

PRESBYTERIAN SYNOD, Further Proceedings.

WEDNESDAY AFTERNOON.

After the Synod had been constituted with prayer by Rev. W. P. Archibald, an overture of the Wallace Presbytery...

Rev. E. A. McCurdy presented the report of the Augmentation Committee. The success of this movement, which was inaugurated a few years ago...

WEDNESDAY EVENING.

This session, which was devoted to Missions, Home and Foreign, was enlivened by the presence of the organist and some of the members of the very excellent choir of Zion Church...

Rev. P. M. Morrison, agent of the church, presented the Foreign Mission report. The total expenditure of the church last year for foreign missions was a little over $19,000...

Rev. L. G. McNeill followed in a deeply interesting address, in which he reviewed the successful work which is being done in the foreign mission fields of the church...

Rev. A. McLean made an earnest appeal to the members of Synod for some one to come forward to fill the vacancy in the mission staff of Trinidad. He maintained that the church is still only "playing at missions."

HOME MISSIONS.

The Home Mission report was presented by Rev. John McMillan in an earnest, practical address, full of interesting statistics. If home mission work is to be prosecuted vigorously...

Rev. Dr. McRae spoke briefly of Home Mission work within the bounds of the St. John Presbytery; and Mr. Clark, a student of the Presbyterian College, Halifax, gave his experience of mission work in Newfoundland.

Rev. D. M. Gordon, whose deep interest in this branch of the Church's work is attested by the fact that his congregation stands at the head of the list in the amount contributed to this scheme...

Rev. Mr. Munro, of Antigonish, in a few earnest words, brought the discussion to a close.

THURSDAY MORNING.

The Synod met at 10 o'clock, and was constituted with prayer by the Rev. Dr. Bennett.

The committee appointed to consider the overture of the Wallace Presbytery in reference to the lengthening of the time of Synod met next year Thursday evening, and continue in session over Sabbath. After considerable discussion this recommendation was adopted.

On Motion of Rev. A. Falconer, the Synod decided to meet next year in Prince Street Church, Pictou.

Rev. M. G. Henry presented the report of the Committee on Systematic Benevolence. It was a most rigorous and cheering report, showing a large increase in the liberality of the people. P. E. Island increased its contributions to the schemes of the church 12 per cent. The total amount contributed by the Synod to these purposes was $35,449.

Rev. D. Sutherland and seconded by Rev. E. D. Miller, and unanimously adopted.

Rev. J. D. McGillivray presented the report of the Committee on Sabbath Observance, which deplored the systematic attempt in some places to break down the Christian Sabbath. Nothing that has yet been done has succeeded in preventing the desecration of the Sabbath by the Intercolonial and other railways. On motion of Mr. McGillivray the report of the committee was adopted.

Now is the time to get bargains in Suits & Reefers at John McLeod & Co.

King's County Exhibition

A Fine Day and a Fine Show.

A Large Number Present.

A STORMY night and a cloudy morning proceeding a magnificent harvest day are not conditions under which a very successful exhibition could be anticipated. Nevertheless, the Exhibition at Georgetown today was fully up to the average of former years. The attendance was very large, and it would, no doubt, have been larger if the harvest had all been gathered in.

Among those present were His Honor the Lieut.-Governor and Mrs. McDonald, Mrs. Haszard, Mrs. McGowan, Lieut.-Col. Irving, A. D. C., Hon. L. C. Owen, Hon. D. Ferguson, C. C. Gardner, Richard Hunt, James Reddin, Capt. Malcolm McLeod, Mr. Bent, of the Agriculturist, Mr. Nash, of the Patriot, and other ladies and gentlemen who came by special train from Charlottetown; Hon. Mr. Bentley, H. L. McDonald, M. P. P., Dr. Mutart, Souris; Dr. Robertson, Hon. D. Gordon, Hon. A. J. McDonald, A. C. McDonald, Montague; Mr. Alleyne, Edinburgh, and many other prominent gentlemen of King's and Queen's Counties.

Among the articles exhibited, which are specially worthy of note, was a straw cutter invented by Mr. Chowan Anderson, a very simple and very effective instrument. There was also a sample of pure Cod Liver Oil, and Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil, clarified and prepared by Mr. Richard W. Jordan, of Murray Harbor South, which seemed to be fully as good as any on sale in the Drug Stores.

The exhibit of grain and wheat was good in the several classes.

The 1st prize White Wheat weighed 64 1/2 lbs., 2d prize, 63 lbs. Red Wheat, 1st prize, 64 lbs.; 2d prize, 63 1/2 lbs.

The potatoes on exhibition were large and fine, but the varieties were few.

Fruit was small, but a very fine exhibit, Mr. Robertson, of Inkerman Farm, being the principal exhibitor.

A number of very well-bred pigs were on exhibition.

Mr. Fred. Boyer, Royalty, Robert and Wm. Gordon of New Perth, and others exhibited very fine animals in the classes for sheep and cattle.

The show of horses was not large, but Hepburn Clyde, a very fine draft stallion, owned by Mr. Anneer of Montague; Branch Pilot, a beautiful carriage stallion, sired by Black Pilot and owned by Wm. D. Shaw, of New Perth, and Mr. Sinnamon's Abalah would have attracted attention on any show ground.

Germany's Great Sensation.

THE LATE EMPEROR'S DIARY.

The publication of the Emperor Frederick's diary is everywhere recognized as an event of the greatest national importance. Official and political circles, however, that are intimately versed in the innermost history of the construction of the German Empire, have been astounded by the publication, while the whole German people are stirred to their very depths by the revelations which show the real greatness of the deceased Emperor Frederick, his influence in creating the Empire and his noble aims for its future.

Extracts of the diary were communicated to the Deutsche Rundschau through the Baden statesman Baron von Roggenbach, who was long an intimate friend of the late Emperor, and was much with him during his illness at St. Remo. Baron Roggenbach, it seems, had the assent of the Empress to the publication of the extract, but neither Prince Bismarck nor the present Emperor William was consulted. It is, therefore, thought probable that the publication will have some startling results as affecting the personages concerned in the revelations. It is significant that the North German Gazette, Bismarck's organ, has not yet mentioned the diary.

The National Zeitung complains of the indiscretion of the publication as shown in the selection of the passages, and says it was obviously not intended by the Emperor Frederick that they should be made public. It instances the revelation that at Versailles there was much friction between the Emperor—then Crown Prince—and Prince Bismarck over the declaration of the existence of the German Empire, that Bismarck drafted the letter in which the King of Bavaria is made to appear as having reluctantly invited King William of Prussia to assume the Imperial dignity, and that in October of 1870 Bismarck informed the Grand Duke of Baden of his determination "to wage persistent war against the papal doctrine of 'infallibility,'" and to otherwise assail the influence of the Catholic Church in Germany. It is argued that a disclosure of the nature of this last revelation is alike wanton and imprudent, and will tend to revive the slumbering fires of the Kulturkampf again, and to direct the rage of the Clericals against Bismarck as the sole origin of the policy of the repression of Catholics.

INDISCREET REVELATIONS.

Another of these indiscreet revelations is pointed out to be the statement of the deceased Emperor that during the negotiations at Versailles it was proposed to proclaim as King of France Leopold II., King of the Belgians. M. Thiers said he would favor the scheme, if it implied a union of Belgium and France. The diary does not state the reason for the abandonment of the proposal, but the French people will accurately surmise that Prince Bismarck's project to create a Franco-Belgian monarch, implied the disruption of France into several states, and the acquisition by Belgium of the northern provinces. The project is certain of revival, if France should be crushed in the coming war.

HIS UNFAILING KINDLINESS.

The most touching feature of the diary is the evidence of the unflinching kindness of Crown Prince Frederick's disposition and his diffidence of character.

On July 24, 1870, the eve of the French campaign, he writes:

At the baptism of my last born the King was too much affected to hold the child. Which of us will come back? I am appointed to act on the flanks of the principal army. I shall scarcely be able to carry out the great enterprise.

When victory was declared on the side of the Germans, he comforts a French colonel, a prisoner, who had said, "We have lost everything," by replying, "You are wrong in saying that you have lost everything. Having fought like brave soldiers you have not lost your honor."

On the day of the battle of Sedan he writes:

Die Weltgeschichte ist das Weltgericht comes to me from my school days. Napoleon comes up in the middle of a potato field near Douche; Bismarck and Von Moltke run up to him. He wants passage for his army into Belgium. Bismarck speaks to Napoleon. He tells him that the King insists upon an unconditional surrender. The capitulation is a signal. I proposed Wilhelmshohe as a place of residence for Napoleon, and advised the King to ride and meet the Emperor.

THE MOMENTOUS INTERVIEW.

The Crown Prince then describes the interview as related to him by the King. Napoleon assured the King that he had only given in to public opinion when he resolved upon war. He showed marvellous ignorance of the German armies. He thought the force before Sedan was the Red Prince's army. He asked where Prince Frederick Charles was. The King answered: "With seven army corps before Metz." Napoleon drew back with every sign of painful surprise. His face contracted itself painfully. For the first time he knew that he had not had the flower of the German army opposed to him. After a half hour's interview the King and the Emperor came out. The latter, perceiving me, held out one hand, while with the other he wiped away the tears which were running down his cheeks.

ENGLAND'S ATTITUDE.

Referring to the attitude of England after the German triumph was assured, he writes on October 20:

The Queen, who follows our acts with touching sympathy, telegraphed to the King, exhorting him to "high-souled dealing."

Commenting on the fact that each side appealed to Heaven in its own behalf, there occurs on December 25 the following entry:

It is really a piece of irony on the message of good will that each party calls on God to aid its cause. In every success we incline to prove by it that the support of Heaven is against our opponents.

The last entry before the return to Germany displays the nobleness of the man:

March 8th.—When I see my endeavors to help the oppressed acknowledged by Germany and her neighbor, and that the people are gaining confidence in my future, I feel quite happy. Moral earnestness in political convictions can only be the result of inward maturity of inward struggles, which must be continued daily and for which one's self is responsible.

The Regatta.

The weather for the regatta to-day was beautiful. No better could have been desired, though it was rather rough for the smaller boats. Quite a crowd were on the Grand Stand, and all other points on the wharves and streets from which a view of the races could be obtained were crowded. Much interest was taken in the various races, and it was easy to see that the regatta was enjoyed by all present, who speak highly of the hard-working committee who had the affair in charge.

Much fun was caused in some of the juvenile races, and altogether the spectators were kept in good humor from beginning till the last of the races.

The sailboats of the 1st class got off well. The Surprise took the start, the Mystery and Vixen making poor work. Surprise kept her start and passed the stand before the others on the first round.

In the 2d class sailboats, the Greyhound, Alexandra and Wanderer got off well together, and made good work, the Wanderer leading past the stand.

All the boats in this class were well managed and looked well.

A double scull shell was upset this afternoon, and its occupants, Frank McDonald and James Dorsey, thrown into the water. They were quickly rescued by Mr. Joy and Mr. Hogan, who took a boat to their assistance. Further than a cold, uncomfortable wetting, the two young men were unhurt.

The other races we have not been able to find the result of, owing to unusual pressure on our columns; but the scores, with full particulars of the Regatta, will be all given in to-morrow's EXAMINER.

A Priest Killed.

The accidental death of Rev. Father Lefloch, of Grand Digue N. B. and parish priest there is announced. On Saturday afternoon he received a hurried sick call and left his home to attend the bedside of the stricken person. About half a mile from his residence his horse took fright and running away threw the reverend gentleman to the ground. Father Lefloch, who was a short thick-set man fell heavily and received severe contusions of the head. He was taken home and continued to bleed from both the nose and ears; suffering intense agony, which terminated on Sunday evening at seven o'clock in his death. Drs. Legere and Bervilleau of Shediac, did all that could be done to save his life but in vain.

Celery is an article of food that is coming more into favor as its medicinal properties come to light. Are you nervous, irritable, or out of sorts? Do not, I pray you, fly to quack mixtures, or destroy the nervous system by a too liberal use of the pipe or cigar. "Come, let us reason together." Throw your medicine to the dogs; the loss of a stray canine or two would not be missed in our now over-populated dog life. Are you a smoker? Throw your black poisonous saturated pipe in a tub to soak, and for one month bid good-bye to medicine and pipe, and try a judicious, systematic use of Gay's pure white celery, (unsulphurated, as nature provides), and if you are not benefited by the experiment there must be something radically wrong in your composition. A fine retail supply on hand at our stalls, Market House, Charlottetown. Orders taken now for winter supplies. Address, JAMES J. GAY & SON, Pownal. sep 13 mon & thu tf

In an obscure little town in Mexico lives a lineal descendant of Montezuma II., the legal heir to the Aztec throne. Senor Montezuma, as he is called, indulges in no idle dreams of the restoration of the ancient empire, and quietly accepts the pension allowed him by the Government. There is also living a descendant of the Indian Emperor Chimalpopoca, who is a civil engineer of much ability.

PIANO, ORGAN, SINGING,

Choir Training, Taxidermy.

MR. EARLE desires to inform the Musical Public that he has opened up a correspondence with some of the leading Musicians in England, United States and Canada, for the purpose of ascertaining for himself if there is anything "new" in Piano and Organ Playing, Teaching and Singing. Should there be, his pupils will receive the benefit.

He gives lessons at his own house as well as at the residence of the pupils, and makes a specialty of teaching beginners as well as advanced players.

He is Agent for the celebrated NEWCOMBE PIANOS. The following testimonial speaks for itself:

We, the undersigned, preferring the Newcombe Pianos, have much pleasure in testifying that those we have bought from Mr. Earle have given complete satisfaction.
