WOODSTOCK, N. B., is being rebuilt rapidly. The new houses are almost entirely of wood.

CITY COUNCIL.—There will be a meeting of the City Council this forenoon, at 10 o'clock sharp.

MR. OXENHAM—who has received the appointment—will make an excellent Secretary to the Charlottetown Board of School Trustees.

PERSONALS.—Rev. G. W. Hodgson arrived home yesterday evening. J. R. McLean, M. P. P., and C. F. Champion, arrived home last evening from Halifax.

CADETS OF TEMPERANCE.—The Fifth annual session of the Grand Section will be held in Charlottetown, P. E. I., on Wednesday, the 15th August.—Hx. Herald.

PLANTS IN FLOWER.—Exquisite novelties in variety at lowest cash prices. Call at Hazard's Conservatory, Euston Street, near St. Peter's Road.—2i sat and wed.

ERRATUM.—A typographical mistake occurred in an item in yesterday's issue, stating the value of the steamer Worcester's cargo. The value was $7,000 instead of $1,000.

CONTEMPT OF COURT.—During the trials before His Honor the Stipendiary Magistrate yesterday morning, three witnesses were "sent up" ten days each for contempt of Court.

FISHING VESSELS.—About fifty sail of vessels were in the vicinity of the Breakwater last evening. The catch of mackerel is reported as being rather small as yet.—Ross's Weekly.

ACKNOWLEDGMENT.—We are in receipt of The Fortnightly Review, edited by John Morley, and published by Bedford Bros., of Toronto. It is brim full of the choicest reading, and presents a very fine appearance.

SUMMERSIDE POST OFFICE.—We understand that the New Post Office at Summerside is to be supplied with boxes fitted with the "Peters' Combination Lock." They will present a very neat appearance, and put summerside in advance of the other Post Offices of the Island.

INFAMOUS.—An attempt has been made by some miscreants to throw the train off the track by placing obstructions thereon between Harmony station and Souris. This is a most serious affair and every effort should be made to bring the villains to justice, as their murderous purpose was frustrated only by the watchfulness of the persons on the train.—Ross's Weekly.

At the Stipendiary Magistrate's Court yesterday morning, Daniel Callaghan, drunk and disorderly, was fined $2 or 8 days. George Hutchison, drunk and incapable, fined $3, or 14 days. John Arnold, vagrancy and drunk, fined $2 or 8 days. Jas. Callaghan, arrested on complaint of John Tennessy for abusive language, fined 50 cents without costs. Postponed case of John Langan and Francis McAtee, arrested on complaint of W. Boira, for being drunk and fighting on his premises, fined $6, or one month imprisonment with labor. Geo. Ryan, for selling liquor without license, case adjourned until to-day. Michael Purcell, Francis McCarthy, James Kelly, James Goodman and Malcolm McKinnon—arrested for burglary on the store of James Byrns, adjourned till to-day. In the case of George Ryan, for selling liquor without license, Patrick Lamb and Francis Watte, both witnesses in the matter, were remanded 10 days each for contempt of court, unless they shall in the meantime answer the questions put to them. In the case for burglary, John Bell, a witness, was remanded 10 days for contempt of court, unless he shall answer, in the meantime, the questions put to him.

ANOTHER "REFORM" CARD.

To the Editor of the Examiner.

Sir,—I have seen a copy of an address to the electors of Ward 4, issued by Mr. D. H. McKinnon, which, for egregious non sense, exceeds any public card I have ever read. I tell you, Sir, that any man, I care not what his standing in society may be, who writes such horrible trash respecting "retrenchment and (whole-) sale of city debentures" as Mr. McKinnon writes, is utterly unfit to represent even so small a constituency as a ward in our small city. I am quite willing to hear the advocacy of earnest economy, but the candidate for Civic representation who advocates the reduction of taxes on rental, without promising to provide for the loss, from some other source, would only disgrace himself in the City Council.

Respectfully, REASON.

Ch'town, August 3, 1877.

OUR WASHINGTON LETTER.

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 31, 1877.

OUR city is rapidly settling down to its normal condition after the turmoil and excitement over the disturbance caused by the strikers on the railroad. Such a state of affairs never before existed in our beloved land; and the wretchedness and suffering that will result from it are fearful to contemplate. The misery that these riotous times causes falls upon the already poverty stricken classes; therefore the harm seems all the greater. Poor people who have been ground down so low that, in their abject destitution they have grown desperate, have brought all this death and destruction upon themselves. Trodden upon, they have turned, only to meet a swifter punishment from the foot already upon their necks. Their revolt is their voluntary ruin. But the suffering caused by it is the same. When the scanty portion, by which these workmen are able to feed their families, from day to day, is cut off, what can the helpless ones do but beg, and starve, and die. There's not so much to choose after all, between their lots, and those of their sons, brothers, husbands, and fathers, who were stricken dead by one blow of a brick bat, or trampled to dust by the infuriated mob of which they were, a moment before, forming a part. There is nothing amusing or laughable in the dreadful condition of things from which thousands are suffering to-day, nothing other than lamentable and sorrowful in the extreme. Last Sunday week, Henry Ward Beecher in his own pulpit, referring to it, proclaimed the comforting (?) fact that "a man who can't live on bread and water, isn't fit to live," and that a man may live, love, and be happy on bread and good water in the morning, water and good bread at noon, and good bread and water at night." Also, that a dollar a day is enough to buy bread for even a large family. The latter assertion is a fact. But besides bread, a family must be clothed and sheltered, lighted and warmed. When worst comes to worst, people can, and do die of starvation and exposure. But it makes their survivors more the more docile. People who, in tone and manner, if not in words, taunt the suicidal rioters into wilder desperation yet—as Mr. Beecher's sermon on the present crisis seems to do—cannot give the poor wretches such an answer, as did the young and sickly Napoleon to a busy fish wife in Paris when she yelled to the mob she was heading, "these soldiers and aristocrats care not if we poor people starve, so long as they grow fat!" Said the brave young Napoleon "Look at me, good woman, and tell me which is the fatter, you or I."

As soon as practicable after this strikers commotion came to be considered serious, steps were taken for the protection of Government buildings and property here. Indeed, troops were collected and placed on guard here when it would seem that the first thing to be done was to send military help to Martinsburg or Baltimore. The Government looks out for number one first, however, like smaller institutions and even individuals, and the capital is well protected from riots, mobs, or any like uprising. Double night watches have guarded the Treasury, which is always the objective point, and telegraph wires were extended to President Hayes' summer residence at Soldiers' Home, so that he might be informed of any sudden intelligence of importance.

The Capital is the Capital only in name and in its public buildings now. The Patent Office, the Treasury, the White House and the Capital stand in their accustomed places; but there is no life or business. Everybody is out of town, and we who are left live more in our dreams with friends in the country, at the sea side or on the mountains, than here in the heated, broiling, drowsy city, where nothing is sweet or fresh or invigorating. Men and women walk about the streets—those who must be out, with wet sponges in their hat tops and even horses are provided with brain shades or wear huge saturated sponges between their ears. There is but another month of extreme heat, though, and then the city will begin to fill up—earlier than usual because of the session of Congress in October.

M. M. W.

By an explosion in a mould of hot metal, in a Pittsburgh foundry, on the 1st inst., two men were fatally and eight seriously injured.

The Bathing Houses in the West side of the city are every day attended by large numbers of people. Unfortunately the people of the east end have no good place to indulge in this refreshing exercise.
