Is Hopeful Winter Fair Will Be Held This Year

BLACK RIVER, N.B. (CP)—President F. George MacLeod, of the Maritime Stock Breeders' Association which sponsors the Maritime winter fair at Amherst, said Monday night he is still hopeful there will be a fair this year.

He said however he did not think the fair's main building, destroyed by fire Sunday, could be repaired in time. He said the use of temporary facilities for this year's fair had been offered by both Fredericton and Saint John and it was possible one of these offers would be accepted.

The Stock Breeder's Association would meet with the fair commission and Amherst town council as soon as damage has been assessed by insurance adjusters. It was still too early to make further plans.

AMHERST (CP) — The town council and sponsors of the Maritime Winter Fair will meet here as soon as insurance adjustees detesmine the loss in a Sunday fise that badly damaged the fair's main building and destroyed a sports arena, it was learned Montay.

An informed source said a contract signed about 10 years ago between the Maritime Stock Breeders Association and the council obligates the town to replace the building in case of loss.

The town finance committee and insurance adjusters went through the wreckage Monday to determine the loss, estimated by town councillor E. J. Anderson at $500,000.

The building used to house main exhibits entered in the annual agricultural fair was insured for $100,000. The Bailey arena, winter home of the Amherst Ramblers hockey team, was insured for $180,000 and the ice - making plant for an extra $20,000.

COSTLY TO REPLACE

Replacement value of the arena, set last year by insurance appriasers, was $250,000, excluding the ice plant. Cost of replacing the exhibition building was estimated at about $150,000.

Whether or not the fair will be held this year is undecided. It is scheduled Nov. 1-8.

Informed sources said no other Maritime centre has heated buildings large enough to stage the show which annually involves hundreds of head of cattle and other livestock.

The three - hour blaze Sunday brought firefighters from five communities.

The fire broke out on a cattle-loading ramp and spread from the exhibition building to the 4,000-seat arena. Cause of the outbreak has not been determined.

SEAMEN SAVED

ADEN (AP) — Sixteen starving exhausted Italian seamen were rescued Friday by a Royal Navy ship in the Gulf of Aden after drifting for three days in a lifeboat. Picked up by the fleet auxiliary tanker Dingledale, they said they were the crew of a 1,300-ton Australian-owned ship, the Gieve, which foundered in a monsoon.

Rebels Threaten To Start Commando Raids In Beirut

By ALEX VALENTINE

BEIRUT, Lebanon (Reuters)—Lebanese rebel leaders Monday threatened to stage "commando raids" into the government-held area of Beirut.

The threats by the anti-government forces followed a weekend of forays from rebel-held Moslem quarters to plant bombs and open sniping attacks on government sentries.

"These skirmishes are only the opening rounds of a new - style campaign," a rebel leader said.

He added: "So far we have been limiting ourselves to sniping at soldiers and policemen, whereever they came under our gunsights. Now we have prepared a new operational plan—each night we shall send out a commando body to sabotage and generally harass the Chamoun forces."

The rebel decision is the latest in the revolt against the government led by President Camille Chamoun, which broke out on May 9 in the seaport of Tripoli. A United Nations report has rebutted government charges Syria has interfered in Lebanese internal affairs by massive aid to the rebels.

NEW TACTICS

The new rebel tactics, as displayed in the last few nights, apparently are to open diversionary fire at one part of their perimeter, then send out a raiding party from another place once the surrounding security forces have been drawn off.

Rebels Monday planted a bomb outside the Beirut house of Col. Anwar Karam, commander of the army in Tripoli and one of the soldiers most hated by the insurgents. Karam's wife and children were in the house at the time but were unharmed.

The government, continuing to insist that Syria is guilty of "massive interference," claimed that the bodies of two Syrians were discovered in the hills near Beirut after last week's fighting. Photographs and documents found on them were turned over to UN observers.

Meanwhile, rebel sources again denied there were any differences between the separate insurgent commands—north and south Lebanon and Beirut—and insisted that the "militant opposition still commands unimpaired solidarity."

They said that reported differences between the Druze rebels led by Kemal Jumblatt in the South and the Beirut command over alleged lack of Beirut rebel support for the southern drive on the International airport last week were "fictitious" and "government propaganda."

Jumblatt was believed to be angry over his losses in the Beirut attack—estimated at about 200 killed and wounded.

Island Boars Sire Record Litters In Other Provinces

The boar Woodstock Duke 8J, bred by Almon Boswall and now owned by Earl M. Hay, Melfort, Saskatchewan, is the sire of a litter which recently completed an Advanced Registry test with a slaughter test score of 97. This is the highest score ever made by any sow in Canada. This sow, Mile Post Neph 59L, is owned by G. Clark. Saskatoon, Sask., who some years ago used some Island breeding in his herd.

In Manitoba, a boar Highland Rowe Lad 2L, bred by Rowell Boswall, sired a litter scoring 94 for C. J. Edwards, Stonewall. In Quebec, the boar Diamond Hill King 12K, bred by Sylvere J. F. Arsenault, Wellington, sired two litters scoring 96 and 94 for Gerard Gosselin, St. Anselme. In Alberta, the boar Long River 5K, bred by William Found, sired a litter scoring 92 for H. Hillary & Sons, Ohaton. In Nova Scotia, the boar Kimberley Mac 61K, bred by N. W. MacLeod & Sons, sired a litter scoring 96 for John Anderson, Westville.

In the January Advanced Registry report there were twelve sows scoring 90 or over. Six of these tested litters were sired by Island bred boars.

This outstanding record in other provinces is evidence of the impact Island Yorkshires are making across Canada.

The first order for Island Yorkshires to go beyond the Rocky Mountains has been received from Colony Farm, Essondale, B.C. The Superintendent there has ordered two boars to be shipped this month.

London Papers Comment On Eisenhower Ottawa Visit

LONDON (AP) — The Daily Telegraph, in commenting on the visit of President Eisenhower to Canada, says it is because Canatian tefence arrangements are an integral part of U.S. planning that "the Canadian people and Parliament have as close a right to question and criticize as the American people and Congress."

It adds:

"But it is not realized here just how far Canada and the United States have integrated their joint air defence. So far as NATO is concerned the Americans have exercized the greatest caution in placing any American forces under effective foreign control.

But in the case of North American Air Defence Washington has shown far greater trust."

"Against this background of basic life - and - death confidence, friction about economies, oil, wheat and investments fade into insignificance."

SHOWS MORE WISDOM

The News Chronicle, saying there is a rising trend of anti-Americanism in Canada, comments:

"In both the recent elections this negative and destructive sentiment was exploited by the Progressive Conservatives—Mr. Diefenbaker's party. Since his overwhelming victory last March the Canadian leader has been showing more wisdom . . .

"It is clear the new government in Ottawa realizes that the greatness of Canada's future depends on good relations with the United States. The more President Eisenhower can do to make it easy for Mr. Diefenbaker to persuade the Canadian people of this the better."

The Times says:

"Mr. Diefenbaker has to harmonize with the maintenance of neighborly relations his policy, declared in his election campaign, of releasing Canadian trade from its too close involvement with the United States market and developing its links with the United Kingdom."

Signs Bill To Admit Alaska To Statehood

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower Monday signed legislation to make Alaska the 49th state, and took the occasion to urge statehood for Hawaii.

Shortly after he signed the Alaska statehood bill, Eisenhower issued a statement once more calling upon Congress to admit Hawaii as a state during this session of Congress.

"I personally believe that Hawaii is qualified for statehood equally with Alaska," Eisenhower said.

"Okay, now that's 49 states," Eisenhower commented.

Then, as an afterthought, he added: "No, maybe we don't do that until the plebiscite."

The reference was to balloting this fall in which Alaskans are to vote whether to accept immediate statehood and the terms of the bill on which Congress completed action a week ago.

Pinetree Line Range To Be Extended, Says

OTTAWA (CP) — An RCAF spokesman said Monday night the altitude range of the Pinetree radar warning line is being increased so that it can detect the latest Russian bombers.

The spokesman said the move is part of improvements constantly going on to ensure the system is capable of handling existing threats.

Pinetree is the southernmost of the three main lines of North America's radar warning network. Part of its function is to keep attacking aircraft spotted and to direct interceptors sent out to meet them. Its present and projected altitude range are a defence secret.

The spokesman was elaborating on statements Monday by Defence Minister Pearkes before the Commons estimates committee in which the minister indicated the existing system cannot detect some bombers the Russians now have.

Mr. Pearkes was referring primarily to the Pinetree line, the spokesman said. This did not rule out the possibility the other lines —DEW and Mid-Canada — can detect Russia's most modern bombers

Describe Image Freak Incident

KILLALOE, Ont. (CP) — An image of the Virgin Mary that appeared mysteriously on the front window pane of a killaloe home — and was thought by some to be a "miracle" — was described Monday as a freak incident.

Thousands of curious visitors thronged last week to this Renfrew county village, 25 miles southwest of Pembroke, after Mrs. Margaret Sullivan reported finding the image on the large front window of her home. She said the image, about seven inches high, showed the Virgin holding the Infant Jesus.

But Rev. J. C. Schruder, parish priest of St. Andrew's Roman Catholic Church, said Monday it was a "freak incident" apparently caused by one of the 13 Sullivan children holding a paper transfer against the glass.

Dump 2,000 Tons Of Ore From Ship

MONTREAL (CP)—About 2,000 tons of cargo has been taken from the ore carrier Cosmic, which ran aground at Bird Rock, near the Magdalen Islands July 2, it was reported Monday.

A. G. Sullivan, general manager of Foundation Maritime Ltd., said five company tugs and the biggest floating crane on the east coast are attempting to refloat the 29,500-ton Cosmic.

"If the weather holds we contemplate her being refloated in a week or 10 days," he said.

The ship was carrying 45,000 tons of cargo when she ran aground.

N. V. Laskey, a Montreal naval architect who designed the ship, said all ballast tanks on the port side of the ore carrier have been filled with compressed air. This now is being done to tanks on the starboard side.

Mr. Laskey said about 12,000 tons of ore would have to be dumped before the vessel could be freed.

Girl Guides Attending Adventure Camp Are Feted

The Province of Prince Edward Island and the City of Charlottetown in particular spread wide the "welcome mat" yesterday to the Girl Guides attending the Atlantic Adventure Camp at Brackley Beach. The members of the Executive of the Canadian Council of the Girl Guide Association of Prince Edward Island provided cars for the transportation of the group consisting of guides from Scotland, Ireland, Wales, England, United States and ten provinces of Canada to Charlottetown for an enjoyable sightseeing experience.

In the morning the girls visited the Confederation Chamber, the Birthplace of the Canadian nation, St. Peter's Chapel, viewing the works of the Island artist, Robert Harris, St. Dunstan's Basilica and other spots of historic interest.

At noon, they were the guests of the Charlottetown Rotary Club at a luncheon at the Charlottetown Hotel, where they were addressed by Dr. Frank MacKinnon director of Canada Council, Principal of Prince of Wales College.

In the afternoon, they were the guests of His Honour Lieutenant governor F. Walter Hyndman and Mrs. Hyndman at a buffet supper at Government House.

Last evening they were the guests of the Provincial Exhibition Association for an evening of harness racing under the floodlights of the Exhibition Park before returning to their campsite at Brackley Beach.

Immigrant Decides He Will Stick With His Second Wife

MONTREAL (CP) — Joseph Ungar, a Hungarian immigrant who remarried here five years ago believing his first wife had died in a Nazi gas chamber, apparently has decided to remain with his second wife, his lawyer said Monday.

Lawyer Adolphe Gardner said he has halted proceedings to annul the marriage in 1953 of the 37-year-old machinist to Thelma Rosenberg of Montreal.

Mr. Gardner said he had learned that Mr. Ungar "apparently intends to desist and since it is a civil case he has every right to do so."

"Though he must advise me in writing I have not heard from him. But in the meantime I have stopped my proceedings for the annulment."

The lawyer said he was retained to annul the second marriage after Mr. Ungar learned his first wife, the former Martha Roth, is alive.

The woman, 35, has also remarried, thinking he was dead. She took up residence in New York City with her second husband, Ferencz Frankel, a plumber. They have one child.

Ungar visited his first wife in New York during the weekend and she later told reporters they had discussed plans for resuming their married life where they left off in 1943 when they were sent to separate concentration camps.

Upon their release after the war both were told the other had died. They learned each was alive only last April.

The woman married Mr. Frankel in 1956 before fleeing Hungary during the October revolution. She said she had not been living with him for the last four weeks.

"Ferencz is not happy about it, but he knows I won't be nappy unless I go back with Joseph," she said.

Ungar was not available for comment.

Rebels Free Another Three Still Hold 30

GUATANAMO, Cuba (AP) — Fidel Castro's rebels freed three more U.S. civilians Monday, but still held on to 30 kidnapped American servicemen, three civilians and a Canadian.

Officials at the U.S. Navy base here had hoped the helicopter carrying the three businessmen would also bring out a few of the servicemen. There was an outburst of anger among many sailors and marines at the base when the 'copter landed without them.

The kidnappings began June 26 but there have been none since July 1.

Castro is reported to have ordered the release of all North Americans taken captive by his men in northeastern Oriente province. But the releases have been slow and come only in small groups. The Canadian still he'd is Richard Sargent of Toronto, a sugar mill manager.
