a more definite indication of the body underneath. Balenciaga's coat treatments star the back - buttoned coat dress cut like a smock or chemise.

He does them with deep - set flat yokes and fullness gathered into a horizontal line across the ribcage with big bone buttons from neck to hem in back. Other highlights are the reversible coats, both in double-faced duveten and broadcloth fabrics, or fuzzy mohairs of contrasting color used in double thickness.

Mr. and Mrs. T.D. Williams and three children were the guests of Mrs. Williams' parents at Grand Tracadie recently. While on the Island, they visited Mr. Williams' sisters and brothers in Charlottetown. Before returning to their home in Petawawa, Ontario, Mr. and Mrs. Williams and family visited Mr. Williams' parents, Mr. and Mrs. J.R. Williams in Shemogue, N.B.

Camera Club Executive Has Plans For Re-Organization

Meeting on Tuesday evening at the home of the secretary, Mrs. E. J. Dockendorff, the executive of the Charlottetown Camera Club made plans for resuming activities. A social get-together for the evening of Sept. 15th at Dalvay Beach is being planned for present members and guests and also for any other intending to join the club. A nominating committee—

George Lewis, Vera Beck and president Roland Taylor—was appointed to bring in the new slate of officers at the first regular meeting on Sept. 29th. On the same night, "Flowers" in color will lead off in the competitions, and will be followed two weeks later by "Close-up" in black and white. A delicious lunch was served by the hostess at the close of the meeting.

Young PC's Plan Provincial Convention In City Sept. 17

The Young Progressive Conservatives of P. E. I. are planning to hold their annual convention on Sept. 17 in the Community Centre at Charlottetown. Federal Cabinet Ministers will be present as will also Douglas Jung of Vancouver, the national president of the Young Progressive Conservative organization.

At a meeting last evening, presided over by W. Chester S. MacDonald of Summerside, John Morris, Arthur McInnis, George Keys, Jr., and Lloyd MacPhail presented reports as committee chairman. It is expected that the afternoon and evening meetings of the convention will be attended by members from every polling division in the province.

Commons Ponders Censoring Books, Pictures And Records

OTTAWA (CP)—Spokesmen for all parties in the Commons agreed Wednesday the method of censoring books, pictures and records entering Canada is unsatisfactory but no one seemed to know what to do. Revenue Minister Nowlan, who has the final say on censoring such items, described the job as a "rather difficult and nasty task."

He had decided when taking over his job last year that he would have as little to do with censoring as possible. He had held numerous discussions with Justice Minister Fulton as to what might be done. But no final decisions had been reached, although legislation was on the list of this session's business that would send appeals from revenue department censoring rulings to the courts rather than, as now, to the tariff board. TAKES PART BLAME Opposition Leader Pearson agreed with Mr. Nowlan that the present system is "highly unsatisfactory" and said he must take his share of responsibility as a member of the former Liberal government that didn't do anything about the problem.

It was an "invidious" procedure, but as the minister had said, "somebody has to do it." The discussion arose as the House considered Mr. Nowlan's departmental spending estimates. Douglas Fisher (CCF - Port Arthur) asked how much time the department spends on censoring imported books and pictures.

Mr. Nowlan explained the procedure starts with the customs officer at the port of entry. If he thought the material was questionable he passed it on to his superior for study. If the superior agreed, the material was sent to the deputy minister's office in Ottawa. If the deputy minister found the material objectionable under the law prohibiting entry of obscene or seditious items, the final decision was left to the minister as to whether it should be allowed into the country.

DEVOTED LITTLE TIME "I certainly haven't spent a great deal of time on this," Mr. Nowlan said there hadn't been much of this type of material reaching his desk. But he said he believes his department is much better qualified to administer the seasonal duties on, say, cabbages than to exercise moral judgment on reading material.

As an example, he said his prospective calendar pictures were examined some time ago. Three were complete nudes and three were partly draped with a diaphanous material. Some customs personnel felt three complete nudes should be kept out of Canada while the other pictures should be allowed entry because they showed women partly clothed.

Other customs personnel, however, felt the nudes were all right, but that the partly-draped figures were posed indecently and therefore should be prohibited. It was so much a matter of individual opinion. It was "an unsatisfactory" way of applying censorship, but so far no new solution had been found.

HAIL LASHES ITALY ROME (Reuters) — A violent hailstorm in northern Italy Monday night severely damaged vineyards and other crops. Several thousand acres of cultivated land in the Lake Garda area was flattened by hailstones the size of small nuts. At some points crop destruction was estimated at 100 per cent.

Souris Blood Clinic Has 147 Donors But Misses Objective The Souris Legion Branch with Mr. Joseph Hennessey the President as Chairman of the Red Cross Donor Committee sponsored the Annual Clinic in St. Mary's Hall last evening. Souris had an objective of 175 to reach, but only 147 donors registered. Last year the objective of 175 was over-subscribed when 176 donors came forward, and the Committee had high hopes that this year's results would be even better than last.

Once again the Junior Ladies' Aid of the Souris Hospital headed the Committee which provided refreshments donated by the good ladies of Souris, and secured helpers for the Mobile Team. With 668 donors registered during the first three days on an objective of 800, the province is 132 donors behind in the quota. It is therefore imperative that there be a large attendance at the Souris River Clinic to be held this afternoon, and at the Montague Clinic to be held tonight at the Beaver Club Hall between 8 and 10 p. m.

Alaska Snaps Up Offer Of Statehood

JUNEAU, Alaska (AP)—Alaskans have snapped up the offer of statehood by a more than 5-to-1 vote, giving the U. S. its largest state and the first addition in 46 years. They swamped the territory's polling places in record numbers Tuesday, saying yes to statehood even more emphatically than expected. With about half the territory's 297 precincts reporting, the unofficial count for statehood was 22,214 to 4,291. The incomplete returns almost equalled the total of 28,903 votes cast in the 1956 general election, Alaska's previous high count.

Many polling places ran out of ballots and had to use samples or have fresh supplies of official forms flown in. TOTAL VOTE 40,000 Most advance estimates were that statehood would be approved 2 to 1—or slightly better—on a total vote of 35,000 and 40,000. The total seemed certain to reach that figure—but the margin was far greater than forecast.

Opposition to statehood, during more than a generation of argument on the question in the territory, came largely from residents who feared high taxes under statehood. Now only the formality of a presidential proclamation—probably in late December—is needed to add Alaska's star to the American flag. It will be the first new since Arizona and New Mexico were admitted in 1912.

BEIRUT (CP) — Skirmishes, similar to one in which a Canadian soldier was wounded Tuesday, continued between Lebanese rebels and government forces Wednesday. Four persons were killed. The Canadian, Sgt. Ralph Hall, regained consciousness Wednesday at the American University Hospital here. His name was taken off the danger list but his condition was still serious. Earlier a doctor said, "we think he will pull through."

There was no indication Hall was shot at deliberately. Hall and an unidentified Canadian driver ran into the shooting as their jeep approached a traffic circle. They were caught in the cross-fire between security forces and agitators from a Palestine refugee camp. Two Lebanese were killed and six injured in the clash. Hall, 26, has a wife, Vera, and a child living in Virden, Man. He was sent to the Middle East last fall in a rotation of Canadian troops attached to the UN force in the Gaza Strip.

A burst of shots struck Hall's jeep, flattening a tire and ripping through a fender and the canvas hood. Three shots coming through the roof struck Hall in the forehead above the right eye, in the right side of the jaw and in the chest. The driver, who was not hurt, drove half a mile on the flat tire to an American army unit.
