Cranberry Growers Ask Cleared Situation

WASHINGTON (CP) — Cranberry producers angry and dismayed, demanded Tuesday that the government move quickly to locate and get off the market the cranberries it says are risky to eat.

The producers want to make sure housewives have no qualms about buying cranberries, traditional holiday fare. Otherwise, the growers and processors face heavy financial losses at the peak of their season.

There were sharp words, including a demand that he be fired, for Welfare Secretary Arthur Flemming, who told about the offending berries at a press conference Monday.

Flemming said parts of the 1959 cranberry crop from Oregon and Washington states were found to be contaminated by a weed killer—aminotriazole — that can produce cancer in rats.

An official of Ocean Spray Cranberries, Incorporated, a co-operative organization, reported in New York that 7,000 pounds of berries have been seized in British Columbia as being possibly contaminated.

WILL CO-OPERATE

He added that his firm will co-operate fully with the Canadian government in any tests of Ocean Spray products available to the Canadian market. The Canadian health department has announced it has launched its own investigation into possible berry contamination.

Officials in Ottawa said the department won't ban the weed killer until its use is definitely proved harmful. They also suggested that once the berries have been contaminated with the chemical, the contamination would survive cooking or processing as jams or jellies.

Flemming did not say how much of the crop might be affected, or where it might be on sale, but added that there was no reason to suspect the current crops from Wisconsin, New Jersey and Massachusetts.

British Columbia imports some berries from Washington and Oregon, and food stores throughout the province have been asked to stop selling cranberries while federal inspectors complete their job. B.C. and the Maritimes are the main sources of Canada's own crop.

WARNS WIVES

Flemming advised housewives to be on the safe side by not buying cranberries unless they can determine that the berries are not contaminated. That especially made the cranberry producers angry.

Flemming mentioned one 1959 lot from the Oregon-Washington area as having been distributed before it was identified. Another lot, he said, was caught before it was distributed. He added that the 1958 crop from the same area also is being tested.

The U.S. Food and Drug Administration said it also is trying to find out whether any other crops might have been contaminated by incorrect use of the weed killer.

Court May Seize Cotroni's Assets

MONTREAL (CP)—Court officials Wednesday began setting in motion necessary machinery for seizing assets of Giuseppe (Pepi) Cotroni should the underworld figure fail to pay $88,000 in fines and restitution.

Cotroni was sentenced last Monday to 10 years in penitentiary for trafficking in narcotics. In addition he was ordered to pay a $60,000 fine and $28,800 he received from police agents who "purchased" from him 13 ounces of heroin.

The heroin, through adulteration, had an illegal-market value of $8,000,000, police said. The "sale" to RCMP and U.S. federal treasury agents, posing as underworld characters, and Cotroni's arrest were effected last July at an east-end hotel.

Cotroni is understood to have until next week to pay the $88,000.

When he was sentenced last Monday thre was no ayiternate prison term should the amount not be paid. Mr. Justice Wilfrid Lazure told newspaper men the alternative would be seizure of Catroni's assets.

Police say Cotroni has interests in sundry businesses, including cafes, bar rooms, motels and apartment blocks.

Jean-Paul Ste. Marie, Crown prosecutor in the case, said Wednesday that absence of a prison sentence implied there was 'intention to collect the money."

Such proceedings are taken by way of civil courts by representatives or counsel for the Quebec attorney-general's department.

It could not be immediately ascertained how the money would be distributed between federal and provincial treasuries.

Meanwhile, Cotroni is scheduled for another court appearance Nov. 22 on a charge of possession of $9,700 of stolen bonds. They allegedly were part of the loot in May, 1958, from the Brockville, Ont. Trust and Savings Co.

In the Brockville robbery thieves took about $3,500,000 in bearer and registered bonds. Bonds worth $1,200,000 were recovered almost immediately.

Of the remainder all but about $300,000 worth had been recovered up to mid-summer this year, including about $1,400,000 worth bought back by an insurance company in an underground deal at 10 cents on the dollar.

About $6,000,000 in non-negotiable securities—worthless to the thieves—was also part of the Brockville loot.

Black Hawks Haven't Thought Of New Coach

CHICAGO (CP)—Tommy Ivan, general manager of the flounder-ing Chicago Black Hawks, said Wednesday "we've given no thought" to getting a replacement for coach Rudy Pilous.

The Hawks absorbed their 11th loss in 14 games Tuesday night as Toronto Maple Leafs defeated them 3-1. The Hawks have won only one — defeating New York Rangers 5-2 in the National Hockey League opener Oct. 7—and have eked out two ties for last place in the league.

This year's Hawks were supposed to be a stronger edition of the club that finished in third place last year with 28 wins and 13 ties against 29 losses.

Ivan was commenting on a rumor that started in NHL circles that Pilous was on his way out as a result of the team's poor start.

CONTRACT BRIDGE

BY B. JAY BECKER

The bidding has been One Heart on your right, Three Hearts on your left, Four Hearts on your right. Which card do you choose as your opening lead in each of the following five hands?

1. ♠982 ♥AJ3 ♦Q85 ♣AJ74
2. ♠K9632 ♥K85 ♦KQJ4 ♣3
3. ♠Q103 ♥654 ♦AJ8 ♣KJ74
4. ♠A9742 ♥1073 ♦4 ♣7632
5. ♠QJ7 ♥A85 ♦987 ♣7432

1. Nine of spades. The bidding indicates the opponents have about 26 points between them. There is therefore very little left for partner to have in the way of high cards. He is not apt to have more than 2 or 3 points.

Our hand has a good chance of winning two trump tricks and a club, but there is a reasonable prospect of getting either a diamond or a club trick in addition, provided these possibilities are not jeopardized by leading one of the two suits. By elimination, therefore, the spade is selected because it is the lead least likely to do harm.

2. King of diamonds. Here the best plan is to attack the suit where the opponents are most likely to be weak. The hope is to establish two diamond winners at once and possibly take two tricks elsewhere.

The singleton club lead is not apt to work out because it is unprobable that partner has an ace, in view of our 12 high-card points. It may turn out later that the club can be shifted to successfully, but the establishment of diamond tricks takes precedence in the aim to defeat the contract.

3. Six of hearts. There is too much danger of losing a trick by leading one of the three side suits, and a trump is therefore opened. It may also happen that declarer's ruffing power will be effectively reduced by repeated trump leads.

4. Four of diamonds. This time we have only 5 points and have to count on partner to hold about 8 or 10 points if the contract is to be defeated. It is unlikely that our side can take four tricks on straight power.

Three tricks are about all we can expect to take in high cards, and the singleton diamond is led as the best chance of obtaining a fourth trick. Even if the ruff does not develop, the lead may force declarer to draw trumps immediately to prevent it, and thus cut down his ruffing values.

5. Queen of spades. The best prospect of building up defensive tricks is to play partner for the king or ace of spades plus some side values. The less aggressive lead of a diamond or a club may lose important timing in the race to develop tricks. There is some danger attached to the spade lead, but a club or diamond lead is even more dangerous.

Yesterday's Answer

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE — Here's how to work it:
A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.
