Long-Standing

Blood Diseases are cured by the persevering use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla.

This medicine is an Alterative, and causes a radical change in the system. The process, in some cases, may not be quite so rapid as in others; but, with persistence, the result is certain. Read these testimonials:—

"For two years I suffered from a severe pain in my right side, and had other troubles caused by a torpid liver and dyspepsia. After giving several medicines a fair trial without a cure, I began to take Ayer's Sarsaparilla. I was greatly benefited by the first bottle, and after taking five bottles I was completely cured."—John W. Benson, 70 Lawrence st., Lowell, Mass.

Last May a large carbuncle broke out on my arm. The usual remedies had no effect and I was confined to my bed for eight weeks. A friend induced me to try Ayer's Sarsaparilla. Less than three bottles healed the sore. In all my experience with medicine, I never saw more Wonderful Results.

Another marked effect of the use of this medicine was the strengthening of my sight."—Mrs. Carrie Adams, Holly Springs, Texas.

"I had a dry scaly humor for years, and suffered terribly; and, as my brother and sister were similarly afflicted, I presume the malady is hereditary. Last winter, Dr. Tyson, (of Ferrandina, Fla.) recommended me to take Ayer's Sarsaparilla, and continue it for a year. For five months I took it daily. I have not had a blemish upon my body for the last three months."—P. E. Wiley, 149 Chambers st., New York City.

"Last fall and winter I was troubled with a dull, heavy pain in my side. I did not notice it much at first, but it gradually grew worse until it became almost unbearable. During the latter part of this time, disorders of the stomach and liver increased my troubles. I began taking Ayer's Sarsaparilla, and, after faithfully continuing the use of this medicine for some months, the pain disappeared and I was completely cured."—Mrs. Augusta A. Furbush, Haverhill, Mass.

Celery! Celery!

GAY & SONS are taking orders for winter supply of Celery. Celery packed in boxes or barrels, and delivered on board car or steamer without extra charge. Orders taken at the Market, Charlottetown, or address J. J. Gay & Son, Pownal. Prices range from 25 to 40 cents per dozen, our best at $3 per hundred. Taking the medicinal properties of Celery into consideration, and the prevalence of fevers in our midst, it is a wonder that even more of this truly medicinal plant is not used.

My dear fellow dyspeptic sufferers, have you tried mulling a stalk of Celery as a finishing off (so to speak) at each meal? If you have not, make a start; if you have, I need not tell you why.

Parnell Commission.

THE "TIMES" COUNSEL CONTINUES HIS POWERFUL SPEECH.

LONDON, Nov. 20.—Continuing his speech in behalf of the Times before the Parnell commission to-day Sir Henry James referred to the fight of Patrick Egan as proof of criminal conduct, and declared there was other proof of his association with the Phoenix Park murderers. He next referred to Byrne's alleged complicity in the murders while he was acting as secretary for the Parnellite party. Alluding to the suppression of the league's books, Sir Henry said he did not wish to direct suspicion against Mr. Lewis, nor to make allegations against him, still he could not help thinking that an astute gentleman had been imposed upon regarding the missing books. If the commission could have got the books they would have been found to contain records, showing Byrnes and other members of the Parnellite party were connected in a financial way with the invincibles. The defence put forward by Sir Charles Russell on this aspect of the case was open to the gravest suspicion.

Sir Henry also briefly touched upon the forged letters published by the Times. Sir Charles Russell, Sir Henry said, had not suggested, while acting as counsel for Parnell that the Times knew the letters were forgeries. Sir Charles had spoken as he had been instructed. Sir Henry declared that everyone connected with the Times was interested in proving the genuineness of the letters.

Presiding Justice Hannan recalled the suggestions made by Sir Charles that Buckle, editor of the Times, neither approved nor authorized the publication of the letters, in which attitude he differed with the manager of the paper.

Sir Henry replied, Buckle does not now and never has desired to stand aloof from his colleagues. Whatever might be alleged against the Times and its bona fides, the production of the letters could not be questioned.

LONDON.—Argument on behalf of the Times by Sir Henry James was continued before the Parnell commission to-day. Referring to moonlighters in Ireland, he said they acted more like burglars than the police of the league. Their actions were not reprobated by the leaders of the league. It was not until February, 1886, when the Parnellite members of the House of Commons were supporting the government that the leaders of the league refused a grant of money to a certain district, owing to outrages committed therein.

Sir Henry referred to the murder of Brett by Allen, Gould and Larkin, near Manchester, in 1857. He said the murders were held up as heroes worthy of imitation, and David himself unveiled a monument to their memory. Sir Henry referred to the difficulty the Times experienced in getting evidence relative to the transactions of the inner circle of the league, and for this reason Attorney General Webster was not able to prove all the statements made in his address in opening the case for the Times. The most important witnesses on the Parnellite side of the case, Sir Henry declared, had willfully absented themselves. Court adjourned.

Europe Will Be Republican.

Senor Castelar, the eminent Spanish statesman, says the establishment of a republic in Brazil is simply in accordance with the enlightened ideas of the country, and will have a marked effect in liberalizing the Portuguese monarchy. It will, he says, have little effect in Spain, where the government is very liberal and is of its own accord approaching a point where republicanism will assert itself as a matter of course by universal consent of the people. The sway of the autocracy on the old continent, he says, is over, and he thoroughly believes that in fifty years Europe will be republican from end to end. These great changes, he thought, would be accomplished without war.

The fugitive Emperor Dom Pedro will have difficulty in finding anybody among the crowned heads of Europe to cheer him up. The throne of Portugal, which country is his immediate destination, is reported to be tottering. The infant King of Spain isn't big enough or strong enough to afford consolation; the King of Italy suffers from chronic gastritis; the King of Holland is on his deathbed; the Czar is hypochondriac; the Emperor of Austria is heart-broken; the German Emperor's physical defects are well known; the King of Servia is a boy with parents who live apart and hate one another with all their hearts. In fact all the sovereigns of Europe are in a bad way, save only Queen Victoria and the kings of Denmark, Sweden and Greece. About the only rulers who may be said to be truly happy are those who owe their elevation to the suffrages of the people they govern.

Odds and Ends.

"Please tell me where I am to go. I was invited to see the transit of Venus." "I am extremely sorry, madam, but you are two late. The transit was over fifteen minutes ago." "Oh, that's no matter. The superintendent is a friend of mine and I am sure he will have it done over again for me."

Small Boy—"Say pa, I want you to get me a bicycle." Old Man—"Can't afford it, my son. Rent too high, coal too dear. Besides, I don't want you to break your neck." Small boy—"Well, then, a tricycle." Old Man—"Can't do it. But I'll tell you what you can have. When winter comes I'll try and get you a nice long icicle." [The youngster is pacified].

"At last!" he exclaimed triumphantly. "Yes, Charlie," she said shyly, "but only on one strict condition, you know, that I am to be the one."

To strengthen the hair, thicken the growth stop its blanching and falling out, and where it is gray to restore the youthful color, use Hall's Hair Renewer.

Luck.

It is the shallow who believe in luck, who say of a successful man, "He always was lucky," or of an unsuccessful one, "Poor fellow, just his luck!" A man's luck is generally the measure of his capacity and his perseverance. Cause produces the effect the world over. Water does not run up hill; nor do we gather, even in these days of progress, grapes of thorns, or figs of thistles. If we would gather golden grain, we must first sow the seed. If we would be wise we would work for wisdom. Riches, goodness, fame, love—each has its price, and can be purchased for no less. Life is a perpetual auction where all prizes are knocked down to the highest bidder. The world's great men have been those who have toiled early and late. Even genius can find no royal road to its goal. Goethe and Milton and Newton labored as the easy-going, fine gentlemen of literature cannot conceive. If they were great, they achieved greatness—it was not thrust upon them. Luck is ever waiting for something to turn up. Labor, with keen eyes and strong will, will turn up something. Luck lies in bed, and wishes the postman would bring him news of a legacy. Labor turns out at six o'clock, and, with busy pen or ringing hammer, lays the foundation of a competency. Luck whines; labor whistles. Luck relies on chance; labor on character. Luck slips down to indigence; labor strides upward to a dependence.

Be Explicit in Making Bargains.

It is evident that many law suits and unpleasant business differences, and considerable loss of money, could be avoided by explicitness in asking and giving prices, in ordering, and in making statements, either oral or written, regarding the details of transactions. Kicks and complaints are very common in the lumber business, says the Lumberman, and it applies equally to business transactions of every kind. Trouble arises from misunderstandings that might easily have been averted by carefulness at the outset of a deal, while in other instances definiteness of statement on the part of buyer or seller, in event of controversy, would have made plain the merits of a case that looks decidedly mixed because too much has been taken for granted. Inquiries often reach the Lumberman office regarding the right or wrong of a disputed point involving a rule or custom, but as a general thing a decision cannot be made without going into details that the inquirer omits to furnish. An ambiguous order should never be given, nor should goods be forwarded on the strength of it. If there is any opening for a mistake as to the dimensions or quality of stuff that is ordered, all the points should be definitely stated. Orders by telegraph especially are often too brief, are open to misconstruction or lacking in detail. If goods are so urgently wanted that they are telegraphed for, it is certainly highly important that there should be nothing wrong on their arrival. The great aim of most persons in writing out a message is to save a few cents by boiling it down—an economy that often loses dollars for the sender. An order by telegraph should be made to state exactly what is wanted, no matter how many words are required, and then in case of a dispute the buyer will have more ground to stand on.

Talmage on Newspapers.

A good newspaper is the grandest temporal blessing that God has given the people of this country.

In the first place, all the people read the newspapers, and the newspapers furnish the greater proportion of the reading to the people. They don't read books. The old people look for the deaths, the young look for the marriages, the business man reads the business and financial column, and those who are unemployed read the want "ads." Great libraries make few intelligent men and women, but newspapers lift the nation into sunlight.

My idea of a good newspaper is a mirror of life itself. Some people complain because the evil of the world is reported as well as the good. The evil must be reported as well as the good or how will we know what to guard against, or what to reform? There is a chance for discrimination as to how much space shall be given to reports of such things as prize fights, but the newspaper that merely presents the fair and beautiful and the bright side of life, is a misrepresentation. That family is best qualified for the duties of life who have told to them not only what good there is in the world, but what evil there is and is told to select the good and reject the evil.

Personal.

Mrs. Harriet Beecher Stowe is said to be mildly demoralized.

H. H. Warner, of Rochester, N. Y., has sold his Safe Cure interests to an English syndicate for $5,000,000.

The result of Lord Dufferin's address at Kircaldy, when he openly boasted of his Scottish ancestry, is beginning to be seen. He has been put in nomination against Lord Balfour of Burchell for the Lord Rectorship of St. Andrew's University, and the chances are that before Ireland is aware of it she will have lost one of the most gifted of her sons.

News Notes.

The United States man-of-war Pensacola, with the American scientific expedition on board, has arrived at Freetown, West Africa.

Smuggled whiskey, representing frauds on the customs amounting to $400,000, has been seized at L-wer St. Lawrence points within the last few days.

The Lady Godiva must have had exceptionally long hair since it completely concealed her lovely person. Since Ayer's Hair Vigor came into use such such examples are not so rare as formerly. It not only promotes the growth of the hair, but gives a rich, silken texture.
